

FRESHMEN DEFEAT SOPHOMORES IN EXCITING OLYMPICS COMBAT STAGED AT UNIVERSITY FARM

Large Crowd Witnesses Scrap of Lower Classes in Annual Combat—University Farm Scene of Events Staged by Opposing Factions in Effort for Class Supremacy.

Freshmen Uproot Pole to Tear Down Soph Colors

Push Ball Contest Was Struggle From Start to Finish With Both Sides Unable to Advance Ball for Any Great Distance—Final Event a General Free-for-All.

The Freshmen won a close and exciting victory over the Sophomores Saturday in their annual Olympic battle by the score of 40 to 35. The pole rush, which is generally the deciding factor, was not counted because the first year men, in their wild endeavor to tear down the Sophomore's colors, broke the pole and pushed it to the ground. The Freshmen had only three minutes time left when the accident occurred.

In the individual events the Sophomores had the edge over the Freshmen by the score of 25 to 15, but the Freshmen rallied in the free-for-all events and by force of numbers drove the Sophomores from the field.

The first event of the Olympics was the wrestling in the 135 pound class. Elbert Neuman, a first year man took this, winning five points for his class. The Sophomores took the three other classes of the wrestling. Spickler, a Sophomore, won the 175 pound class match over Eaton, a Freshman. Thomas, second year, threw Long, a Freshman, making a total of ten points for the Sophs and five for the Freshmen. The heavyweight match was won by Byers, a Sophomore, who downed Reed.

Boxing Matches Divided.

The two classes split evenly on the boxing events. Each class won two bouts. In the 135 pound division—Black, a Sophomore, won from Hollingsworth. The 150 pound class Quigley, a Sophomore, won from Curran after knocking him down several times. Drake, a first-year man, featured the boxing in the 175 pound class with a knockout. Thompson, a Freshman, won a decision from Layton.

The relay race was a case of a lot of bad luck for the first year students. The second man missed the wand on his turn and gave a twenty yard lead to the Sophs. The lead was partially cut down before the end of the race but it was too great to give the Freshmen any hope.

The tug-of-war and push bull went to the Freshmen totaling them with 40 of the possible 75 points. The second-year men started to walk away with the Freshmen in the tug-of-war but after two minutes the "wonders of the green" were back at (Continued on Page Four)

MANY ALUMNI ATTEND SATURDAY LUNCHEON

Three Hundred Present at Get-Togethers on Homecoming Day

Alumni of Nebraska University from all parts of the state and many of them from nearby states thronged Ellen Smith Hall Saturday for the Homecoming "get-togethers" planned for them by the Lincoln University of Nebraska Alumni Club. Many prominent Lincoln women took an active part preparing for the out-state "grads" and former students. Nearly three hundred guests attended the luncheon Saturday noon.

Although the party in the evening was not quite so hilarious as though the Cornhuskers had won from Notre Dame, in the afternoon, local alumni were present in large numbers. Many faculty members attended. Stories of University happenings of other days made the evening's entertainment more interesting.

Program of Dancing.

The rugs in the larger drawing room of the Hall were removed and the last part of the evening was spent in dancing. The University orchestra furnished the music. Punch was served in the dining room, by members of the class of 1920. Miss Blanche Gerten, chairman for the evening, was assisted by a reception committee composed of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Upson, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Bickford, Mr. and Mrs. Ellery Davis, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Haecker, Miss Sara Muir, and Miss Marjorie Selleck. The older alumni were particularly interested in seeing the portrait of Miss Ellen Smith, the early registrar in whose honor the hall is named. The portrait was painted by Miss Sarah Hayden and has hung in recent years in the registrar's office in the administration building. It was removed to the Ellen Smith Hall a few days ago. A recent addition to the gifts, a large tablet with the head of Lincoln, and his Gettysburg address, presented by Mabel Tuttle Towne, also attracted attention. This tablet was designed by another alumna, Elizabeth Tuttle Horsman. It hangs in the front room at the left of the entrance.

CAPTAIN "BILL" DAY IN ACTION. Captain Day played one of the best defensive games of his career Saturday when he repeatedly stopped the speedy Indiana backs.

Luehring Explains New Aims Of The Athletic Department

The points brought out in Director Luehring's address before University Freshmen Thursday, October 14, illustrate the new principles upon which the Department of Physical Education will be founded. Physical education, a much wider field than that known as college athletics, has become one of the most important divisions of the curriculum in the largest institutions in America during the past two years, according to the speaker.

