HUSKER QUINTET TO MEET COYOTES

Nebraska and South Dakota Fives to Clash at Coliseum Friday Evening.

PREPARE FOR HARD BATTLE.

Northerners Are Unknown Factor and May Pull Surprise on Scarlet and Cream.

The next opponent for the Cornhusker basketball quintet will be the South Dakota Coyotes. Nebraska will meet the South Dakota team on the Coliseum floor Friday night. The original schedule called for a two game series here but owing to a rule limiting the number of contests a Missouri Valley team may have, the second game was cancelled.

The strength of the Coyotes is not known on account of the fact that South Dakota has participated in only a few contests thus far this season. The Huskers defeated the South Dakota eleven here this fall and Coach Schissler is planning to duplicate this feat on the basketball court Friday night. The Huskers triumphed over the South Dakota aggregation in two hard fought games last year in the Armory. South Dakota is a non-conference school and has therefore played only one or two games this season.

Just what Coach Schissler plans to do for the Coyote game is not known but the "pony" team will more than likely be the main performers of the evening. The Huskers will scrimmage with the Freshmen this evening and will meet the Armstrong team of the city league tomorrow night. Both of these teams are composed of experienced basket ball players and they should furnish some keen competition for Coach Schissler's athletes.

Squad in Fair Shape.

The squad is in pretty fair shape after the two contests with the Grinnell team and Coach Schissler expects to show the South Dakota aggregation a fast game Friday evening.

Another feature of the game will be the big dance that is scheduled directly after the game. The two dances that were held after the contests last week proved to be very popular with the University students and Director Luehring is planning on making this affair a regular event after every game. Negotiations are under way to secure one of the best orchestras in the city for the occasion.

DR. AIKEN WILL SPEAK AT VESPERS THIS EVENING

Dr. Aiken of Saint Paul's Methodist church of this city will speak at vespers Tuesday. The title of his address has not been given out as he is not very well acquainted with the University and prefers to speak extemporaneously. Dr. Aiken is from Illinois. He has been in Lincoln just three weeks.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

To the Student Body:—
Mr. Chadderdon has asked to be relieved from voting on matters before the Student Publication Board on the ground that his relation to the students should be strictly of a business and not in a sense of a political nature. I regard his request as entirely sound and will ask the Regents at their coming meeting to amend rules of the Publication board so that the Agent of Student Activities may act as secretary but not be a voting member of the Board. The coming election, therefore, will be decided by a vote of seven, Mr. Chadderdon not voting. This arrangement has the further advantage of avoiding the possibility of a dead-lock.
S. AVERY, Chancellor.

HUNDRED MEN ATTEND SHORT COURSE AT FARM

One hundred men and women have been accommodated in special short courses at the College of Agriculture so far this winter. The four weeks' course in auto tractors has a total registration to date of eighty men, and nineteen men and women are now taking a special one week's poultry course. A short course in general agriculture which opens January 24 is expected to have a patronage of at least 100.

Twenty-five new students are admitted each Monday morning to the auto tractor course and since the holidays more than this number have been present each week. Registration is open in this course until March 17. The short course opening January 24 will provide general instruction in all phases of agriculture and live stock raising.

ORIENTAL EXPERT TO OFFER COURSES

Dr. Louis Herbert Gray Expected to Arrive This Month to Take Place in Philosophy Department.

Dr. Louis Herbert Gray, Oriental expert and scholar, who expects to arrive in Lincoln some time this month to take up the work in his new position of associate professor of philosophy in the University, will offer three courses in Oriental civilization and philosophy.

Dr. Gray has specialized in oriental civilization and thought, especially the literatures and philosophies of India and Persia. When the United States entered the world war, he was in Boston, where he was engaged in the editing of the series of the "Mythology of All Races." Dr. Gray resigned this post to become expert on Persia for the department of inquiry of the United States government in New York in January, 1918, and in December, 1919, he was ordered to Paris as a member of the "American commission to negotiate peace." During the period of the peace negotiations he continued with the commission, and was afterwards left attached to the American embassy in Paris to carry forward uncompleted work. He has recently completed this work and is in London at present.

List of Courses.

The courses in oriental civilization scheduled to be taught by Dr. Gray are as follows:

Course 123. Oriental Civilization, at 2 p. m. on Monday, Wednesday, Friday, with three hours credit. This course will constitute a survey of the history, art, and political problems of the nations of Asia, in both the Near and Far East. It will be accompanied by readings in the most modern books and will be illustrated by a considerable number of lectures with slides showing the art, architecture and industries of Asiatic countries. For the past three years Dr. Gray has been attached to the Peace Commission and to the American Embassy at Paris as specialist for the United States government upon questions relating to Persia and other eastern countries, and he is in a position to give light not only upon the past but upon the present aspect of Asiatic problems. The course should be of especial interest to students of history, political science, and art, as well as to all concerned in questions of world affairs. It is open to all Juniors and Seniors.

Oriental Philosophies.

Course 157: Oriental Philosophies. A survey of the philosophic systems of India and China, open to students who have had the history of philosophy, introduction to philosophy, or some equivalent course. This is a two-hour course, Monday, Wednesday, Friday at 10:00 a. m. Students desiring to register for it should consult some professor in the department of philosophy.

Course 167: Oriental Religions. A study especially of the greater religions, Muslimism, Buddhism, Brahmanism, Confucianism, in their social and political relations.

VALLEY GOLF MEET SLATED FOR SPRING

Followers of Scotch Game to Compete For Honors in Invitation Meet.

The University has extended an invitation to Missouri Valley schools to participate in a first annual Missouri Valley golf tournament to be held at Lincoln in May.

