"GET ACQUAINTED" CONTEST.

Every member of the University Y. W. C. A. should enthusiastically enter into the "get acquainted" contest that the Y. W. C. A. is sponsoring. This is an unusual opportunity to get acquainted with a large number of girls who will make the very best of friends. It is not every month or two that a girl has an opportunity to make friends with six hundred girls who are wanting to make her a acquaintance.

The training that this contest will afford will be invaluable in later years. Those who enter the contest and work will learn to remember faces and to remember names. This ability to do this is in a large measure the ability to make friends. The person who can remember the people he meets always has a pleasing, perhaps striking personality. This contest is an opportunity that should not be missed.

Learn the particulars of the contest and begin at once.

CHECK REQUIREMENTS.

Juniors and Seniors should carefully check the required courses they have taken and those that remain to be taken before they register for next semester. Group requirements for the Arts and Science College should be worked off not later than the Junior year; hence Juniors who have not completed the group requirements should plan their courses for next semester accordingly.

Seniors who are working for degrees or certificates should exercise still more caution. Seniors who want to be awarded teacher's certificates at the end of next semester should be especially careful, because they will have to meet a large number of requirements. If there is the slightest doubt about the requirements that still have to be worked off authorities should be consulted. It doesn't pay to guess.

A CAM-PEST—THE LINE BREAKER

This individual has trouble with his eyes. He is afflicted with chronic astigmatism when it comes to seeing the end of a line of waiting mortals. Yet he can see far enough to pick a victim who appears to be what is termed as "easy." He breezes around at the last minute, after everyone else has lamented his fate in line for two or three hours, and with a smiling and ingenuous countenance proceeds to worm his way in at the head. How he does it we don't know; but his hide is impervious to anything but physical suasion.

Oftimes the line breaker is a "she" and then it is almost too easy. A dizzying smile, a glance which gives that "all-alone-we-two" feeling, and before he has recovered she has elbowed him off the road. Not only that but she has always has a bevy of friends who lurk about the outskirts of the line like grave-robbers until the job is done. Then they sail down and she slips them in ahead of her. Performed in this manner one almost forgives her in admiration of her finesse. Almost—but not after it has happened the tenth time and the novelty has worn off.

There is no way to "call" the line breaker. It is up to the culprit to reform himself. He, or she, should consider the motionless martyr at the end of the line who hasn't advanced an inch all day. He has some rights. Don't take advantage of a man whose hands are tied.—University of Washington Daily.

Our Inquiring Reporter

Five persons picked at random are asked a question each day.

To-days Question. How do you entertain your men friends who spend nothing but the evening?

- 1—Anne Newman, 1802 B St. Just talk. It's such a bore, but I jabber away and try to make them talk. Flatter them a lot, that helps.
- 2—Kathleen Stitt, 1237 R St. I don't know. I try and make them do the entertaining.
- 3—Helen Wylie, 1548 R St. Oh, I just sit there and let them amuse me.
- 4—Edna Shultz, 1527 M St. I try not to get those kind. They are too boring.
- 5—Tora Hockenberger, 1414 G St. I don't have that kind. Can't be bothered.

BUBBLES
By Ina Cuckoo

"Tommy, come here and rock the baby for a bit."
"All right, ma. Gimme a rock!"—Awgwan.

"My father weighed only four pounds when he was born."
"Good heavens, did he live?"

Teacher: Johnny, your mouth is open.
Johnny: Yes, teacher, I know it. I opened it.

Mistress Mary, quite contrary, Would a sneezing go,
"What are you sneezing for?"
Asked silly little Fred,
"Atchoo, atchoo, atchoo, atchoo,"
The silly maiden said.

Registrar, to adult student. How old are you, madame?
"I've seen nineteen summers."
"And how long have you been blind?"
