COYOTES EXPECT TO SURPRISE HUSKERS

Wesleyan Coach Will Not Predict But Promises Scarlet and Cream a Real Battle

HUSKER CLAN IS HEAVIER

Nebraska Will Use Three Elevens in First Scheduled Contest of Season Saturday

Coach McCandless of the Wesleyan aggregation is making no predictions on the outcome of the Husker-Methodist battle Saturday but in an interview yesterday afternoon promised to surprise the Scarlet and Cream performers. Nebraska has not met the Wesleyan eleven since 1916 when the Cornhuskers snowed the University Place athletes under by a 21 to 0 count.

With a big squad out for Varsity positions, Coach McCandless is having trouble in picking a first string eleven. Most of last year's letter men who are eligible for Varsity work have returned and have donned the mole skins. The kicking job probably rest on the shoulders of Kalm last year's star booter. Kalm registered a beautiful field goal in a post season contest against Grand Island here last fall but the kick was not allowed.

The Huskers will outweigh the Wesleyan men by a large number of pounds to the man and Coach Dawson does not expect much trouble in stopping a line plunging attack with his Husky forward wall. Nebraska will probably rally to straight football throughout the entire contest. The Cornhusker mentor will probably use three elevens in Saturday's contest. Wesleyan will probably use an aerial attack and try for points by the field route whenever in scoring distance.

Coach Dawson, with his assistants, Frank and Day put the Scarlet and Cream warriors through a stiff workout last night consisting of preliminary work and dummy tackling. Following this two elevens battled each other in a thirty minute scrimmage period. Saturday's game should give followers of the Husker clan some idea of the strength of the 1921 machine.

FROSH TO LEARN VARSITY TRADITIONS

Innocents and Black Masques Plan Special Convocations For First Year Students

Special convocations or particular interest to freshmen students will be held Thursday morning at 11 o'clock. The men will meet in the chapel in the armory and the women in the Temple Theater. The convocations which are annual affairs, are for the purpose of acquainting new students with campus life and student activities.

The different phases of student life, what the different organizations stand for, and how to take part in student affairs will be explained to the first year students. Faculty members and students will make short talks.

The Black Masques, the local chapter of Mortarboard, national senior girls honorary organization will be in charge of the convocation for women. Miss Amanda Heppner, Dean of Women, and Dr. Winifred F. Hyde of the psychology department of the University, will be the main speakers. Short talks will also be given by the presidents of the different girls organizations on the campus.

Innocents, senior honorary society for men. Dean Engberg and Director men, are arranging the convocation. Leuhring will tell of scholarship, traditions, and athletics in the University. Other speakers may appear on the program. The Innocents promise an interesting hour for all who attend.

A feature of both convocations will be organized cheering and songs. Aspirants for places as cheer leaders will lead the new students in songs and cheers.

WILL ANNOUNCE STAFF OF CORNHUSKER SOON

The Cornhusker staff will be announced soon, is the word given out by the editor, Ward Randall. He is giving a great deal of care to the selection of his staff, and it is his plan to have some of the best journalists in school holding down the important jobs. The task of editing the student life section will be personally looked after by himself, and he will be solely responsible for that part of the book to the faculty censor.

CO-EDS HOLD FIRST VESPER SERVICES

Khanto Rai Tells of Her First Impressions of This Country and It's People

One hundred and fifty girls heard Khanto Rai, a student from India, give her first impressions of this country and heard Nebraska's delegates to the Lake Geneva conference give a full report of the work accomplished by the conference, at the first vesper service of the year, Tuesday, in Ellen Smith hall. Miss Erma Appleby, the new Y. W. C. A. secretary, spoke upon the need of class reconciliation.

Devotionals were led by Grace Staff, president of the Y. W. C. A., who emphasized service as the keynote of the conference. Special music for the service consisted of a vocal duet by Elizabeth Montgomery and Therese Mullaly.

Khanto Rai said that when she got her first impression of American college girls, at the Geneva conference, he noticed they acted in groups and did everything on such a large scale that she felt lost.

Miss Appleby spoke on the need of reconciliation between the college girl and the industrial worker, between races and between religions. It seemed to her that the thing needed most on the campus is unifying force to unite the many groups into one large working body.

