MEET "THE INVADER."

The first junior class play since the pre-war days of 1917 will be presented May 20. This is a revival of an old established tradition of the third-year class. The cast is composed of representative juniors. The members of Viking and Silver Serpent will conduct a tag-day Friday for the purpose of selling tickets for the production. Every University student is urged to support this play, in order that the tradition may not be compelled to be abandoned again.

The play is woven around an interesting theme. A man from the West, with nothing behind him—no friends, no family, no traditions—seeks the East. He enters New York City as "an invader" and then his job is to combat the master minds of Wall Street. He—but then, this is giving the plot away. You will know whether "the invader" succeeded or failed in his Eastern invasion if you attend the play.

THE IMPORTANCE OF SCHOLARSHIP.

Our colleges were founded for the purpose of expanding our knowledge by means of books and observation. They were intended as channels to guide new solved problems to our brains. Scholarship—the ground work of our educational institutions—seems, however, to be taking a back seat in these days of the twentieth century. Too many students place it last. Too many students think it is only part of the mechanism of a college education—something that goes along with it, but is nothing but a necessary evil.

To attain high scholarship and to get the maximum from your work at the University, it is not necessary to take on the appearance of a bearded recluse and seek isolation among musty text books. Mingling with one's fellowmen is one of the most important things that makes personality—and personality is really a vital essential of the 1921 scholar.

The days immediately following the war were reactionary and students frowned on text books. As the end of this college year approaches, we notice that members of the student body are again placing scholarship in its proper niche in the Hall of Campus Attainments. The young man or woman who attends the University just to be "doing something" is out of style. Our universities welcome those who enroll to seek knowledge and personality.

In some of the campus lavatories it would be well to install a more sanitary system of paper towels instead of requiring students to use the same linen towel that two thousand other students have used for half a week.

A good way to "rush" for students next year suggests itself in regard to the coming high school Pete day, when students from all parts of the state will visit the University. We must show them that University students do not attend Nebraska merely to "play around," but that they come here for study, character development and indulgence in worth-while campus activities, as their time permits.

THE NEBRASKA OF NEXT YEAR.

1. Spirit.
 In looking forward to what Nebraska University should expect to be next year, we must consider first of all that all-important—yet intangible thing—known as SPIRIT. We cannot put our hands on it. It is not a visible object. Yet we can tell when it is with us and when it is absent. The word SPIRIT does not merely mean the loyalty and expressions of college patriotism as outwardly displayed played at football games and other athletic events. It means more than that—it means an expressed loyalty to college at debates, all-University meetings, elections, and other affairs. It means large attendances at mass meetings, convocations and rallies. It means wholehearted cheering and singing for heroes of the Cornhusker athletic world—which is truly a world of its own.

Perhaps you noticed, in the news reels of the recent Penn relays, that the gigantic crowd which attended was symbolic of a true spirit. Every student present took part in the cheering—it was not done in groups or by those of the more energetic class. At a given signal every Penn student was on his feet ready for the beginning of the rhythmic motions that are an impressive part of the cheering of students from Eastern colleges, especially when these movements are done with clock-work precision.

It is up to us to come back to Nebraska next year with a new spirit. We must inject into the school again the enthusiasm that was at its maximum in 1916. We cannot fall below our former standards. If you don't believe there is spirit at Wisconsin, attend a summer session. They even display it then.

Make a resolution now to return to our Cornhusker school in the fall with a jaw set with the determination to make Nebraska lead in spirit! SHE CAN DO IT.

BUBBLES

By Ima Cuckoo.

Are you goin? Where you goin? Why man, where have you been at? Aint you heard bout this here Senior May Ball, wat's goin to be the neatest and slickest and swellest little old jig wat's been pulled forever? Lady luck sure enuf did smile on us all when the committee hired that Auditorium for the place and the Southern Rag-a-Jazz to furnish the shake-shake harmony. Oh lady-lady how those boys can play—when they start it makes my grandpa make a jelly-fish look like there aint a shake in him. Sure will be a sad day when those boys leave this here land of liberty to sail for Europe. And listen Lester, if they are good enuf to play for boned heads of Europe they are good enuf for me! Better get yourself a sweet lady and hike to the Senior May Ball 'cause it will be your last chance. When they go, they will be a long time gone!!!

COUNCIL MEMBERS TO BE ELECTED TODAY

Students Will Vote on Who They Want for Representatives Next Year.

Members for next year's Student Council will be voted upon today. The polls will be located—as usual in Social Science hall for the town campus students and at the dean of the College of Agriculture's office for students of agriculture. The polls will be open from 9 until 12 in the morning and from 2 until 5 in the afternoon.

Because of the inability to install the single tax it will not be voted upon as planned. The idea has been entirely given up for the present time.

The ballot containing the names of the students to be voted upon in some cases will be incomplete because of the fact that the people nominated were ineligible, because they belonged to other colleges than that in which they were nominated, or did not meet the scholarship requirement.

The following amendments to the Student Council will be voted upon tomorrow:

Article III. Student elections shall be conducted under the supervision of the Student Council.

Article IV. The Student Council shall be composed of the following representatives:

1. Twelve members appointed as follows:
 a. Seven junior men, one from each of the following colleges: Arts and Science, Engineering, Law, Pharmacy, Dentistry and Business Administration.

Article VII. Vacancies occurring in the Student Council shall be filled by the class or college in which the vacancy occurs not later than two weeks after notice of such a vacancy has been given them by the Council. Chairman of the Student Council shall call the mass meetings to fill vacancies, and act as temporary chairman, except when the vacancy occurs in the representation from the class.

Article IX. At the mass meetings for nominations there shall be at least two candidates nominated for each position to be filled. The names of the suggested nominees shall be handed to the chairman in writing and a majority standing vote necessary to nominate each one. The temporary chairman of all such mass meetings shall be the Student Council representative from the college or class.

Article XII. Students may present any proposals or grievance to the Council in writing or in person at any regular meeting.