Mr. Luehring contends that every man should have some experience in one of the typically fighting games such as football, basketball, water polo, boxing and wrestling. However, he believes that physical education extends beyond mere games and contests, and that it includes all provisions for the betterment of the physical condition of the individual.

The aims of the Physical Education Department at Nebraska, said Director Luehring, are as follows:

1. The maintenance and improvement of health during school days and in later life.
 2. The development of physical efficiency to its fullest extent.
 3. Reactional exercise, for the sake of mental efficiency in the classroom.
 4. Social and ethical values of games and contests in the development of honor, courage, stamina and true sportsmanship.
- The speaker contended that the teachings of the world war have made apparent the necessity for more vigorous physical exercise and the first importance of developing, especially in the colleges and universities, an up-standing and vigorous manhood.

OMAHA DELEGATION AT AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE

Special Trainload of Visitors Journey for Notre Dame Game and Homecoming Program.

The South Omaha Livestock Exchange and the Ak-Sar-Ben, represented by two hundred fifty men and women, made a tour of the College of Agriculture Saturday before the football game. The visitors arrived in Lincoln by special train about 9:30 a. m. and were taken by trucks and automobiles directly to the State Farm. They were accompanied by the Shriner's band.

The forenoon was spent viewing the College of Agriculture stock being prepared for the international livestock exhibition and visiting the new animal pathology and engineering plants. Many of the visitors also attended the University Olympics, which were staged on the college athletic field Saturday morning.

In the Omaha delegation were E. Buckingham, president of the livestock exchange; Frank Stryker, secretary of the exchange; Charles Saunders, king of the Ak-Sar-Ben; Miss Gladys Peters, Ak-Sar-Ben queen, and her maids of honor, the Misses Ringwalt, Pixley, Blackwell, Rhodes and Walker. Other prominent people in the list were Mr. and Mrs. John Gamble, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Gould Dietz, J. Dean Ringer, Willard Hosford, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Guion.

Delegation Unusually Large.

The Omaha delegation was much larger than had been anticipated by the University authorities and the seating capacity of Home Economics Hall was taxed at dinner. In introducing speakers following the dinner, Dean Burnett said the occasion indicated to some extent the need for expansion at the college. He spoke briefly of some of the plans for adding land and equipment to the College of Agriculture.

On the subject of expansion to meet the growing needs of the college, Dean Burnett mentioned plans for a new animal husbandry farm and possibly a farm for the dairy department. He also said that provision may be made soon for paying salaries that will at least equal the pay of organized labor. Two-thirds of the faculty are now working for less money than organized labor is getting, he said.

Regents Jordon of Omaha and Hall of Lincoln, in brief talks, approved Dean Burnett's remarks concerning the need of further expansion for the College of Agriculture. Regent Hall said he considered the University the greatest asset the state has. It is the dream of the board of regents, he said, to see this the greatest institution in the west.

Cornell Also Visits Farm.

A delegation from Cornell University, New York, was at the farm Saturday looking over the buildings and Dean Burnett introduced C. L. Brockway, architect for the New York College of Agriculture. New York is planning a $700,000 dairy building in the reorganization of its College of Agriculture, and Nebraska is one of the states which the building commission visited on a tour of the country before the building program is begun. Mr. Brockway emphasized that the people of Nebraska may be like those of New York, slow about appreciating the great industry of the state, namely, agriculture. New York state ranks first in dairying, first in (Continued on Page Four)

BURGLARS TAKE SUM IN HOUSE RUBBERY

Unidentified Night Marauders Ransack Dressers, Trunks and Pockets Saturday From Phi Psi Fraternity.

The first daring fraternity house robbery occurred Saturday night when more than $150 in cash was stolen from dresser drawers, trunks and trousseau pockets in the Phi Kappa Psi house, 1548 S street.

The marauders were evidently familiar with the premises because they seemed to know exactly where to go. A thorough investigation of the burglary was made by city detectives and the police Sunday morning, but no clue has been found which will lead to the arrest of the house-breakers.

No Watches Taken.

It was evident after the search of the house Sunday morning that the thieves did not care to bother themselves with watches, for not a single time-piece had been disturbed. As much as $60 was taken from a single room. The rooms on the third floor were not ransacked.

As most of the members of the fraternity sleep on a sleeping porch at the east side of the house, no disturbance was heard during the night. A party had been given earlier in the evening, but the doors had been bolted after the dance. It is thought that the burglars gained admittance through windows.

A thorough investigation is being conducted in an effort to stop this practice, very prevalent in Lincoln during the past few years, of robbing fraternity and sorority houses.

