

ATLANTA WRITER AWARDS HUSKERS DUE CREDIT

Account of Nebraska-Rutgers Game By Lawrence Perry Lauds Grid-Iron Skill of Schulte's Team.

An account of the Nebraska-Rutgers clash written by Lawrence Perry in the Atlanta (Georgia) Journal under the headline "Nebraska Shows Up in Good Form in Downing Rutgers," has been sent to the Daily Nebraskan by an alumnus of this school. The account follows:

"The University of Nebraska football eleven made its New York debut at the Polo grounds yesterday and signalized the event by administering a sound beating to the Rutgers college team. The Cornhuskers—one of the most sizeable football outfits the writer ever saw—had a line attack which for the most part depended upon sheer brawn for success. When to this brawn were added skilled timing of plays and quickness of execution the westerners were unstoppable.

"But these two elements were infrequently in evidence. The fact served to hold down the score. Defensively, Nebraska was able to handle the Rutgers line attack without difficulty, but had the Jersey men been equipped with anything respectable in the nature of a forward passing game the westerners would have been in trouble all afternoon. Quite obviously they had no conception of scientific defense against the overhead game. This fact will be grasped without necessity of further words when it is said that the defensive lineup included three backfield men abreast about eight yards behind the line of scrimmage and the quarter-back playing deep. Such passes as Rutgers did attempt were rendered fruitless—despite Nebraska's helter skelter, individual defense, through the poor throwing of Maloney, a good back otherwise.

"Perhaps this was the reason that Rutgers throughout the game, when in possession of the ball, followed her usual election day custom of battering the gigantic Nebraska line. There is no doubt that Foster Sanford can develop a sterling line attack and the results Rutgers obtained yesterday against the Cornhuskers was remarkable considering the disparity in weight. But after all what profit first downs which lead only up to middle field? The Jersey men revealed proficiency in all the fundamentals of the game; in handling the ball, tackling, catching punts and the like. Same for Nebraska, which team, however, had nothing noteworthy in the way of open play. It was just a great hulking outfit, playing the football of the early nineties, seven-eighths of the time. In these days of modern football it does not pay to play safe on the basis of a single touchdown, especially when no goal has been kicked following the score."

BICYCLES SCARCE FOR OUTING TRIPS

Scarcity of bicycles kept all but six girls from going on the Outing club bicycle hike Saturday morning. Besides the four machines that were supplied, only two could be obtained, and many girls were disappointed.

The hike began at 10 o'clock, and was over before noon. The course was along the Middleton road, five miles out, and back. Florence Miller was in charge of the trip.—Daily Cardinal, Madison, Wis.

Ohio State University is operating a football laundry so that the team can have clean, dry suits every day. We suppose that they will be wearing white collars on the field pretty soon. We wonder if they press their trousers.—University of Washington Daily.

VERMONT HONORS FOUNDER.

The statue of Ira Allen, founder of the University of Vermont, is to be erected on a most conspicuous place on that campus. This statue is to be placed where the statue of Lafayette formerly stood and the Lafayette statue will be moved to another place on the campus.

James B. Kilbur of Manchester is presenting the statue to the university. Sherry Fry, noted sculptor, is making the statue at New York. It will be seven feet in height and arrayed in the custom of the period in which Ira Allen lived. This includes the long coat thrown back as a cape, knee breeches, buckled shoes, etc. This is deemed a fitting memorial to the founder by the authorities of the university.—Daily Cardinal.

Two 1920 graduates of Whitman College, Washington, have been elected to the faculty at Syrian Protestant College, Beirut, Syria, which has about 1,000 students and 47 instructors.

BIG PARADE ARMISTICE DAY

Co-eds Urged to March.

Co-eds who served in any way in the late war are urged to march in the parade tomorrow. This includes any women who served as clerks, yeomanettes, canteen workers, Red Cross workers, with the Salvation Army, nurses corps or any other unit.

The University committee on arrangements for the celebration is composed of Carl H. Peterson, representing the student body; Ralph H. Wilson and Dean Philo M. Buck. This committee appointed a Booster committee to ask every ex-service man to participate in the parade. This committee is composed of a member from each college at the University, a representative from the graduates and faculty, and one from the student body.

JOURNALISM STUDENTS TO FORM PRESS CLUB HERE

The general scheme is to be modeled along the lines of the University Commercial Club with the main purpose being to promote the profession of journalism, just as the Commercial Club is organized to stimulate interest in commercial lines by contact with men prominent in that field.

