BOOST THE TEAM.

The Nebraskan who believes in his team is a valuable asset to the University. It is a common thing for most of us to throw our hats in the air when our men make a brilliant play but few have the happy faculty of bolstering up the team with their confidence when conditions are unfavorable.

HOW TO STUDY EFFECTIVELY.

Dr. Daniel Starch, in his recent book on "Educational Psychology," quotes the following summary of rules for studying from Mr. G. M. Whipple's book, "How to Study Effectively."

- 1. Keep yourself in a good physical condition. 2. Form a time study habit. 3. When possible, prepare the advance assignment in a given subject directly after the day's recitation in it. 4. Work intensely when you work: Concentrate. 5. Do your work with the intent to learn and to remember. 6. Seek a motive or, better, several motives. 7. Before beginning the advance work, review rapidly the previous lesson. 8. Make a rapid preliminary survey of the assigned material. 9. Give most time and attention to the weak points in your knowledge or technique. 10. Carry the learning of all important items beyond the point necessary for immediate recall. 11. You must daily pass judgment as to the degree of importance of items that are brought before you, and lay special stress on the permanent fixing of those items that are vital and fundamental. 12. When a given bit of information is clearly of subordinate importance and useful only for the time being, you are warranted in giving to it only sufficient attention to hold it over the time in question. 13. When drill or repetition is necessary, distribute over more than one period the time given to a specified learning. 14. When you interrupt work, not only stop at a natural break, but also leave a cue for its quick resumption. 15. After intensive application, especially to new material, pause for a time and let your mind be fallow before taking up anything else. 16. Form the habit of working out your own concrete examples of all general rules and principles. 17. Form the habit of mentally reviewing every paragraph as soon as you have read it. 18. Whenever your desire is to master material that is at all extensive and complex, make an outline of it. If you also wish to retain this material, commit your outline to memory. 19. Do not hesitate to commit to memory verbatim such materials as definitions of technical terms, formulas, dates and outlines, always provided, of course, that you also understand them. 20. In committing to memory, it is better to read aloud than to read silently and better to read rapidly than slowly. 21. If your work includes attendance at lectures, take a moderate amount of notes during the lectures, using a system of abbreviations, and rewrite these notes daily, amplified into a reasonably compendious outline, organized as suggested in Rule 18.

CONTRIBUTORS' COLUMN.

The Daily Nebraskan has been the recipient of many contributed editorials written under the spur of a grievance. The chief good of these writings is that it produces an outlet to the writer's hurt feelings, but as printed expressions of the opinion of the University they are useless.

The principle purpose of the contributors' columns is to promulgate opinions on current actions and contemplated reforms in the University. Denunciatory phantoms of prejudice have no place in our columns. We have had recent correspondence with many of the university dailies and have found that they are pursuing a like policy in regard to contributed editorials.

The Nebraskan has no influence over University appropriations by the legislature. In short, if you as a student become angry because our class rooms are too small or because we lack sidewalks on the campus, you will accomplish more results by writing to your representative in your local district than you will by complaining to the Nebraskan.

The Daily Nebraskan is the proper medium to express your views in regard to student interests at large. And you will always find our columns open to concise editorials upon constructive phases of student life and activity.

UNSANITARY DRINKING FOUNTAINS.

What is the matter with the drinking fountains in the Social Science and Brace Hall buildings? The fountains on the second floor of Brace Hall have not been in operation this year. The fountains in the Social Science building lack pressure to force the water high enough to get a drink without having to touch the fountain with your mouth.

NOW FOR THE LEAGUE.

The cause of the League of Nations is not lost. There can be no apprehension as to the course the new administration will follow, for if it lives up to its principles, it will strive to make America's interest at home and abroad equally well guarded. The disagreement on the League of Nations between two schools of thought irrespective of party affiliations, the Republican and Democratic voters having failed unmistakably to record their mandate as regards the question in the recent elections, lies in Article 10. Excepting Article 10, the sentiment of America as a whole is for the League of Nations.

