

The Daily Nebraskan

Published Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of each week by The University of Nebraska.

OFFICIAL UNIVERSITY PUBLICATION
Under the direction of The Student Publications Board.

Entered as second class matter at the post-office in Lincoln, Nebraska, under Act of Congress March 3, 1879.

Subscription rate.....$2.50 per year
Single copy.....5 cents

FRANK D. PATTY.....Editor-in-chief
Telephone B5511, Room 206 "U" Hall

FRED L. BOSKING.....Business Manager
Telephone Student Activities Office

N. STORY HARDING, Managing Editor

News Editor for this issue
Gregg McBride

"GIVE TEAM ROUSING SEND OFF"

The critical football games of the Cornhusker schedule will be fought out on eastern territory, when our team meets Rutgers on November 2 and Penn State on November 6. A rousing send off has been planned for the team. Students show the twenty-four Huskers, who are going to carry the Scarlet and Cream into battle on the east coast, that you too realize that these are the vital games on our schedule; that you are for the team; that you are interested in the team. Demonstrate to the football team that the University they represent is behind them. Make Nebraska spirit stand out at its best tomorrow.

Coaches over the country have declared time and again that the spirit displayed by their students has a psychic effect on the team—that the rooters can make a team win every game or they can make it lose. It is a recognized fact also that the result depends upon team work between the football team and the students. The coach has been concentrating on team work on the field the past week and now the team will know if we are fighting for victory back east by the send off we give them. Be there at the station tomorrow at four and send the team off with the spirit of true Nebraskans.

GROWING NEBRASKA.

The University is growing year by year. More students are falling in line and entering the institution each fall. Nebraska's high schools are pouring out their best men and women each spring and each autumn they come in greater numbers to the University. The cream of Nebraska enters this University. The cream of the entering students stays, the remainder drop out and clear the surface for the students, leave elbow room for those who work, who put effort into their daily tasks and are the sticklers. Upon this foundation Nebraska builds her greater University. The incoming students are more numerous each year and are of better quality. The old students preach the gospel of education in their own home towns and are University missionaries to the state. The figures after each registration are larger than those preceding. The faculty is increased each year. New buildings go up at frequent intervals. Greater state appropriations are made. Everything is expanding. The University of Nebraska, in the heart of a fertile country, the educational center of a prosperous state, is growing and growing rapidly.

THE CAMPUS.

This at first sight seems to be a trivial subject and if it contained no more than the literal meaning of the two syllable word it would be of narrow dominion. When we look at it and note all that it incorporates it is readily seen to stand out in box car letters, CAMPUS, for really it is our great college camping grounds. Therefore it is broader than the iron fences that enclose it, or the streets that form its boundary, and goes deeper than the soil beneath, or the aerial space above.

Not alone is it a place of scenic attraction, but is a place where human beings promenade up and down, back and forth for nine months out of the year. As quick as the human element came upon it, its significance changed. There is the gist of the whole situation. Students come here from many states and foreign countries, which forms a cosmopolitan mixture of possible associations that makes for the enrichment of the associations and experiences of the students of Nebraska, while they in turn are enriched by having come here. As we mix and mingle on the grounds from day in and out, what does it profit us? Are we here just to learn a little from pages of printed matter to go away and forget in the long run? Is it of any value to take time to make the acquaintance of the man who came from the east. Would it be of any special benefit for the man of the south, to touch your life and have you touch his? Can you learn, and can I, of his section of the country, things that you never see in newspapers or books? The question is, what are you and I getting out of these, the greatest of all the days of our life?

There is a special obligation on the part of the old students at this University. They have been here and know the ropes; the new ones do not. They are not embarrassed by the total lack of friends and acquaintances or suffer from the aloofness of those around them; the new ones do. They do not walk the sidewalks and streets for days without being spoken to; the new ones do. They have forgotten the days when they too needed friends and acquaintances to start college life in a lively way; the new ones are now in the jaws of those experiences. They forget sometimes that human nature in one person is practically the same in another; the new ones are often times just beginning to learn something of how inhuman humans can act. Did you ever see a fellow student get scared and run when you offer to make his acquaintance? Did you ever try saying hello when you meet a fellow on the street or sidewalk to and from classes? For how much do you value a smile? You often see your fellow students give a glance as you pass, that reveals a silent, yet loud appeal for friends and acquaintances. They are liable to go away from here calling you a snob. The reputation of not only the University is upon your shoulders but of the state of Nebraska, when the measure of hospitality and friendship is taken by these who come to learn of us, either the error of our way, or the richness of our broad hospitality and the universality of our friendship. Have we a social obligation outside the little circle of our immediate friends? Sure, and beyond question or argument, and on the campus is the one great place to express ourselves and enrich our own lives and experiences with those whom we touch elbows with us every day. We can't help but leave our impressions. They will rub off and stick to the other fellow in spite of our efforts to prevent, or without effort at all. The opportunity is here to every one of us. Are we going to pass them up? It will be known if we do.

THE OMAHA CLUB.