Faculty Endorses Plan. Dean Philo M. Buck of the College of Arts and Science, heartily endorses the idea. Prof. M. M. Fogg, professor of English and instructor in journalism, said that he had been anxious to form such an organization and signified his desire to see the plan go through.

J. E. Lawrence, city editor of the Daily Star, and instructor of journalism at the University, said that every university should have such an organization and he believed the club should have 100 per cent enrollment of newspaper men in Lincoln and those interested in journalism in the University.

The press clubs at Columbia, Princeton, Wisconsin, Missouri, Oklahoma and other universities are among the most active professional societies in the schools.

The general organization of the Nebraska club will be formed at the meeting Tuesday evening in the Law building, where temporary officers will probably be elected and committees chosen to draw up the necessary articles of incorporation.

TO VOTE ON FEATURE TOWN

As a general rule, the annual books range in price from $6 or $6.50 to $8. This figure is rather high in comparison with a few years ago, but the increase is due to the increased prices of paper, labor, engraving, printing, etc. The price of the Cornhusker will not be as much as these books this year although the expense is greater.

DAIRY CLUB PLANS FOR SHOW

Committee Appointments.

This show will be supervised by the Varsity Dairy Club, with the following committees in charge of the various activities:

Executive committee—J. C. Higgins, chairman; Harry Weakly, secretary; Oliver N. Summers, H. H. Hilpert and Leroy Ingham.

Advertising committee—Elmer Clark, chairman; Millard Altes, Elton Lux and C. C. Tempe.

Dairy Manufacturing committee—E. A. Gannon, chairman; Ralph Leach and Ray Kohler.

Judging Contest committee—Oliver N. Summers, chairman; Leroy Ingham and Paul W. Bowers.

Cattle Fitting committee—Carl Rydeburg, chairman; Milo Sherman and Wayne Gray.

The dairy cattle contest will be conducted under the same rules as were used at the National Dairy Show Students contest at Chicago. Three breeds will be judged, Holstein, Jersey and Guernsey. Written and oral reasons will be required of all contestants, with fifteen and two minutes respectively allotted for each. Prizes will be awarded upon a point basis.

The manufacturing exhibit will consist of the production of pasteurized milk, creamery butter, American and cottage cheese and ice cream. The equipment and methods of operation will be explained by students.

The cattle fitting show will be conducted upon a competitive basis. All students carrying courses in dairying will be allowed to compete for prizes which will be awarded upon the ability of the contestant to fit and show dairy animals.

Some very interesting and instructive "film" have been secured for this show. Some of which have never been shown in the state, and will be a worth while attraction.

Business Administration Notes

Class of 1918

February

HOLLIS H. KIRSCH, 4647 Morris street, Philadelphia, Penn. Mr. Kirsch is secretary and treasurer of the Albert O. Snyder Co., Inc., Philadelphia, 1314 Arch street, (Jobbers of woollens). He writes, "My chief work is selling and handling the credit end of the business which was recently incorporated for $50,000. I was in the New York sales office of the Princeton Worsted Mills, Inc., for the past year, until I started in with Mr. Snyder, April 1, 1920; we are doing well and it beats working for someone else."

WILLIAM I. AITKEN, 51 Oxford street, Cambridge, Mass. Mr. Aitken is a student now at Harvard. He writes, "The College of Business Administration

W. S. G. A. Board Fills Vacancies in Offices

Florence Price, '23, was chosen a member of the W. S. G. A. board at a recent meeting to fill the vacancy caused by the inability of Nell Holtz, '23, the former treasurer of the association, to return this year. Muriel Allen, '23, was elected treasurer for this school year.

JAZZ MUSIC BY WIRELESS IS TRICK AT CHICAGO PARTY

Chicago, Ill.—Vigilant deans at the university have been outwitted by science. The deans are not strong for jazz music, the whining saxophones, and the sobbing violins and that sort of thing, but the Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity had that sort of music at its Halloween party tonight and the deans are not yet quite certain how the trick was turned.

A member of the fraternity, who is also a wizard in electricity, installed a special apparatus connected with an orchestra several blocks distant. Amplifiers were installed at the source and around the walls of the dance hall and the music came through without the loss of a note.—Daily Town.

LONDON HAS COCKTAIL HABIT

All Hotels Have "American Bars" and Expert Shakers.

LONDON—London has adopted the cocktail habit and no establishment is now considered complete without an "American Bar."

The habit has especially caught on with women and in the Ritz, Carlton, Piccadilly and other well-known West End restaurant diners come early and spend a preliminary half hour chatting over an "aperitif."