Articles By Faculty Receive Recognition

Members of the faculty of the University have published several articles during the past week. Most of the articles are technical in nature and are receiving a great deal of praise.

Miss Leva B. Walker, of the Department of Botany, is the author of two articles which have been republished in booklet form from the Botanical Gazette. The articles are written on "The Development of Proteus Admirabilis and Tubaria Furfuracea" and "The Development of Cystus Pasticularis, C. Striatus and Crucibellum Vulgare."

Prof. J. Warslaw, of the Department of Modern Languages, publishes the leading article in "The Drama" on "Pepys as a Dramatic Critic." His article on "Main Currents in Latin-American Relations" is printed in "The Annals," a publication of the San Francisco Federal Reserve Bank Club.

Miss Elda R. Walker, Ph. D., and Miss Emma N. Anderson, A. M., have had reprinted from the transactions of the American Microscopical Society, a booklet on "Botanical Survey of Nebraska." The booklet discusses at length theological study of Algae of some sandhills.

Convict to Return.

LINCOLN.—"Dick" Barret, escaped convict, who lured the officers of two states to the vast timber belt along the Kansas-Nebraska border and gave them the slip, has been located at Calgary, Canada, and is being brought back to the Nebraska penitentiary.

Oregon Guest of Texas.

DALLAS, Tex.—General Alvaro Obregon, president-elect of Mexico, was the guest of the Texas state fair Saturday.

Gipp the Blood, while considerably under the influence of Brandy, ran amuck on Nebraska Field yesterday afternoon and supplied a major portion of the punch that enabled Notre Dame to trim the Cornhuskers, 16 to 7, before the largest and most sightly aggregation of spectators ever seen on the classic Lincoln gridiron.

Until the last few fleeting seconds of the first half it seemed likely or at least possible, that Coach Schulte's great defensive gang of sterling fighters might actually accomplish the ruin of the much faster, shifter and more resourceful visitors from Indiana. But the last half, with a few exceptions proceeding somewhat listlessly under the sunny skies, belonged entirely to Coach Rockne of the enemy, and the final result was scarcely in doubt.

Notre Dame's superior backfield was the main cause of the defeat. The offense put up by the Rockne men completely demoralized the Huskers. Nebraskans are taking consolation from the fact they were able to score against such a formidable foe.

Notre Dame Scores First. The first quarter of the game consisted mostly of a punting duel between Gipp and Weller. Neither team was able to make any headway by line plunges or end runs. Notre Dame pulled together and started a march for the Husker goal. Gipp got away for a thirty-five yard sprint but was downed on the Husker thirteen yard line by Newman. Notre Dame advanced the ball to the one yard line where Nebraska held and recovered the ball on downs. Weller attempted to punt from behind the goal line but the kick was blocked and Weller recovered the ball back of the goal line, resulting in a safety for Notre Dame.

The quarter ended Notre Dame 2, Nebraska 0.

The Cornhuskers' first and only score came early in the second period following a beautiful pass from Newman to Swanson, which placed the ball on the enemy's two-yard line. Hubka, suffering from previous injury, (Continued on Page Four)

Preceding the parade one of the largest and peppiest rallies ever held at Nebraska took place in the Armory. Three thousand students jammed Memorial Hall filling every available space. The University band added to the enthusiasm and led the chant and "Scarlet and the Cream."

Led by the cheer leaders in their scarlet and cream sweaters all the students joined in the spirited shouting of U-U-Ui and other Nebraska yells.

Clarence Halsey, president of the Innocents, presided at the rally, and gave a short talk on the spirit of Homecoming. The first speaker was Dean C. C. Engberg who spoke on the meaning and value of Homecoming. He told of the worth and value of college days and with what enthusiasm the former students returned for the Homecoming. He expressed a wish that the Freshmen and Sophomores would save their fighting spirit until Saturday and not start the scrap Friday night.

Director F. W. Luehring gave an encouraging talk on the value of self confidence. He brought out the fact that the Notre Dame team was twenty per cent stronger this year than last and therefore it was necessary to have the support of the whole student body.

Engineers Planning Gridiron Organization

Fifty engineers attended the football meeting held Thursday to organize a gridiron squad to represent the College of Engineering. Although not many of these have had experience in handling the oval all have the weight and ambition necessary for football players. Beginning next week practice will be held every night between 5 and 6 o'clock. Practice on Saturday will be from 2 to 12 in the morning.

If enough of the engineers take part in the gridiron sport the Engineering Society has promised to assist in outfitting the team. The first practice will be held Monday night, October 18. All those intending to try out should meet at the east door of the Armory at 5 o'clock Monday.