Whatever shape the discussion of the foreign policy of America may take in the future, it is certain that it will have for its basis the League of Nations. It is preposterous to assume that the nations now members of the League will ever enter into an international agreement with America that creates obligations other than that provided in their covenant. An association of nations as that which Senator Harding has in mind must necessarily find shape in the existing League. Herein lies the final hope of the cause for which a League of Nations stands. Here is where the faith of those who would like for America to enter the League is not yet lost.

The new administration will understand that Europe and the greater part of the world are now governed by the League covenant. While political campaigning was going on in this country, the League has been busy laying the foundations of future international understandings. The financial congress that met in Brussels has made many important recommendations. These are now being discussed in various countries. A committee of the conference has proposed international free trade and the proposition has been approved unanimously and will be brought to the attention of all members of the League. Public opinion is lively responsive to the work being undertaken under the auspices of the League.

We hope that with the consciousness of America's position in the world, the new administration will not fall the cause of international brotherhood. A realization of the existence of the League should not fail to awaken it to the significance of the new world order. It is, therefore, the duty of those whose sympathies are for peace not to stop the crusade to have America join the other nations in concert whether it be for a League without Article 10 or a League with reservations so that peace and prosperity may come to mankind.—Evening Missourian.

CAMPUS NOTES

Cora Friedlan, who took her A. B. degree at Nebraska, is now professor of philosophy in Randolph Macon college at Lynchburg, Va. Dr. Friedlan holds her Ph. D. degree from Cornell University. She has heard of the University of Nebraska development plans and is interested in the details of the program as well as in the scope of the project.

Chancellor Avery announced on his return from the east that the university architects in Chicago were at work on detail drawings of the plan submitted last June. Working drawings for projected buildings have not yet been received. The campus plan is now receiving the attention of the Chicago architects.

The department of conservation and soil survey sent five motion picture reels, showing the Nebraska state fair to Tulsa, Okla., where they will be shown before an agricultural conference November 9.

Towns Are Loaned Package Libraries

More than 640 Wisconsin communities borrowed 9,207 packages of instructional material from the package library department of the University of Wisconsin Extension division last year, according to a report just prepared.

A 30 per cent increase in number of packages loaned is shown in the report, and the number of communities that take advantage of the service has increased 10 per cent.

The trend of public interest is shown in the subjects requested. Educational subjects were in greatest demand—827 packages in all. Immigration and Americanization ranked next in demand. Agriculture, special days, labor, world war, peace, foods, health, and liquor were among the other most important subjects. Women's requests show that their interests are local rather than national since they ask for material mainly on play-grounds, food, dental clinics, children welfare and food, and parent-teacher associations.

About one-fifth of the material was used by members of organizations, registering an increase of 62 per cent over last year. About 50 per cent was used in educational institutions. Correspondence study, self-improvement, and personal information were the other subjects of the demand. Of 1,478 packages, 1,038 were used for correspondence study.

Through co-operation with the Wisconsin Library Commission, the Extension division adds to its supply of valuable material for the packages.

Bubbles

That's all right, my boy. Being afraid to go home at 2 a. m. is not always a superstition. Sometimes it means experience.

A Long Wait.

"There's a story in this paper of a woman that used a telephone for the first time in eighty-three years." "She must be on a party line."—Notre Dame Juggler.

A Senior's Legacy.

To whom it may concern: I cheerfully recommend my old girl to any undergraduate young man wanting a suitable dating companion for next year:

She is a good dancer physically and morally.

She is a good looker.

She is a good listener.

She isn't too good.

She is an excellent pedestrian. In fact, she will always say that she likes to walk, although she is not prejudiced against a car.

She is a fairly light eater except on Sunday. It is advisable to eat table d'hote on Sunday.

She is a woman of deep emotions whom only you will be able to thrill.

She has, to the best of my knowledge, absolutely no ideas of her own on any subject, except you.

My sole and simple reason for quitting her is that I am leaving school. Treat her right. She likes to be treated.—Iowa Frivol.

If you never make a mistake, what's the use of having a rubber on the end of your pencil?