Nearly every Englishman now has a particular "shaker" he swears by. At the American Club, Collins, a colored man is declared to be the London champion shaker, but at the who frequent the Royal Automobile Club bar speak reverentially of "Nick" who is renowned as "a great artist."—The Columbia Evening Missourian.

SUPPORT OF TWELFTH AMENDMENT URGED

Three thousand letters a day are being mailed by the students of the University of California to the voters of the state, advocating the passing of Amendment 12. Funds are seriously lacking at the State institution to further educational work in comparison to the unusually large number in attendance there. The passage of this bill will supply adequate funds to keep it free from tuition. Sanford has commended to the fore in supporting this amendment, and it behooves the students of the University of Southern California to be as loyal in support of its sister university. The close proximity here to the Southern Branch makes it all the more necessary that we should not lack in courtesy, but should come strongly to the aid of the California students, who have worked so strongly for this amendment. The election next Tuesday decides an important issue for California, and it should never be said that U. S. C. students failed to help them, but have done their part by voting in favor of Amendment 12.—Trojan.

NOTED BADGER NOVELIST TALKS AT WISCONSIN

Hamilia Garland, Badger novelist and dramatist, born in West Salem, Wisconsin, spoke before students at the University of Wisconsin last week on "Songs and Scenes of the Middle Border." Mr. Garland is a member of The Players, New York, and was one of the founders and first president of The Cliff Dwellers, Chicago. Many of the stories which Mr. G. Garland has written are based on his life in Wisconsin.

tion at Nebraska is well represented at Harvard University this year. I see Blunk and Hooper at the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration, quite often. They seem to be enjoying their work. Merlin Springer '19, is in the law school. "Lum" Doyle, '17, Mat Herold, '16, and Ralph Schoberg are other Nebraska men in the law school."

MERRITT L. CHAFFEE, Alliance, Nebraska. Mr. Chaffee is salesman for the A. H. Jones Company, handling Reo cars and trucks. He sends best regards to the "commerce bunch."

FRED T. COTTER, 4150 Davenport street, Omaha. Mr. Cotter is chief accountant for the Nebraska Telephone company.

L. W. ELLIS, Wayne, Nebraska. Mr. Ellis is abstractor with Wayne County Abstract company and Deputy Clerk of the District Court of Wayne County, Nebraska. He writes in part: "Perhaps it would be of interest to some of the uninformed 'brethern' to know that there are three of us now. Elizabeth (Betty) Helen arrived 3-2-20."

ROGER A. JENKINS, 2040 E street, Lincoln, Nebraska. Mr. Jenkins is now shop foreman of the Eastern Storage Company. He writes to Dean LeRossignol as follows: "Your humble servant, after seven months of experience in the office of a Lincoln Battery manufacturing company, connected up with the largest and most modern service station in the city and after gaining another year's experience on the practical side of the battery business, expects to own a Willard Service station in one of the larger towns of the state."

LESLIE L. KUNKEL, Madrid, Nebraska. Mr. Kunkel is manager of a drug store.

N. BEACHY MUSSELMAN, 715 North 2nd street, Arkansas City, Kansas. Mr. Musselman is at present attending the university of Chicago. He writes that he attended the University of Kansas during the second semester of 1919-20, studying geology. While at Kansas, Mr. Musselman was in attendance at the installation of Alpha Kappa Psi, three Northwestern University's members being the installing team. Mr. Musselman expects to get his master's degree in geology at the end of this school year.

EDWARD H. STECH, Geneva, Nebraska was overseas and saw much active service, being fortunate to return uninjured. He writes "I was appointed Deputy County clerk of Fillmore county, January 1, 1920. I was connected with the Farmers and Merchants Bank of Milligan before taking up this position. When I returned from the service, I took a position with the Nebraska-Iowa Grain Company."

ALLEN J. SUTHERLAND, Waverly, Nebraska. Mr. Sutherland is assistant cashier. He writes, "We have the largest bank in Lancaster county outside of the city of Lincoln. I, as well as many others I know are close to Lincoln, but we don't hear of Alpha Kappa Psi."

CLEMENT V. SVOBODA, St. Paul, Nebraska. Mr. Svoboda is secretary-treasurer of the Farmers Union of Howard county. He is engaged to be married shortly.

CLARENCE E. HINDS, First National Bank, Lincoln, Nebraska. Acted as Instructor in Money and Banking in the College of Business Administration during the year 1919-1920. Did excellent work.

