Women Journalists

To Theta Sigma Phi has been entrusted the complete process of putting out a copy of the Daily Nebraskan. With the exception of the annual football edition, this is the largest issue printed at any time during the year. This act is the main one by which this organization justifies its existence. For a number of years now, it has been a custom of the local chapter to assume all of the responsibility toward getting out one copy of the Nebraskan.

Theta Sigma Phi is a national journalistic organization for women with chapters in many of the largest colleges in the country. The aim of the organization is to pursue unswervingly high ideals in the journalistic profession. In taking over this paper, in the thorough manner in which it has been done, the organization is showing in a practical way what women journalism students can do.

Today's issue of the Daily Nebraskan runs four hundred and fifty inches of advertising. This is exactly half what the State Journal carries today. This fact gives proof of the growth of the University daily, when it is estimated that to continue its former lead the Journal would have to carry two thousand inches.

BIG OPPORTUNITY.

Only two days remain in which students may enroll for Omaha day. Those who have not paid in their fees by Tuesday evening will miss an opportunity to get an insight into business and professional life which could not possibly be obtained from books. Those making the trip will see the inner workings of a busy metropolitan city. They may make dozens of trips to Omaha at other times, they may live in Omaha, but it is doubtful if they would ever have a similar opportunity to study the various plants and have them explained by experts. They may read books and books about business, but still not get as clear an idea of how it is actually conducted as in a few hours' inspection of the warehouses in Omaha.

In recognition of the value of Omaha day Dean Engberg has granted a holiday so that the dread of making up work cannot keep anyone from going.

Omaha day is a big opportunity not only in an educational way, but it affords the University a means to keep in close touch with the Omaha alumni whose co-operation the University constantly needs.

Omaha has made big preparations to receive the University students. Will the University show an equal amount of spirit in accepting the invitation?

AGS FACE DIFFICULTY.

Early this year the Farmers' Fair board began laying its plans for Farmers' Fair. The members of the board organized their forces systematically so that the preparations might proceed on a larger scale than ever before. Extra features have been added to the program this year. For weeks Ag students have been working up the details of the parade and various other features of entertainment, arranging for concessions, and planning a big dance as the climax of the day's events.

Just as preparations were nearing successful completion difficulties arose. It was announced that Omaha day would be May 6, the day preceding Farmers' Fair day. This arrangement was not due to lack of consideration on the part of those in charge of Omaha day, but it was impossible to set a date more convenient to both the University and Omaha. The Ag students made no complaint. They were big enough to back both Omaha day and Farmers' Fair. They planned to make their preparations for Farmers' Fair on May 5 so that they would be free to support Omaha day May 6. If the Ag students are big enough to back the University as a whole even when this works a hardship on their own college, do not the rest of use owe it to them to support the Farmers' Fair? The Omaha Club is urging students to return from Omaha Friday night so that they can attend the Farmers' Fair. But the support of one organization is not enough. We, as individuals, owe our support. The various colleges owe their support to the Agricultural College. The Farmers' Fair deserves the support of the University.

University School of Music

Mrs. Edward MacDowell, wife of the great composer, was in Lincoln yesterday as the guest of the MacDowell Club and of Miss Hazel Kinsella. Miss Kinsella entertained at luncheon for her. She was made an honorary member of the musical sorority, Mu Phi Epsilon, and also attended the initiation of the MacDowell Club Wednesday evening, April 27.

The national convention of Sigma Iota, musical sorority, was held in Lincoln last week. Delegates came from the thirty-four chapters of the sorority, which are found in the principal conservatories throughout the country.

The MacDowell Musical Club held its semester initiation Wednesday evening at the University School of Music. Mrs. MacDowell, the honorary president of the organization, was present. After the initiation ceremonies a banquet was held in the Chinese room at the Lincoln.

The new members are Blanche Wolf, Mary Hardy, Lizetta McNeill, Hettie Dennis, Vera Roberts, Dorothy Roberts, Mattie Heim, Martha Gorham, Mildred Lewis, Lillian Beal, Marie Janssen, Florence Ekeroth.

CAMPUS NOTES

The girls who are doing practice teaching in the kindergarten and first grades entertained the teachers under whom they culd and the principals of the Lincoln grade schools at a tea Wednesday afternoon in Teachers College Hall. A musical program was given by the girls in the department. Favors in the form of riddles written by the girls in the story-telling class were given to the guests.