A soft answer turneth away wrath, but that is no reason why you shouldn't take boxing lessons.

HYGIENE CAMPAIGN TO BE STARTED AMONG UNIVERSITY WOMEN

Miss Helen Gath, director of physical education, announced today that the gymnasium department would launch a hygiene campaign among University girls next Monday. The freshmen and sophomores will be reached through this medium and it is hoped that later the juniors and seniors can be reached through house presidents.

The campaign will be carried on by means of so-called hygiene charts on which records of seven different items will be kept by a daily schedule. All girls enrolled in any gymnasium class will be required to keep this record for one month, and a point per semester will probably be given by W. A. A. to those students who keep it for two consecutive months thereafter.

Each day, the girls must signify by checking the proper square that they have observed the following rules:

- 1. Sleeping. (a) An average of at least 8 hours daily. (b) Good ventilation. 2. Bathing. (a) Daily, if possible, but at least every other day. 3. Care of teeth. (a) Brush at least twice daily. 4. Exercise. (a) At least one consecutive hour daily. (b) Meals taken regularly. Nothing between meals but plain food such as bread, fruit, butter, milk, ice-cream, plain ices, crackers and malted milk. —The Columbia Evening Missourian.

ROOSEVELT WAS TRUE CRISTIAN SAYS MALCOM

Roosevelt day was fittingly celebrated in the regular chapel services yesterday. Dr. Malcom of the political science department gave a short address on "Theodore Roosevelt as a Citizen." A short sketch of Roosevelt's life was given followed by a discussion of his qualities and character. Dr. Malcom characterized Roosevelt "as a typical American, a true democrat of a democratic country, and a friend of the people." "One of Roosevelt's outstanding features was his great passion for democracy," said the speaker. Dr. Malcom said he remembers Roosevelt, "as a true Christian man and an American citizen of the highest type."

Announcement was also made during the services that more people were needed for the choir. One hundred voices is the goal set. Also, second basses are needed for the men's glee club. Application may be made today and tomorrow.

Blackburn College, Illinois, has every available space filled and the authorities were forced to turn away 175 prospective students.

Aren't you beginning to think about Christmas just a little bit?—and wondering just what mother and father and little Chester and Uncle Andy would like? We know of a dear old lady who will find out for you—GIFT GRANNY. The nicest part of it is, that she finds out secretly. It doesn't make a speck of difference whether the gifties live in Lincoln or Bolivar, New York—she can find out just the same. Consult her secretary in the cozy little house on the balcony!

There's nothing namby-pamby about certain new ivory toilet articles I'm thinking of. Can you imagine anything better looking than a set inlaid with a narrow band of black, navy blue, or perhaps a stunning design? Not to be overlooked in the rush, either, are about the cleverest looking round brushes you ever saw, topped in pale pink or blue ivory. It seems that they will keep your suede shoes in tip-top condition. Only 89c too.

—Street Floor.

Would you believe that you could buy a $45 hat for $22.50—right at the beginning of the season? You can, if you choose from a large group of our most exclusive models. They're mighty attractive affairs, and when you carelessly dangle your choice in your hand after a good marcel, you're not going to feel badly because the public can't help but see the labels of such exclusive Eastern designers as Rawak, Cupid, Belnor, Fisk, Gage, etc. Are you now?

—Second Floor.

Your wool hose do not necessarily have to be built for comfort alone. We have some that are fashioned just like silk hose, and they certainly do their noblest to make one's ankle conform to the proper silhouette! Some are finely ribbed—others not so finely. They come in the prettiest of heather mixtures, and they are moderately priced from $2.00 to $3.75 a pair.

—Second Floor.

A jeweled comb in the hair is often not amiss—particularly if it is as attractive as some of the ones we are now displaying. Some are set in green stones (you almost might think they were emeralds) and they can hardly wait to adorn the coiffure of some Titian beauty. Set with countless brilliants are other bits of sheen, sure to strike a responsive chord in some Mary-Gardenish heart. Many other settings, too,—all ranging in price from 75c to $4.50.