This editorial regarding the formation of the Omaha club is written for Freshmen students from Omaha. The club was organized last April to fill a need long felt for some agency through which Omaha students at the State University could come in contact with each other. The number of Omaha students at Nebraska is so great that it is impossible for former Omaha students to retain their former associations with each other. The club was inaugurated to furnish a means of association for these Omaha students and create, as well, a closer relationship between our school, and alumni living in Omaha. To live, the club must have support. Omaha students make this a success.

UNI NOTICES

Catholic Students' Club.
Catholic Students' club will meet in K. of C. hall, 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon. All Catholic students are invited.

Norfolk Club Picnic.

All Norfolk students meet at 5 p. m. at city Y. W. C. A. Picnic will be at Antelope park. Come and have a good time.

Delian.

Did you have a good time last Friday night? Come and have another one Friday night. Hear Professor Galt's talk. Good program, music and lots of fun. Everybody cordially invited.

Freshmen Girls' Gymnasium Classes.

A lecture will be given at 5 o'clock Tuesday by Dr. Philbrick in the chapel for all Freshmen girls taking gymnasium. This will take the place of regular floor work for Friday, October 29. Roll will be taken by number at the Tuesday lecture.

Camp Fire.

Wolohi Camp Fire meeting scheduled for Saturday noon, October 29, at the home of Mrs. F. F. Teal has been postponed one week. Regular meeting will be held Monday, November 1, at 4 o'clock in Ellen Smith hall. All girls be sure to be there as the first lecture in the guardians training series will be given.

Palladian.
Palladian will have an open meeting Friday evening in the form of a Hallowe'en party. Visitors are cordially invited. There will be a closed masquerade party at College View Saturday evening.

Band.

Members of the band will meet at 3:50 today between Q and R on 12th street for participation in the farewell rally for the team.

Inter-Class Debate.

Class debate chairmen are requested to meet Friday at 1 p. m. in the Debate Seminary room, U 106, to arrange for inter-class debates.

R. O. T. C. Uniforms.

The military storeroom in the basement of Nebraska Hall will be open for the issue of uniforms during the following hours:
Friday, October 29—8 a. m. to 11:30 a. m., 1 p. m. to 5:30 p. m.

Rosewilde
School of Dancing
DANCE!
Saturday
Night
8:30
Beck's
Syncopated
Orchestra

Plan to meet your friends
at the
HALLOWE'EN DANCE
TO-NITE
REFRESHMENTS
BECK'S SYNCOPATED SYMPHONY
ROSEWILDE
$1.50 Per Couple
8:30

STYLE HEADQUARTERS
Where Society Brand Clothes are sold

To the college man who hasn't a pet clothing store

To a great many men this store is a "pet store"—an institution that they naturally walk into when they need something to wear.

We would like to serve you that way.

Here you will find Society Brand Clothes. We were attracted to this brand by the style and quality of these clothes and the integrity of the house that makes them. They were attracted to us because we had built up the sort of trade that wants clothes as good as Society Brand. Like attracts like.

We think these clothes and our service will attract you. Men are not disappointed in Society Brand Clothes. They give a very peculiar and interesting satisfaction.

It is the satisfaction that comes from knowing—even before you walk into the store—that you are going to get something you will always be glad you bought.

Society Brand Clothes
Mayer Bros. Co.
ELI SHIRE, President

..the
College Gossip
5045--

Feeling sort of short and to the point today, so all I'm going to tell you about the wool hose I have in mind is that they are knit just like silk ones—which means a slim, trim, captivating ankle! You can get them in two heather combinations—brown and navy, and brown and green. Here is another nice thing about them—they're only $2.00!

—Second Floor.

How many of you took my advice and looked up the suits I told you we're selling at one-third less? But that's a useless question because I couldn't find out in a million years, could I? However, if you haven't do, because there are some of the sprazziest looking affairs you ever saw, and when you begin to figure out in cold dollars and cents what a saving of one-third means, you'll thank your lucky stars my Scotch instincts lead me to such bargains.

—Second Floor.

News for the fastidious is this bit of gossip about neckwear. It isn't the most inexpensive stuff in the world, but the exquisite daintiness it adds to the neck and wrists of a dark dress is ample recompense. Particularly new at this time are the straight collar and cuff sets. One of fine flit is priced at $5.00. Another cleverly combining Irish and dunny is marked at $8.00.

—Street Floor.

Dainty underthings need not necessarily tax your canteen to any great extent. Take a certain sort of bloomer I'm thinking of. It's fashioned of pale pink batiste, fine and soft, and there's a diminutive ruffle to add a deft finishing touch—edged as it is in a narrow width of fine net. And the price is only $1.75.

—Second Floor.

Submerging one's physiognomy in a nice woolly scarf is an idea worth trying when the really chilly days come. Especially if the scarfs are good looking. How would you like a tan one of brushed angora, striped or plaided in brown. Or if your taste is a bit more startling, there are some stunning black and white effects. You can buy one for as little as $5.95 on up to as much as you think Dad will stand for.

—Street Floor.