PLANS COMPLETE FOR OMAHA DAY

Committee in Charge Gives Final Instructions to Students Making the Trip.

TO LEAVE LINCOLN 7:00 A. M.

Agricultural Group Will Leave Train at South Omaha to Inspect Packing Houses.

Between nine hundred fifty and one thousand students of the University will take advantage of the hospitality of Omaha firms and business houses Friday, May 6, upon which date all classes will be dismissed. Approximately eight hundred of this number will make the trip by train, leaving in the morning at 7:30, on the special, and leaving Omaha at midnight. The remainder will go by auto.

The students will be organized in the various groups, at the Burlington depot in Lincoln, in which they have previously signified their intention of joining, in order that they will be in readiness for the different itineraries that have been planned to places of interest in Omaha.

Ags Stop at South Omaha.

At South Omaha, the students who are enrolled in the agriculture group, which includes the inspection of South Omaha packing industries and yards, will meet with those who have journeyed by auto, and together they will survey the stock yards and points of interest. The other groups will meet at the Burlington depot in Omaha and will be in charge of members of the Omaha club and the Phi Omega fraternity. They will furnish the itinerary of the day, and will take the groups from point to point on the schedule as arranged by the Omaha Chamber of Commerce. The students will be guests of these various business organizations for luncheon. Four or five professors will be with each group to help the students in obtaining a clearer understanding of the places visited.

Efforts are being made to get the Lincoln Traction company to provide car service for the students upon their return to Lincoln at 1:30 a. m. Saturday.

STUDENTS GIVEN CHANCE TO QUALIFY FOR POSITIONS

Frank A. Hayes, of the U. S. Bureau of Soils, Washington, D. C., will take a number of advanced students from the Agricultural College to the field for tryouts on soil survey work next Saturday. Those students who show aptitude for this work will be offered positions with the soil survey department of the conservation division of the University.

FARMERS WILL RIDE TEXAS LONGHORNS

Roping Exhibition and Prize-Winning Stock Parade Are Part of the Fair.

The Wild West show of the Farmers' Fair will take place at 3 o'clock, on the athletic field west of the Agricultural Engineering building.

Several unbroke western horses have been secured, as well as a number of Texas longhorns, and liberal prizes are offered to anyone who can ride them. A roping exhibition is a part of the program, in which will be demonstrated the latest methods of hog-tying a steer in seven minutes. Several college men from the "west," will exhibit their ability as rope-twirlers.

Following the Wild West show a parade of prize-winning stock, including beef cattle, dairy cattle, and horses, owned by the College of Agriculture, will be held on the main quadrangle and in the show arena.

SENIORS!

Remember the picnic. Meet at 11th and R at 8:30 o'clock. All those who can, please bring their cars.

WILL FILM FARMERS' FAIR FOR WEEKLY

The committee in charge of the Farmers' Fair has asked the conservation and survey division of the University to film this occasion for the Farm Weekly. Dr. George Condra, director of the department, says that pictures will be taken if conditions are suitable.

The pictures of engineers week which have been running at the Rialto this week have been bringing forth considerable amount of favorable comment from the students.

The conservation division of the University circulates between 20,000 and 40,000 feet of film daily in Nebraska and other states.

AFTERNOON AND EVENING DANCE AT THE FAIR

For those who like to dance to the tunes of a regular jazz band the Farmers' Fair will be a veritable paradise. There will be a big matinee dance in the afternoon in the Agricultural Engineering building. The floor is spacious and it will be cool. The music will be the best that is to be obtained.

There will be three dances in the evening to accommodate the usual big crowd. Two of these dances will be held in the Agricultural Engineering building and one in the Home Economics building.

ORGANIZATION HEADS FAVOR SINGLE TAX

Unanimous Sentiment Expressed for Proposed Plan of Supporting School Activities.

At a meeting of the presidents of all school organizations at which all the fraternities, sororities, literary societies, clubs, and other organizations were represented, unanimous sentiment was reported in favor of the adoption of the Single Tax.

The Single Tax is planned to include the tickets to all athletic contests, a year's subscription to the Daily Nebraskan, and the annual Cornhusker all for $6.50 per semester. Under the old system, the tickets were $5 for football, $5 for basketball, $2 for tennis, $1 for track, and $3 for baseball plus $2.50 for a year's subscription to the Nebraskan and $5 for the annual Cornhusker; totaling $23.50. But under the proposed Single Tax system, these will all be included for the sum of $6.50 per semester, resulting in a saving of $19.

Luehring Favors Plan.