Elva Krogh gave the rules and methods of self government of the six hundred girls attending the conference.

Betty Gift reported on the classes which every girl enrolled was expected to attend.

Adelheit Dettman gave in detail a report on the "Three Forums," the international problem, the college girl problem and the industrial problem.

Janette Cook spoke of the pageant given on membership night. A chorus of two hundred girls formed the Y. W. C. A. triangle. At the apex of the triangle was one girl representing the spirit of the Y. W. C. A.

Margaret Hager reported on the recreations and entertainments of the camp, swimming, tennis, boating, hiking and basketball.

Laws Have a Club Room Where They Argue Mooted Law

The law college club room is a feature that all law students enjoy. A space has been set aside from the classroom atmosphere to be used as a general meeting place for members of all classes. Here is where the mooted joints are discussed with the greatest fervor; here is where the merits of "The Tam" are brought to the front, and enthusiasm for the coming game is fired; here, with judicial mien, and feet atop the table, future barristers loosen bits of rare philosophy; here, in fact, is where Dan Seavey's theory that law is not a lonesome science is proved conclusively.

There is serious talk among the students in the law college of adding a few more epicures and easy chairs, which, although they could not possibly augment the good fellowship apparent, might make the Den more attractive.

Awgwan Contributors.
Contributors for the freshman number of the Awgwan should be mailed to the Awgwan editor, Station A, immediately. Members of this year's staff will be selected from those who can contribute the most and best material.

SERVED AS SPY IN WAR WITH GERMANY

Miroslav Marek, University Student, Enlisted in the Russian Army at the Age of Ten Years

HAS CIRCLED THE GLOBE

He Visited Japan, China, India, and Egypt, and Has Covered Many Localities in America

By Joe Pekar

A war veteran of five years' service at the age of fifteen—when most of the lads of that age are shooting marbles and wondering about the first year in high school—that is the record of a University of Nebraska freshman, registered this fall. Miroslav Marek, Czecho-Slovakian, is the youngest veteran of the world war. He entered the Russian army a full-fledged soldier when he was ten years of age, and served five years at the front. He was decorated at Moscow in 1915 by Czar Nicholas with the Royal Cross of St. George, at Omsk in 1918 with the French spy medal by General Janin, and at Prague in 1920 by President Masaryk with the Czecho-Slovak Cross of Honor.

Marek is a war orphan. His father a captain in the Russian army, was killed a few months after the war began. He had been station master at Brno (Brunn) the land of his birth, but was involved in a political uprising with the Hapsburgs, and fled for his life to Russia with three-year-old Miroslav, who was thus reared as an exile. The mother died soon after.

AWGWAN CAMPAIGN CONTINUES TODAY

First Day of Subscription Race Indicates that Students Are Not Backing Their Comic.

DOLLAR BUYS NINE ISSUES

Management Offers Prize Each Day of Campaign for Highest Number of Subscriptions.

The best comic publication in college circles should receive the 100 per cent support of the students. The campaign for subscriptions to the Awgwan, the University of Nebraska comic, began Tuesday. The reports of Tuesday evening did not indicate any extraordinary number of subscriptions. Efforts are made every year and every month to make a bigger and better Awgwan. In order to do so it must have the support of every loyal Cornhusker. This year subscriptions to the Awgwan are being sold for one half of last year's price. A magazine of the quality of the Awgwan cannot be edited for a one dollar, nine months subscription price unless it receives the support of the entire student body.

The Awgwan is Nebraska University's comic. It belongs to each and every student. Contributions are for the most part from the student body. Cartooning of a quality never before equaled is going into the Awgwan of this year. All drawings are the product of an art staff entirely composed of students.

To Give Prizes.

FIRST ALL-UNIVERSITY PARTY HELD SATURDAY

Committees Have Been Working Hard to Make Fun-Fest a Memorable Affair.

The first all-university party of the year is scheduled for Saturday night, and the committees in charge are hard at work perfecting plans to make this initial mixer one that will long be remembered by students both new and old. The Armory is to be the scene of the fun-fest and it is expected that it will be jammed with hundreds of students.