Two schools, Drake and University of Missouri, have accepted the invitation and notified Director of Athletics Fred W. Luehring at the University of Nebraska that they will send teams to enter the contest.

Golf is a new sport for Missouri Valley schools. Through the efforts of Director of Athletics Luehring a golf club has been organized at the University of Nebraska and plans were made at a recent meeting to hold a university and inter-organizing tournament in the spring.

Arrangements have been made to permit the students to use local golf courses at reduced rates.

Mrs. W. A. Rookie (Edith Shank), 14, of Priest River, Idaho, was a University visitor last week. Mr. Rookie is engaged in real estate and general farming in the Pend Oreille Valley of Idaho.

FARM STUDENTS MAKE LOAN APPLICATIONS

The announcement that the Omaha Chamber of Commerce is planning to give financial aid to worthy students of agriculture has brought application for loans from twenty students, according to Dean E. A. Burnett. The applicants are upperclassmen and they desire loans ranging from $100 to $300. All offer good security.

It is said that quite a number of students are hard pressed for money with which to continue in school and that some may have to drop out at the end of this semester unless financial aid is found for them. An effort is being made by the college authorities to retain all students, and they are very desirous of retaining the upperclassmen, especially members of the senior class.

VALKYRIE LAUNCHES DRIVE ON CAMPUS

Junior-Senior Society to Sponsor Contributions for Hoover Relief Fund This Week.

Valkyrie, Junior-Senior organization, which recently conducted a "conference on college dress," will this week seek contributions to Herbert Hoover's fund for European relief, acting under the authority of H. J. Burkett, county chairman. No contributions have yet been asked on the campus for this fund, and University students are asked to respond with a sum at least as large as that readily volunteered by the students of Lincoln high school.

The Herbert Hoover American relief funds, including the European children's fund and the fund for European students and professors, are widely known and need no explanation. One of the members of Valkyrie said yesterday: "It is time an opportunity was given for University people to subscribe to these funds."

A faculty auditing committee has been asked by the members of Valkyrie to supervise and check up their accounts for these relief funds. It was the wish of Valkyrie to launch this movement last Thursday at the conference on dress, but they were delayed.

More than 100,000 students, according to Hoover, are among the children of European countries who need assistance this winter.

GOLD FEET DON'T WORRY CO-EDS HERE

Every since our "Mellen's Food Days" we have listened with gaping mouths to the wonderful fairy tales which have been told us. One of the oldest and most reliable stories which could be found in any of the books and one of the most loved by all the children is that old legend of "Puss-in-Boots." "Puss" lived a long, long time ago, so the story goes, and had various and divers adventures too numerous now to relate.

This little story I will tell to you today is of the modern "Puss-in-Boots." You may see her any steady day, and some days not so steady. She is the girl who drags around on her dainty feet the hideous night mare of the small child; namely goloshes! And don't ever think for one minute that she buckles them up, as she was intended to, because she doesn't—it isn't done—that's all. That would be altogether too sensible.

Any girl who has any "class" at all must own a pair of these and wear them on the slightest excuse. They must be so put on that everyone within the radius of half a block will be unable to miss hearing the musical click-click-click as the buckles clash against each other. Oh, yes, girls, everyone in the East is wearing the mand when you are in the West do as the Easterners do. Otherwise you simply can't get by, that's all.

CAGE TOURNEY TO ATTRACT CROWDS

High School Athletes in Large Number to Flock to Lincoln in March.

LARGEST OF KIND IN WORLD.

Two Thousand Expected To Compete For Class Titles in Basketball Meet.

The largest high school basketball tournament will be held in Lincoln, March 10, 11 and 12 when over two thousand Nebraska high school athletes are expected to gather to decide the basketball championships for 1921.

Last year 170 high schools sent teams to Lincoln for the event and over two hundred quintets are expected to enter the event next March. A number of applications already have been received at the office of Director Fred W. Luehring at the University of Nebraska.

Divided Into Classes.

Last year the teams were classified into eleven divisions, each group consisting of sixteen teams. It is expected that the teams will be divided in much the same manner this spring except that new divisions will be added to take care of the additional schools.

Winners of last year's tournament in the various classes follow:

PROFESSOR NORRIS TO TALK TO ENGINEERS

Prof. F. W. Norris will tell of experiences with the General Electric Company, and H. O. Peterson, C. O. Hedges and Allen Weaver will talk on "Summer Occupations" at a meeting of the student chapter of the American Institute of Engineers, which will be held Thursday, January 20, at 7:30 p. m. in the Electrical Engineering Building. All electrical engineers are requested to attend this meeting and program.

ZONING EXPERT TO SPEAK AT CONVOCATION TODAY

E. P. Goodrich will speak at the engineers' convocation to be held in the Temple theater at 11 o'clock Tuesday. This is a special convocation and all engineers are requested to be present. Everyone is invited.

Mr. Goodrich has had experience with the Wu Coaling Board, and is a construction engineer of New York City. He is zoning expert and has helped in the zoning of New York City. He is making a week's survey of Lincoln now.

PRESS CLUB TONIGHT

Raleigh E. de Rosa, a member of the Capital Engraving Company, will speak at the third meeting of the University Press Club, tonight at 7:15 o'clock in Room 101, Law Hall. The journalistic profession from the engraver's point of view will be explained by the speaker. It is believed that features which have to do with other phases of the newspaper field than the collecting and writing of news will be of interest to members of the club from time to time.

More than 130 students are now on the membership roll of the club. Every member is asked to be present tonight to hear Mr. de Rosa.
