

IMITATION OF THINGS PLEASES MOST PEOPLE

Professor Scott Addresses Freshmen Class on Drama—Impersonation is Simplest Type.

Prof. R. D. Scott of the English department, addressed the Freshmen lecture class Tuesday on "Drama." He explained the theory of imitation which, he said, is one of the keenest pleasures for most people. Imitation in clay modeling, painting or acting is interesting and amusing to people, not because of the subject imitated, but because of the art which brings out the likenesses, said Professor Scott.

Imitation acted out of some man or some incident or history is not drama, it is merely impersonation. This is the simplest type of drama. Drama must have imitation, interest and plot. The incidents in the drama cannot stick too closely to life or the interest will be sacrificed. The audience must be tricked into thinking the plot is natural and life-like.

Tells of Ancient Drama.

Professor told of some of the oldest and crudest types of drama among the Eskimos and among the Australian bushmen. The fact that these primitive people had and enjoyed their fanciful drama shows that it is natural for the human race to crave the dramatic. The Greeks had beautiful dramas that were later copied by the Romans. Roman drama was lost with other Roman culture when the empire was overthrown by the barbarians of the north.

The modern drama is most widely shown on the screen. Much of the crime of the world is laid to the moving picture show. This cannot be denied. Professor Scott said that because the wrong kind of pictures will naturally have their effect. Nevertheless some of the good pictures have a good influence on the young people. A good drama showing the life of a young man ruined by liquor will have far more influence than all the lectures by long-haired men and short-haired women prohibitionists.

SAYS AMERICA IS JAPAN'S FIRST AND BEST FRIEND

The home minister of Japan believes that America's ideals and America's justice of the past will assert themselves in her dealings with Japan.

Dr. Axling did not uphold Japan's policy in regard to China and Korea, but he stated that the actions of the military leaders were not supported by the Japanese people. The speaker urged that the Americans should not incite the nation of Japan for the actions of the military men. "The Japanese people," Dr. Axling said, "are listening to their democratic leaders."

The taxes imposed upon the people of Japan are terrible. And the most of them go to support the army and navy. Japan looks at the military preparations of the United States of England and of France and then votes to increase the budget for a stronger army and navy. The most radical Japanese never thinks of the possibility of Japan declaring war on United States, but is thinking of a possible war declared against them by America.

The Japanese educational institutions are favoring peace and progress and the Christian leaders are having a great deal of influence in this direction.

Dr. Axling closed his lecture by saying: "Japan a menace? No, Japan is a great challenge to Americans for help. Japan holds the destiny of the Orient in her hands."

FARM STUDENTS AND FACULTY TAKE TRIP

The animal husbandry classes I and 15 attended the short horn consignment sale in South Omaha, Tuesday, April 20.

There were forty students in the two classes which made the trip. Profs. H. C. Gramlich, W. W. Derrick, N. B. Possen and W. J. Loeffel accompanied the men on the trip. More than three-fourths of the men stayed over to make a tour of inspection of the packing houses and stockyards Wednesday.

THREE STUDENTS TIE IN PUBLICATION CONTEST

Three students, William Hille, William Alstadt and R. E. Jones, tied for second place in a national salesmanship contest conducted by the Pictorial Review during spring vacation. The campaign in which these men participated was nation-wide and was won by a man from the Ohio State University. William Johnson of the University won third place in this contest.

ENGINEERS MUST RENDER SERVICE

"The power to rationalize is another point of view. It is a great check on the imagination.

"Individuality is based on the point of view.

"The personal attributes will count high when compared with mere scholastic attributes."

EMPLOYE ROCKEFELLER PLAN TO BE EXPLAINED

Use Open Shop Plan.

The Colorado Fuel & Iron company operates on the open shop plan. The Minnequa steel mills at Pueblo, Col., employ more than 10,000 men and approximately the same number work in the company mines.

The company claims that as a result of its employe representation plan and other features of welfare work that it has experienced a remarkable freedom from labor troubles. Due to more favorable working conditions in their mines Mr. Cowdrick has asserted, during the war when labor was scarce their mines kept operating at full force.

The representation plan grew out of the bitter strikes of seven years ago. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., went among the miners and after determining the main sources of workers' grievances devised the system of allowing the men, through chosen representatives, to have a certain share in the direction of company policy.

