

CORNHUSKERS HOLD NOTRE DAME ELEVEN TO LOW SCORE

 Juries was sent in and finally, after two attempts, shoved the ball across. Day kicked goal.

This ended Nebraska's scoring for the rest of the game. Notre Dame started a bewildering assortment of passes and plays and soon had the ball within scoring distance. One of the officials blundered and Notre Dame was allowed five downs in which to take the ball over for their first touchdown. Gipp booted the goal bringing Notre Dame's total up to 9.

Third Quarter Scoreless.

The third quarter was coreless for both teams. Gipp left the game at this time only to reappear for the final period. The fourth quarter started with Notre Dame springing many passes and some trick plays that completely bewildered the Cornhuskers. Two more touchdowns were made by Notre Dame in this quarter but were called back on account of penalties. The punishment more than offset the advantage that Notre Dame had gained from the miscourt of downs which netted the Rockne men their first touchdown.

An outstanding feature of the game was the freak fake play concocted by Coach Rockney and sprung by his proteges early in the third period. A forward pass failed, possibly intentionally, and Quarterback Brandy, who is at least 120 proof and therefore illegal under the laws of this state, sauntered up to the line with the ball to put it into play.

Suddenly he seemed to succumb to injuries, and lay down on his back rolled a couple of times, put the ball over his head and touched it down—and then, like a flash, whisked the pigskin to Gipp, who certainly was waiting for it. The entire Notre Dame team was massed on the right side of the line, and the Huskers weren't even paying attention. Consequently Gipp had easy sailing around the end for what would have been a certain touchdown had not a visiting gladiator deliberately held a Nebraskan. The great play was called back, and even the Notre Damers couldn't protest—the holding being so obvious. This freak play simply brought down the house.

Nebraska's best showing was made by their line play. Notre Dame could make no perceptible advance through the line but was forced to skirt the line for their gains. The men in the line, especially Captain Day and Pucelik, played a defensive game that was remarkable in view of the odds they were up against. Scherer, playing his first year of Varsity football, was in evidence in every play and time and again broke through and tackled Quarterback Brandy in his tracks. The score board would have taken on a different color if it had not been for the brilliant tackling of Newman after the Irish backs had broken lose.

Next Saturday Nebraska mixes with South Dakota. Coach Schulte has not made known his plans for the coming week but they will be announced later.

Ransom Samuelson Wins Law Yell Prize

C. Ransom Samuelson was awarded the prize of five dollars offered by the College of Law for the best yell submitted to the members of the faculty. The prize was given at the lecture period Friday morning. Dean Warren A. Seavey announced that an additional prize of ten dollars would be given to the person who submits the best Law College song.

HIGH SCHOOL DEBATERS TO DISCUSS LITERACY TEST

League Question for Coming Year Will Deal With Restriction of Immigration.

The question for the Nebraska High School Debating League's fourteenth annual debates, according to an announcement by the president, Prof. M. M. Fogg, will be on the restriction of immigration. The proposition that will be thrashed out from one end of Nebraska to the other by the league, which before the war was the largest organization of its kind in the United States, will be: "Resolved, that the literacy test restricting immigration should be repealed."

To enable pupils in schools with limited library facilities to get adequate information on this live post-war question, the Debating and Public Discussion Division of the University Extension Department of the University is preparing abstracts, which will be furnished at cost, of some seventy-five authoritative articles and parts of books on this question.

The district directors for 1920-1921 have been appointed as follows by the president:

- Central—Supt. Don R. Leech, Friend.
- Eastern—Principal R. M. Maars, Omaha South High School.
- East-Central—Principal C. W. Taylor, Teachers' College High School.
- North-Central—Supt. O. A. Wirsig, West Point.
- Northeastern—Supt. J. R. Armstrong, Wayne.
- Northwestern—Supt. W. R. Pate, Alliance.
- Southern—Supt. D. R. Kuns, Superior.
- Southeastern—Supt. A. J. Stoddard, Beatrice.
- Southwestern—Principal O. K. Morse, Nebraska School of Agriculture at Curtis.
- Western—Supt. B. H. Brackon, Minden.
- West-Central—Supt. C. S. Hetrick, Mason City.

The district debates will begin earlier than usual this year. The district championship schools will be paired for inter-district debates and then inter-district winners will compete for the state championship on High School Fete Day in May.

A large number of league debaters are attending the University.

OMAHA DELEGATION AT AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE

 the production of apples, and near the top in some other lines. Yet the state is not appreciated at home, the architect said. The Nebraska College of Agriculture dairy building was declared by the speaker to be the best in the United States.

Other members of the New York commission visiting the college Saturday were Professors C. E. Curtis, W. A. Stocking and Robb, all of the New York State College of Agriculture, which is connected with Cornell University at Ithica.

Other speakers at the dinner were E. Buckingham, president of the South Omaha livestock exchange; Charles Saunders, Ak-Sar-Ben king; Dean Ringer, Omaha police commissioner; Prof. H. J. Gramlich of the college animal husbandry department. Mrs. Louise Vining, manager of the University farm cafeteria, was presented a bunch of roses by the Omaha delegation, in appreciation of the dinner.

Following the dinner, the visitors were taken in trucks and automobiles to Twelfth and O streets, where they marched in a body to the football field.

 work and at the whistle they were seventy-five feet from the line with the Sophomores vainly dragging at the other end of the rope. The push ball for that contest was borrowed from Ames College and was put to good advantage by the students. Twenty-five students were chosen from each class to take part in this contest. The Freshmen were on their way to the goal when the whistle blew.

SENATOR BURKETT TELLS LAWS RULES OF SUCCESS

Former Congressman Urges Students To Do Little Things To Best of Ability.

"Success and achievement depend on doing little things well," said ex-Senator E. H. Burkett Friday morning before the students of the Law College at the fourth general lecture period. "America removed the mosquitoes be- Canal," the speaker added by way of illustration.

Dean Warren A. Seavey introduced the lecturer, who has had a wide and varied experience in the legal profession, and who has spoken in forty-two states of the Union. Ex-Senator Burkett chose no exact text for his speech but the famous words—"he that has no stomach for the fight, let him depart, for his passports are made out"—was the keynote of his address.

Law and Politics

...The speaker was introduced as a "man who can engage both in law and politics and do them equally well," to use the words of Dean Seavey.

Ex-Senator Burkett said the members of the Law College at Nebraska have improved in looks and numbers since he attended the University twenty-five years ago.

The speaker continued in part: "We've developed a race that is progressive, aggressive, and all powerful. The world appreciates far more the well-doing man than the well-meaning man who works just as hard. "But there is no reward as big as that for the lawyer who wins. I think however, that lawyers are the laziest people on earth—the bane of the lawyer is laziness. If we would succeed we must do everything well."