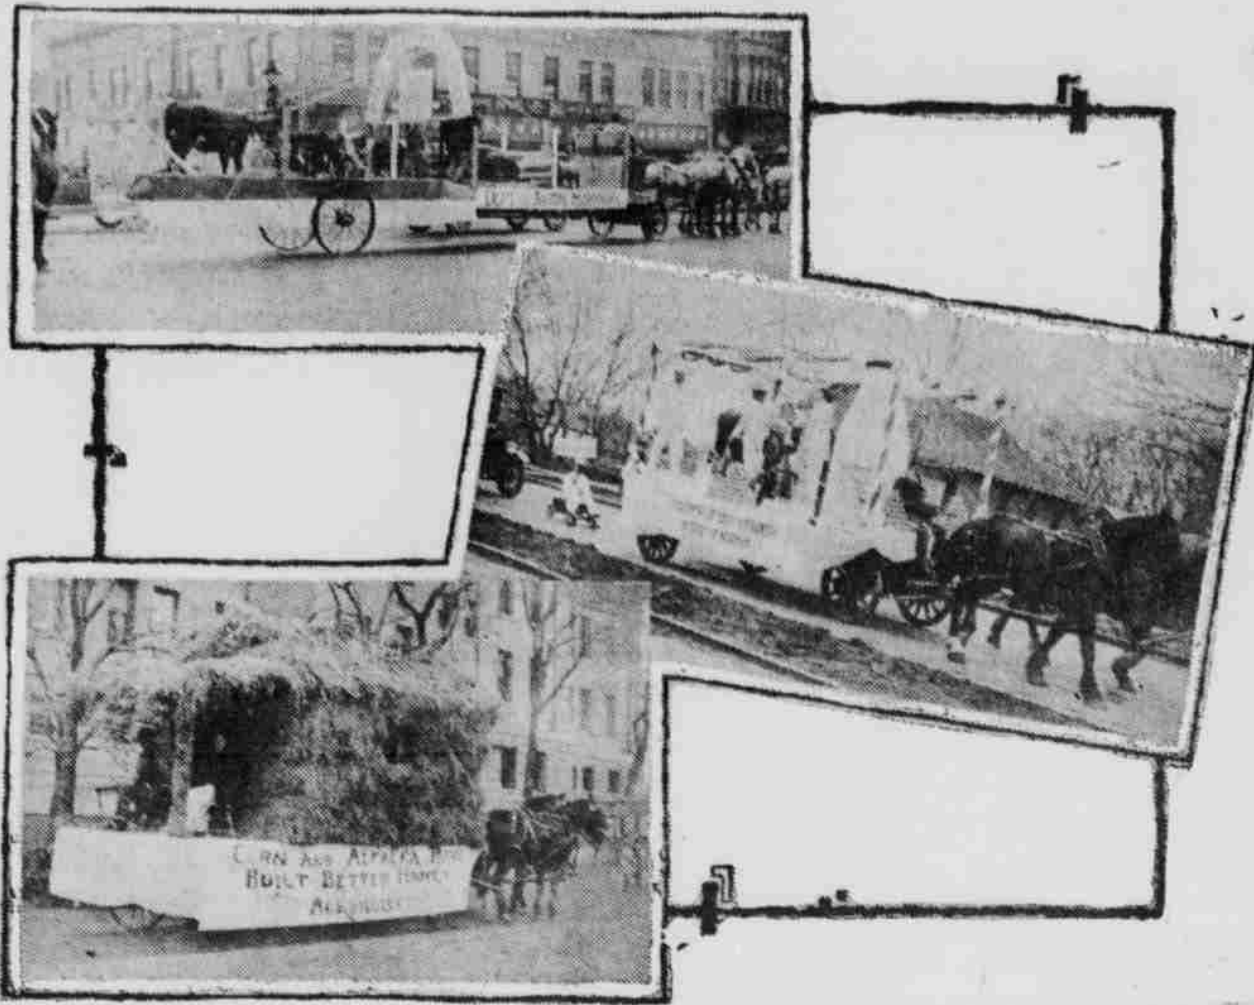

A resolution was passed asking that the presidents appoint committees in their several organizations to actively support the proposed Single Tax. Dr. Luehring expressed himself as highly in favor of the adoption of the Single Tax system at the University of Nebraska. He stated that every school where the Single Tax is in operation has a wonderful "school spirit." He gave as an illustration Pennsylvania State College, a smaller school located in a small town, which puts out some of the strongest teams in the country in every sport. Dr. Luehring said that it is the duty of every student to boost the Single Tax.

BATHING BEAUTIES AN' EVERYTHING AT FAIR

The side shows of the Farmers' Fair will furnish an atmosphere of gay abandon that Paris in her palmiest days would have failed to surpass. Some of the most novel features will be the "Bathing Beauties," "How Eve Looked in Her Wedding Dress" and "Why We Like to Kiss the Girls." To those interested in athletics, the "Greatest Long Distance Runner in the World" will be a big feature. For the students of science "The Deformed Horse" with his head where his tail should be and his tail where the head normally reposes will be a baffling freak of nature.

An especial attraction offered this year is the "Tark Town Quartet," staged by gentlemen of genuine African "accent."