FLOYD S. PEGLER, Lincoln, Nebraska, 2025 South 16th street. Mr. Pegler is office manager for the Roberts Sanitary Dairy company.

ORLANDO P. TAYLOR, Clay Center, Nebraska.

Class of 1919

D. L. ANDERSON, Niobrara, Nebraska. Mr. Anderson is now vice-president of the State Bank of Niobrara. He was married to Miss Eleanor Steenburg of Farmington, Ill. He writes, "We are enjoying a very good business and are very much pleased with our new work and location."

BECKMAN, Myrtle E., Stromsburg, Nebraska. Teaching at Havelock.

WALTER C. BLUNK, 1017 W. Louise street, Grand Island, Nebraska. Mr. Blunk has finished his Harvard course and is now engaged in public accounting work.

WILSON D. BRYANS, 1911 Emmett street, Omaha. Mr. Bryans is assistant in the purchasing department of the Douglas Motors corporation. He writes, "On leaving school I took a position in the auto accessory department of the Lininger Implement Company, intending to travel for them. However, the Douglas Motor corporation being a new and growing concern and offering a better chance for advancement, I decided to accept an offer from them as assistant to the purchasing agent and learn that end of the business."

LEROY CARSON, Madison, Nebraska. Mr. Carson is a bank clerk at Madison and reports that he is getting along fine.

THE BOOTERY

1230 O St.

ELLSWORTH L. FULK, 1727 Cambridge street, Cambridge, Mass. (Atlanta, Nebraska, permanent address). Mr. Fulk attended the Harvard school of Business Administration. He writes, "I am taking all the work given in accounting and intend to begin work in a public accounting office."

(MRS.) HAZEL WARD GOGGINS, Idaho Technical Institute, Pocatello, Idaho. Mrs. Goggins is part time teacher in the Idaho Technical Institute. She writes in part, "I have been teaching salesmanship, advertising and business administration this semester. I have enjoyed the advertising class greatly. My interest in advertising has steadily increased ever since I had Professor Cole's course, several years ago. As for business organization, I objected strenuously to taking that class; but no one else on the faculty seemed so well prepared to teach it as I, and the president insisted that I help them out for this semester. So I did attempt it and I've had better success than I dared to hope for. I don't know how the boys feel about having a woman instructor, but they have treated me splendidly. However I am not contemplating handling that class again."

MARK L. HOOPER, Holdrege, Nebraska. Mr. Hooper was a student at Harvard last spring. He wrote in part, last may, "Am undecided where I will locate when school is out, but expect that I will get a place with an accounting firm in Chicago. Have taken all the accounting work given here, will now get the practical experience with a view of getting a C. P. A. as soon as possible."

ROY M. INBODY, Clarkson, Nebraska. Banking.

GLENN JEFFERSON, Havelock, Route 2, Nebraska, Farming. Mr. Jefferson continued his studies at the University last spring.

CLYDE E. JOHNSON, 1038 Locust Avenue, Long Beach, Cal. Mr. Johnson says that he is check clerk, P. E. railway, Los Angeles, Cal. He adds, "I have only been here since the first of April. I like my work. I am very much impressed by the vegetation and enjoy the climate."

GERTRUDE H. JUDD, University Hospital, Ann Arbor, Michigan. Miss Judd writes that she is at present a pupil nurse in training. "My work," she says, "is so different from what work I got in the college of business administration, that it seems at times very far off, but I did so enjoy the circular letter. Michigan is a long way from Nebraska and I need news of friends and acquaintances. I will be anxious to get the next letter."

I. R. KENYON, Litchfield, Nebraska. Mr. Kenyon is farming. He attended the first summer session of 1920.

CHARLES J. LEHMKEHL, Wahoo, Nebraska. Mr. Lehmkehl writes that business is very good, almost too busy to breathe. He is in the hardware and implement business at Wahoo. FAYE SHERWIN, 714 First National Bank Building, Lincoln, Nebraska. Miss Sherwin is connected with the Midwest Life Insurance company.

MERLIN L. SPRINGER, 1727 Cambridge street, Cambridge, Mass. Mr. Springer is a second year law student at Harvard University. He says, "My future occupation is unsettled. I am undecided whether I will continue in law or enter business, probably banking."

ELIZABETH VARNER, Tecumseh, Nebraska. Miss Varner writes that she has just returned to her home at Tecumseh after having completed a year's work as commercial teacher in the Crawford, Nebraska high school.

JAY B. WORLEY, Madrid, Nebraska. Mr. Worley is connected with the Kunkle & Kunkle company, manufacturers of drugs.
