ATTEND THE FARMERS' FAIR!

Saturday is not merely the Ags' day to "howl." Every student in the University should journey to the Farm campus during the day and partake of the hospitality of the Agricultural College. There will be dancing, parades, exhibits and vaudeville—a veritable Atlantic City Midway or Luna Park. If you like hamburgers your taste will be satisfied; if you don't there will be other things to eat. The Farmers' Fair is an All-University activity. It needs your support—and you will get a whole lot of fun out of supporting it.

WHY NOT THE BAND TO OMAHA?

A student opinion written the other day by a Nebraskan reader suggests to us an idea that would perhaps live up the events of Omaha day, as well as inject University spirit into the hubbub of the metropolis for twelve years. The opinion follows:

"Why not take the band along with you on Omaha day? Besides providing music on the train, it would be a great advertisement for the University to have the band in Omaha. The famous strains of Nebraska tunes played by the students themselves would inject fire and pep into the excursion. When Omaha hears our band they will know that the Cornhuskers are about to take possession."

The question of finances might be a barrier to sending the band to Omaha with the six hundred or more students who expect to make the trip. However, the whole band need not be represented. There are surely enough members of that organization who would be going anyway and who would be only too glad to take their instruments along. If some scheme could be devised whereby the entire band could be sent, with expenses paid, so much the better. If this were Wisconsin, a short mass meeting would be enough to collect funds to send the band to Omaha.

We hope there may be some way in which the band can accompany the visitors when they take possession of the Gate City tomorrow.

Some of the campus signs are not quite abreast of the times. Near the driveway at the back of Administration Hall a conspicuous sign reads: "No drays and heavy hauling will be allowed here; carriages only." Perhaps this was all right twenty-five years ago, but in these days of trucks and high-powered motor cars it seems rather incongruous.

"THE MORE DANGEROUS IT IS, THE BETTER WE LIKE IT."

"The more dangerous it is, the better we like it." This is a statement that applies aptly to the American people as a whole. It was stated recently in this form by a University professor before his class of men.

The crowds that hover around a "figure-eight" at the beach resorts, the dare-devil dips of death in circuses and the large number of Americans who can hardly suppress their desire to loop-the-loop in an airplane long enough for the air-bird to reach the clouds, are extreme evidences of the Americans' love for the daring—the dangerous.

It is the same at college. We play with fire, so to speak, in some of our courses. The less we can study and get by with it at the end of the semester—the better it seems to please us, notwithstanding our knowledge gained from such a course approaches the zero mark. Sometime, however, we will find that the professor will fool us and, as a consequence, we will have a few red marks on the registrar's books to call our own. Remember that each hour counts toward graduation, and that many a student has been denied a sheepskin because he lacked only a few required hours. Let us be daring in everything we will—but let us be a little careful in the way we obtain our knowledge. Otherwise, it's like glue made from flour and water—it won't stick long.

To see the number of plaids, herringbones and tweeds which dot the campus each day is to believe that the whole of Scotland has been transplanted here. Hoot mon; is it not so?

DO HE HAVE TO PLEAD WITH YOU?

"The daily jazz dance and the cozy atmosphere will not produce Wrights, Thompsons, Simpsons, Merediths, Reeds or Paddocks." This statement by Coach Schuller in reference to Nebraska's track hopes is sound and presents the truth in a startling way.

Obviously the Coach is disappointed in Nebraska. He really thought the men of Nebraska had the courage to get out on the track five hundred strong and push Nebraska to the top notch on the stage of the cinder path sport.

"I have pleaded and begged with at least 500 promising-looking men. In today's tryouts for the Missouri Valley Freshman meet less than thirty men turned out," says the Coach.

Do Nebraska men have to be begged and pleaded to get out for track? Do you not realize that along with the boost that you give to Nebraska in this sport, you will train your body and emerge in the best of physical condition?

Support Coach Schuller and show him that he has reason to confide in you! Get out on the track and develop!

EDITORIAL OF THE DAY

CLASS SUPPORT.

(Southern California Trojan.)

It is a peculiar characteristic of colleges and universities that the student bodies of them are divided into four classes—freshman, sophomore, junior and senior—and not merely two classes as Lamb would have it—the borrowers and the lenders. It is the privilege of the majority of U. S. C. students to belong to one of these classes, but it seems as though most of them do not know it except on election day.

It is all well and good for students to turn out at elections, but it would be better if they also attended other meetings during the year in between elections, in order to become better acquainted with other members of their class and to take some part in its business. University students should know every one of their classmates and the only way for them to meet each other is through the class meetings and parties which are now so poorly supported at U. S. C.

The irregularity of meetings and the inconvenient hours at which most have them have to be held have been barriers to large attendance at class gatherings and consequently to strong class spirit, but these conditions are unavoidable and students should go out of their way occasionally to attend meetings.

It is foolishness for students to make a grand howl at election time for good officers, and having gotten them leave them to work out the class affairs alone. (A. F. W.)

FRESHMEN TROUCE VARSITY AT PRACTICE

Yearlings Defeat First String Nine by Score of 7 to 5—Team Leaves for Ames Tomorrow.

The freshmen hauled the Varsity a good drubbing in a practice contest last night at the State Farm campus diamond. The final count was 7 to 5 with the yearlings on the long end of the score.

Coach Schissler used Atkinson on the mound against the Varsity and the big fellow from the Ag school pitched a wonderful game. Munger and Peterson were on the slab for the Varsity. Atkinson's showing last night against the Varsity insures his position on the squad for the trip to Ames the latter part of this week.

The Varsity was off form last night and played very ragged ball throughout the game. Loose fielding and inability to hit in the pinches caused the downfall of the Varsity. Coach Pickett's yearlings showed up in great form against the older men and displayed a great improvement over the past couple of weeks.

Team Leaves Tomorrow.

Coach Schissler leaves tomorrow morning with a squad of thirteen or fourteen men for Ames where the Huskers will meet the Aggies in a two game series, Friday, and Saturday. Nebraska is located in fourth place in the Missouri Valley conference standing with two games won and one lost. Missouri is leading the race with seven games won and none lost.

Entries for the inter-fraternity baseball tournament will close this evening. Any fraternity that has not already entered is urged to do so at once. Entries may be turned into the athletic office in the Armory or the Student Activities office.

Owing to the fact that there will be no paper tomorrow, the schedule for the baseball tournament will be published in Sunday's paper.

Adams-Havens

Two university of Nebraska graduates, Miss Jeanette Adams of Eagle and Mark Havens of Omaha were married Monday afternoon of last week at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Adams of Eagle. Mrs. Havens is a member of Alpha Omicron Pi and Mr. Havens of Delta Tau Delta. They will make their home in Omaha.