"Y" Provides Recreation. In the mining camps, Y. M. C. A.'s have been erected by the company and in Pueblo a $500,000 "Y," the best industrial "Y" building in the United States, has been built for use of employes in the steel mill.

A large hospital, swimming pools, community center work, etc., are other features of the C. F. & I. program. The company has stated that the increase in efficiency resulting from these features has made them a good investment.

Mr. Cowdrick is a graduate of Kansas University and has one of the active directors in these company welfare plans.

Y. M. C. A. CABINET MEMBERS WILL BE INSTALLED FRIDAY

Six New Officers Attended Training Conference Held at Crete Last Week.

Six members of the new Y. M. C. A. cabinet which will be installed Friday noon at the Greater Nebraska luncheon, accompanied by Don Heffley, secretary, attended the Cabinet Training conference held at Crete on Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The conference was attended by cabinet men from eleven colleges of the state and was declared by Mr. Grover J. Little, who was formerly state student secretary in Indiana and later Illinois to be the best cabinet conference which he had ever attended. The meetings had for their purpose the explaining to the delegates of the purposes and activities of the many branches of college Y. M. C. A. work.

Those who represented the University of Nebraska at the Crete conference were Floyd Oldt, Kenneth McCandless, Roy Youngman, Carrol Prouty, Glen Dorsey and Mr. Heffley. Beside the speeches by Secretary Little, the men were addressed by Mr. E. M. Baber, state student secretary for Nebraska.

One entire session of the conference was given over to the discussion of the Estes Park conference which are held every summer under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. of the various universities in this section of the country. Mr. Little declared that the great majority of young men who decide to be come foreign missionaries, reach their decision at the summer conferences. He said that this statement had been proved by actual statistics. Over one third of the delegates at Crete had attended at least one of the summer training conferences. Estes Park conference was the best represented. Two of the secretaries at the Crete conference had been present at summer training conferences twenty years ago.

The cabinet conference for the state of Nebraska is held each spring. The cabinet for the coming year here at Nebraska is complete for the coming year and will be announced at the installation next Friday. This installation which is at the Grand hotel at noon will follow a 40 cent luncheon and is open to all University men and faculty members.

TARGET RANGE PROVIDED FOR MILITARY DEPARTMENT

Instruction in Shooting From Different Positions Is Given to Every Cadet.

Colonel Moses, commandant of the cadets at the University, is seeing to it that all members of the reserved officers' training corps are able to shoot a gun straight. At his request, the United States war department has paid for the construction and maintenance of an indoor target range. This new shooting gallery is located on the third floor of Nebraska Hall and is open to the use of all the members of the R. O. T. C. from 9 a. m. to 11:30 a. m. and from 1 p. m. to 4:30 p. m.

Sergeant Patton, detailed from the regular army, is in charge of the range and takes considerable time in showing every R. O. T. C. member who comes to the gallery the correct way to shoot a gun. Instruction is given in sighting, use of the sling, and the correct position for kneeling, sitting, standing and prone.

Every Man Must Qualify. Colonel Moses has ordered that every member of the R. O. T. C. must qualify on the range with a score of 20 out of a possible 50 in each of the following positions before he can receive credit in the military department:

Standing	10 shots
Kneeling	5 shots
Sitting	5 shots
Prone	5 shots

Each cadet is urged to fulfill these requirements as soon as possible to avoid the rush toward the close of the year. This is important as the gallery will accommodate only eight men at a time.

Lucille Keith is spending the weekend at Hastings.

Banner Week For Engineers In More Ways Than One

In more ways than one this is a banner week for the engineers. Testifying to this is the large blue banner bearing the significant E, floating from the top of U Hall. Although U Hall does not house engineering departments, there is a significance in the location of the banner. It is hung from U Hall year after year, because the placing of it is one of the traditions of Engineers week, which are older than the engineering buildings. Thus U Hall is a measure of the age of the engineers' banner tradition.

Another banner dear to the engineers is carefully kept in Dean O. J. Ferguson's office. It was once similar to the one now flying on U Hall; but now, scarred and mutilated, it has been honorably discharged from service, a veteran of many years.

In imitation of the large banner are small paper badges worn by the engineers and fairly dotting the campus with blue.

Nona Alderman has spent the past week at the Pi Beta Phi house.
