

XI DELTA GIRLS TO ENTERTAIN FRESHMEN

Xi Delta, honorary organization for sophomore girls, will give a tea for all freshmen girls Friday afternoon from 4 to 6 in Ellen Smith Hall. The tea is planned to enable the sophomores to get acquainted with the freshmen. It is the last tea that Xi Delta will give for the freshmen this year. A good program is promised.

Y. W. C. A. WORKERS ADDRESS MEETING

A. L. Miller, the next speaker, emphasized the fact that there is a great challenge—to the men of America to reach out.

"Your money, your sympathy, your prayers are needed for Steele Holcombe in his work in Egypt," said Mr. Miller.

He told a number of stories of his own experiences in India, particularly of the working of the caste system.

Mrs. Eddy, the last speaker, begged the students to think internationally.

"There is a challenge for such international thinking as you have never done before," were her words.

"As Nebraska answers the needs of China and Egypt today so are you going to put a stamp on the thinking of your community," she declared in an appeal for ready and willing help in the campaign.

TRACK TICKET SALE NOW ON

new season tickets. The only way that Track can afford to do this is by selling 3,000 or more of the season tickets.

Fifty tickets have been placed in the hands of every sorority in school and the girls can sell these at any time or any place. The contest closes Saturday night at 6:30. More tickets may be obtained at the Student Activities office. The Husker track squad will be hampered for outside competition should these tickets not be sold. Nebraska will probably not be represented at the Drake relays, Penn relays, Missouri Valley Conference meet and National Intercollegiate meet should this ticket sale fall down.

PLANS LAID FOR ENGINEERS' WEEK

department has completed their schedule and are preparing for the largest gathering of local visitors ever entertained. Last year there were over 1,000 who were acquainted with the details of the laboratories and with the system of advertising which will come out soon, it is estimated that there will be more than double the number who attended last year. Souvenirs from the various departments will be given to the visitors. Programs are being made by several of the students. The forge and foundry and the electrical laboratories will appeal to many of the local people and explanation of the operation of equipment in the various sections.

The banquet on Friday night will be the nineteenth annual banquet of its kind and promises to be the largest and snappiest of all. James D. Harvey of Omaha will be toastmaster and his speakers are the best that can be obtained. George A. Lee and

A. Bruce of Omaha will be included to assist him. W. P. Gillette of Chicago, editor of Contracting and Engineering, had been secured as the main speaker, but due to the death of a member of the family he will be unable to be here. The Nebraska assembly of A. A. E. will be the guests of the student chapter of A. A. E. and the combined engineering banquet will be about four hundred. The sale of tickets has been rapid within the last week and every engineer will consider this the one big event of the present school year that he has the opportunity of attending. Mr. Harvey's ability as a toastmaster is well known in the University as he was toastmaster for the 1915 Cornhusker banquet. He has spoken before the engineering society several times and his appearance again with the engineers will be welcomed by all.

And the week would not be complete without a dance, but the assurance of one at Antelope park has given encouragement to those who care for this gentle pastime. The dance will be a fitting climax for the largest and most successful Engineers' Week.

The Bulletin board on the campus near the carpenter house has been used for the posting of bulletins and notices for the events of Engineers' Week and it has proven to be of great benefit in reaching the majority of the engineers. Further information and notices will be posted there for events of the week.
