Asphalt Expert Talks To Engineers

John B. Hittell, district engineer for the Asphalt Association, gave a talk to the civil engineers Monday afternoon in the Mechanical Engineering building. Mr. Hittell gave a brief history of the origin of the asphalt industry, illustrating his talk with lantern slides. A very interesting outline of the various processes through which the crude asphalt before it is suitable for paving mixtures was given. There are two general classes of asphalt, that found free in nature and that prepared from the distillation of asphalt base petroleum. Asphalt is used extensively, the speaker related, for street paving; the various types being sheet asphalt, macadam, and asphaltic concrete. Sheet asphalt makes a very desirable pavement because of its comparatively noiselessness and its wearing qualities are good, as may be judged from a part of that on Fifth avenue in New York city which has stood heavy traffic for fifteen years. The meeting was attended by all civil engineers.

An attractive former University girl whose marriage will take place on Thursday is Miss Alfred Mack Prang of Cedar Bluffs, who will become the bride of C. L. Ulstrom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Ulstrom, 327 South Twenty-sixth street.

Both were active in University affairs of the past two years. Miss Mack Prang a member of Achoth and Mr. Ulstrom of Delta Chi. They will be at home after January 1 at La Jara, Col., where Mr. Ulstrom is engaged in banking and real estate.

A number of Lincoln guests will be present at the wedding which is planned to take place at high noon Thursday. Miss Mack Prang will wear a gown of ivory satin draped in exquisite lace with a long veil of tulle. She will be unattended.

A most attractive party was given in honor of Miss Mack Prang Tuesday evening by Miss Beda and Miss Jessie Ulstrom, sisters of Mr. Ulstrom. The house was unusually attractive with its bright ribbons in holiday colors, extending from the chandelier tipped with Christmas favors and bright red hearts.

A mock wedding preceded the luncheon served at four tables, the guests of honor seated at the largest table with the three smaller ones about it. Red and green ribbons fell gracefully from the center light to the ends of the table while bright red carnations formed attractive centerpieces.

The guests of honor were after wards presented with gifts arranged on an attractive little Christmas tree lighted with bright colored candles.

Santa Claus Interrupts Party; Claims U of N for Alma Mater

Santa Claus came to Ellen Smith Hall Saturday afternoon when about one hundred fifty girls were indulging in "merry making" there at the Christmas party the "Big Sisters" gave for their "Little Sisters."

The Christmas atmosphere was evident to each girl as soon as she entered the building. The rooms were darkened save for the large Christmas tree that glittered in the center of the main room and the red glow diffused from the Christmas bell lights. Parts of nursery rhymes were used to tag the girls. By the time the girls had found the groups that completed their rhymes they had met practically all the girls. They danced from then until refreshments were served.

Mildred Mayberry, '24, returned yesterday from Omaha, where she spent the week-end.

when the girls were in the midst of a Virginia reel, all stopped suddenly with an exclamation of surprise. There stood Santa Claus in the doorway. He walked straight up to the Christmas tree and picking up a large box made an elaborate speech. He said that he had come by way of North Dakota and later in the course of his speech divulged the fact that the University of Nebraska was his alma mater. When everyone had grown breathless with curiosity to know what the box contained he opened it and passed out candy canes. Then in behalf of the Senior Girls' Advisory Board he presented a vase to Miss Heppnes.

Santa Claus disappeared as mysteriously as he came and after a few more dances the girls went home with their hands full of candy canes.

Phi house, has returned to her home. Catherine Beacom, '23, spent several days last week in Omaha.

Barbara Davil, of Tekamah, was guest at the Alpha Phi house during the week-end.