A. K. Hepperly is general chairman of the committees in charge and he announces that the work is rapidly progressing and arrangements being completed. Florence Price is secretary of the committee.

Freshmen are especially urged to attend the party. It will afford them an unusual opportunity to get acquainted and learn something of university customs and traditions.

The committee chairman has announced the following committees:

FOOTBALL RESULTS FLASHED BY RADIO

Urbana, Ill., Sept. 27.—Following last night's official test of the western conference radio news service, the purpose of which is to broadcast the results of football games and other athletic contests, the operators of the local plant are confident that the project will be a success. The messages sent out by the Madison, Wisconsin, Purdue and Northwestern universities were received here in full and connection was set up with other schools of the conference.

FROSH MAKE RUN ON GREEN CAP SUPPLY

Some So Anxious That They Get In On Second Issue—To Make Check on Men

Magee's announces that the Freshman cap supply has vanished and that the firm is forced to send another hurry call for more green lids. The freshmen have come to Nebraska in larger numbers than was at first believed possible and now the company is short a goodly number of green top pieces for the first year students.

One factor which comes to light in the giving away of the yearling sky pieces that shows some lack of the proper spirit among the freshmen who have committed the atrocity. This is the duplication of names that appears on the Magee register. Student and university honor with some touch of pride in the class should prevent the freshmen from making any such breaks as have been perpetrated this week.

Magee's will have no more caps for several days. They have ordered just enough to go around the remainder of the Capless Frosh and will open at a time to be announced later for the giving away of the caps. Some student who is well acquainted with the members of the class will assist in giving away the caps and in watching for those who are attempting to defraud their brothers in taking more than their share of the sky pieces.

DEAN HEPNER TO ENTERTAIN AT TEA

The first tea of the season will be given by Dean Heppner Thursday afternoon from four to six at Ellen Smith hall. It will be for the University girls, the house-directors of the dormitories, and the chaperons of the sororities. The guests of honor will be Mrs. S. Avery, Miss Appleby, Mrs. J. Thompson, hostess of Ellen Smith hall, Miss Wilson, assistant dean of women, and Miss Dunning, manager of the Commons. The receiving and introducing will be done by the members of the W. S. G. A. board, and of the Advisory board and the members of the Y. W. C. A. cabinet will serve the refreshments.

August Esser is a Regular Evening Campus Visitor

Students who have occasion to walk about the campus evenings have noticed the full-faced, grey haired man sitting on one of the benches near U-hall. Sometimes he is reading a paper, sometimes spiritedly talking with one of the night watchmen. His umbrella—he always carries one—is always on the ground at his feet.

The man is August Esser, an old-time newspaper man of Lincoln, for many years connected with the German Free Press, of this city. Whenever the weather is favorable he is to be seen on the campus in the evening.

CLASS ELECTIONS
Filings for class presidential elections must be made at the Student Activities office in the basement of Administration hall by 5 p. m. Friday, September 30, 1921.

GREATER AG SCHOOL URGED BY BURNETT

Tuesday Convocation is Attended by 300 Students—Schulte is Present, Giving Talk

Over three hundred agricultural students and faculty assembled in the auditorium in Agricultural Hall for a spirited convocation, Tuesday at 11 o'clock. University and college yells led by Reed and McDill added much to the spirit of the occasion.

E. C. Brown, president of the Ag Club, acted as chairman. Dean Burnett, who was the first speaker, talked on the subject, "A Greater Ag College." He urged a more thorough knowledge of our agricultural college in Nebraska high schools.

Coach Schulte made an interesting talk about athletics in which he stressed the importance of physical exercise to maintain one's health while in school. He emphasized participation in track as a means by which each individual might easily secure this exercise and "at the same time draw a constant salary of good health and a wider acquaintance with university people. He urged the girls to take an active interest in outdoor exercise.

Professor Rankin gave an inspiring talk on, "Relation of Community Life to College Life." F. E. Old, of the Extension Department in agriculture at Missouri, concluded the hour with a peppy talk on "Pep in Ag College."

Every one left the auditorium at the end of the hour filled with a greater college spirit and feeling that he was more in unity with his fellow students.

It is planned that such lively convocations be held regularly during the semester in order that the students may get the "convocation habit" as urged by Dean Burnett.