The climax and crowning event of the afternoon will be a blood-curdling badger fight between a ferocious badger just received from Scottsbluffs and an enormous bull dog from Battle Creek, Nebr. This is scheduled for 5 o'clock.

Three of the floats in the annual "Farmers' Fair" given by College of Agriculture students. The first float was prepared by the Animal Husbandry department, the second by the Department of Dairy Husbandry and the lower left by the Agronomy department.

THREE HUNDRED FAIL TO FILL REQUIREMENTS

Approximately 300 cadets in the reserved officers training corps have failed to qualify on the new gallery range. Captain James Hagan urges every member who has not shot to do so at once. Only so many can be handled each day, and if one waits until the last moment he may not be accommodated and will then have to bear the consequences, as no one will be given credit in the Military department until this requirement is met.

The shooting gallery is on the third floor of Nebraska Hall and is open from 9 to 11:30 and 1 to 4:30 daily except Saturday. On Saturday it is open from 9 to 11:30 only.

There will be summer dresses, children's dresses and made-over clothing, the work of students of the home economics department. The food exhibit will show adequate and correct dietaries of what people should eat. There will also be an exhibit of model kitchen equipment and labor-saving devices. In the art sections there will be some block printing tied-and-dyed work, and elementary art principles. The home economics float will also be largely educational, contrasting old and new methods of doing women's work, such as laundering.

Vocational Courses.

Other features of the educational exhibit will show courses of study and activities of vocational high schools, a graphic representation of the development of agricultural education, the distribution of the schools over the state, the relation of the college to vocational training, and other work being done in agricultural education. The agronomy department will exhibit grains, soils, grasses, noxious weeds, and give a grain grading demonstration.

The agricultural engineering department will show what it is doing to encourage better farm buildings and the use of power farming.

To Have Poultry Exhibit.

In another place this department will exhibit chicks at the age of three weeks, nine weeks and twelve weeks, for the purpose of demonstrating good and bad methods of feeding.

Still another section will show the results of good and bad breeding. There will be a 200-egg hen on display, together with her dam and daughter. Another feature will be up-to-date poultry equipment, including aids in marketing, methods of preventing losses, etc.

STAGE FARMERS' FAIR SATURDAY

Annual Event of the College of Agriculture is Largest Single Annual Student Activity.

FEATURE AMUSEMENTS

Parade, Wild West Show, Educational Exhibits and Fortune Tellers Are on the Program.

The Farmers' Fair, the annual stunt of the College of Agriculture, will be staged on the University Farm campus Saturday, May 7. This is the third annual fair, the purpose of which is to advertise the College of Agriculture among students on the city campus, the people of Lincoln and over the state.

The Farmers' Fair is the largest single annual event on the University calendar. The entire student body and faculty of the College of Agriculture take part in the fair, which is both educational and recreational in its purpose.

To Be Largest Staged.

According to the present plans, this year's fair will be the largest ever staged at Nebraska. Not only will the educational exhibits be much larger than last year, requiring two entire floors of the Plant Industry building, but the amusement features will surpass anything heretofore staged by University students. In addition to the usual features of every fair, festival or carnival, this pageant will start off with a mammoth parade a mile in length, made up of thirty units representing every activity of the college.

The fair proper will be held in three buildings, Agricultural Engineering, Plant Industry and Home Economics. The free wild west show will be located west of the Agricultural Engineering building, on the athletic field. A midway will be located north of the Plant Industry building, with the usual entertainments, consisting of side-shows, burlesque shows, "hot dog" stands, doll racks, fish ponds, shooting galleries, roulette wheels and fortune tellers. A small admission charge for these concessions will help defray the expenses of the fair.

Best Music is Engaged.

Some of the best music available in Lincoln has been engaged for the (Continued on page three.)

STUDENTS WEAR EAR OF CORN TO ADVERTISE

The symbol of an ear of corn is being worn this week by every one who is supporting the Farmers' Fair, a total of 500. The badges are dated May 7 and the interrogation point means, "Will you be with us to help celebrate the greatest Ag festival ever held at the University of Nebraska?"

FARMERS PRESENT THE NEW SNORPEUM BILL

Acts From Lincoln Shows Have Been Secured for the Program.

One of the big entertainment features of the Farmers' Fair will be the Snorpeum bill. Three performances will be staged in a specially arranged auditorium in the Agricultural Engineering building. The first afternoon performance is scheduled for 2 o'clock, a second at 4:30 following the free Wild West show, and the evening bill will open promptly at 7:30.

Several of the acts have been secured from the down-town theaters, and the same class of entertainment will be provided as is to be seen on the best vaudeville stages of the larger cities. With the exception of one act, here will be an entire change of program for the evening performance.

FOOTBALL CANDIDATES.

All spring football candidates are especially requested to be on hand for practice this afternoon as this will be the last practice before school opens next fall.
