WHY FLUNK?

Already we hear the customary "but I'm going to study this semester," coming from the sluffers and flunkers of last year. They solemnly swear that this year there won't be any putting off of the work that will soon become a constant worry during the whole season.

Things come so easily to lots of students. A movie, a dance, a library date, or a trip down town for a coke, are the things responsible for most of the poor grades received.

A new term is starting. Times are not as good as they might be and a hardship is placed on someone to keep most of us in school. Monday our assignments will start and we must gird up our loins for battle and plan to keep our work up to date. It will be a hard awakening when one comes out of a dream and finds that too many hours are under seventy for graduation, or that a course must be taken a second time. Lets get right to work and dig.

BATting 300 PLUS.

A good baseball player hits .300. Yesterday and today the solicitors pushing the coupon book sale batted much better than that—over eight hundred tickets have been sold and registration is only two days old. Some students who refused to buy tickets Wednesday bought Thursday for they realized the advantage of this new plan. If they don't purchase, they will have to pay regular prices to see Nebraska meet the best teams in the Missouri Valley Conference, Oklahoma, the winners in the conference last year, held Nebraska to a 6-6 tie. Kansas always fights Nebraska. Regular admission to these two games, alone, is nearly equal to the first two installments on the coupon book—and after that don't forget the twenty-five other athletics contests, the use of the gymnasium and the year's membership to the Tennis Courts which is valued a $2.00. Buy one and have your "buddy" buy.

THE UNIVERSITY SING

Tonight the Committee of 200 will have charge of what is known as the "University Sing." At six-fifty-five university students are asked to assemble in the square north of the Administration building and for three-quarters of an hour they will sing Nebraska songs and songs of other universities. Mrs. Carrie B. Raymond assisted by Margaret Perry and Oscar Bennett, will do the leading. Students should get behind this for the object and accomplishment will be two-fold: First, Nebraska songs, that are so dear to present and past students, will be sung by the old and learned by the new students. Newcomers will begin to understand what the real Cornhusker spirit they have heard so much about really is. Second the mingling of the old and the new students will revive old friendships and start to initiate the new students into the brotherhood of friendships to be made at Nebraska in the four years to come.

THE COMMITTEE OF 200

The Committee of 200 is doing a work this year that it should be proud of. All traits are met by members of this committee and at once newcomers are given a good start. This organization has made it possible for students to check suit cases and bags while looking for a place to locate. To make this settling easy a list of available rooms most suited in price and location to the students' needs, is at hand. Boarding places are recommended. Constructive work of this kind on the part of the university student cannot be praised too highly.