There are about fifty girls doing practice teaching in the Lincoln schools.

The chairmen of the committees in charge were as follows: Bernice Meierlyrgen, chairman of refreshments; Margaret Stidworthy, chairman of program. Mildred Maberry, Wilma Foster and Doris Manning served the tea.

Dean Charles Fordyce of the Teachers college, conducted a series of educational measurements in the York city schools Thursday. In the afternoon he addressed the teachers on the use of measurements in teaching and administration. Thursday evening he addressed a mass meeting of the citizens on individual differences of school children and the best means of adapting education to the capacity and needs of the various individuals.

The School of Fine Arts will have a special week at the Commercial Club beginning May 14. On the 14th, from 12 to 1, the complete University orchestra will play for dinner, and on May 21, the University Players will give "The Flower Shop," a one-act play. During the intervening week, an exhibition of various types of work done in the School of Fine Arts, will be on display in the main club room.

Dr. Leonard of the Carnegie Foundation who is inspecting teachers training schools, visited Dean Fordyce of the Teachers College, last week. Dr. Leonard visited Lincoln two or three weeks ago and spent a week in the study of the organization and work of the Teachers College as a teachers training institution.

The University Extension Department reports an unusual call for teachers from the high schools out in the state. Two hundred sixty-five people have been recommended for teaching positions during the past week. This is due very largely to the school elections which are now taking place.

Dr. A. A. Reed will give an address on vocational guidance Saturday at Beatrice at a county Y. W. C. A. High School Conference.

Requests are coming in from women's clubs for study outlines in the field of training for citizenship and assistance is being given in preparation for study programs for next year.

Cecil Redam will appear in Senior Recital, School of Fine Arts at the Temple Theatre, the evening of May 19. Miss Redam is a pupil of Lucille Robbins.

Professor Grumman is arranging to put up immediately after the present exhibition of the "Friends of Fine Arts" a collection of thirty paintings lent by the Metropolitan Art Museum of New York City. This will include paintings by Cole, Daubigny, Detaille, Perome, Hennor, Inness, Schroyer, Volk and Alexander Harrison. This will be open to the public free of charge.

The paintings of the Nebraska Art Association will be hung with this exhibition, which will continue thru commencement week for the benefit of alumni and visitors who attend the exercises.

Miss Lela Hardy will appear in Senior Recital, the evening of May 21, at the Temple Theatre. She will appear in piano recital. Miss Hardy is a pupil of Professor Sidney Silber.

The Credit Men's Journal, which is the official organ of the Canadian Credit Men's Association, reprinted Prof. Ruel D. Kilborn's article on "When Prices are Falling" which appeared in the December number of the Credit Monthly.

Professor Singer, of the department of Fine Arts, read a paper on "Musical Credits" before the State Convention of Music Teachers at Fremont last week.

 "Here I am on my knees, won't—"
 "Get up, you boob, that's where I belong."—Wyoming Student.

BUBBLES

By Ima Cuckoo.

Little side-long glance
 Little winks so quaint,
 Make you thing it's love,
 When it really ain't.

Pests

There's the guy that reads the titles on the screen.
 There's the girl who's positive that she's a queen.
 There's the bum who guzzles onions by the score.
 And the goof who stands and stares when you yell, "Fore."
 There's the man who comes around collecting bills,
 And the pessimist who's always taking pills,
 But the one who most of all I'd like to swat
 Is the dumb-bell who is ever saying "what."

If the University gave credit for Orpheum Labs., many more Sigma Xi's would be granted for scientific research in anatomy.

The word kiss is a noun but it is usually used as a conjunction. It is more common than proper and not very singular in that it is usually used in the plural. It agrees with "me."

Famous "Rolls."

—ed Oats.
 —s and coffee.
 Steam —er.

Ruminative Rambblings.

Sweet young freshman—"How can some men look so nice and be so AWFUL!!!!"

We wonder whom her last date was with.

Some of the favored tints in hair lead us to wonder if the hair dressing establishment of the future will be called the henna-ry.

Of all glad words
 E'er wrote, by heck,
 Gladest of all are,
 "Enclosed find check."
 Enclosed in letters home this little gem has been known to bring remarkable results.

Cop—"Hey, where you going? Don't you know this is a one way street?"
 Bill—"Well, I'm only going one way, ain't I?"
