

BEN CHERRINGTON TALKS TO STUDENTS

Noted Y. M. C. A. Official Addresses Members of Industrial Research Club.

DISCUSSES ENGLISH LABOR

Post-bellum Effects On Working Classes Described at Meeting at Grand Hotel.

Ben Cherrington, chairman of the international committee of the Y. M. C. A. addressed the Industrial Research club at its first open meeting of the year, October 11, at the banquet room of the Grand hotel, on "The Labor Movement in Europe."

In his words, "The notes collected by me and what I shall tell you tonight are facts and reports gleaned and compiled by a committee of thirty sent to England to investigate labor conditions. I was acting as an advance agent and went to England first to arrange for their comfort. At first I found that the English people had more than a little suspicion of me as they had had so many 'duds' come from America but after awhile they discovered that we meant business and that we were humble, and conscious of our ignorance. Then they went to the utmost limits to place every source of information in our hands."

"When the time came for the party to come to Europe they received such a lot of information that it is quite probable that the data collected by this committee is as thorough-going and reports as wide a survey as is possible. The members of this committee interviewed many prominent leaders of labor organizations on the continent, and in addition, of course, interviewed representatives of the American Red Cross, Mr. Hoover's men and the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. people."

"Of all student organizations that impressed me the most favorably, the British Christian Movement of Students stood out as an important factor in solving the economic problem in England. This is an organization similar to our Y. M. and Y. W. but does not think in terms of reaching to the circumference of a college, rather it is actuated by trying to reach the members and reach them in such a vital way that they will be of service in solving the problem. The British Students Christian movement is a factor in the political world."

"After I stood there in England and beheld that vast sea of misery and sorrow and then looked back at the United States it seemed to me that the hope of the world was in the youth of our land and especially in the youth of the middle west. If only the students here could be made to face the fact and focus their minds on those facts, we would have a power that would move the world. We should all realize the utter futility of under-

MORE FRESHMAN CAPS.

Two hundred green caps for freshmen will be given away today between 1 and 5 at Magoo's clothing store to those first year men who have not yet secured their emerald headgear. A member of the Innocents society will be on hand to see that the distribution is conducted properly. This will furnish caps so that every freshman should have one in time for the Haskell Indian game Saturday.

"BILL" DAY.

Day is one of the men who are building the 1921 Husker gridiron machine. He is assisting Fred Dawson in line coaching. Day was varsity captain last year and ranks as one of the greatest centers Nebraska has ever had.

REDSKIN ATTACK COMES SATURDAY

Three Days Left for Dawson to Whip Varsity Into Shape for Haskell Indians.

BASSETT LEAVES SCHOOL

Big Tackle Will Not Play With Huskers During Remainder of 1921 Gridiron Season.

Preparations for the Indian invasion next Saturday are under full steam with Coach Dawson at the throttle of the eleven man machine that is to represent the Scarlet and Cream against the Redskins. The varsity is undergoing one of the stiffest grinds of the season this week and Coach Dawson and his assistants are driving the squad at full speed during every minute of the work.

Scrimmage with the freshmen brought out a number of weak points of the varsity and the regulars as a whole did not exhibit their usual brand of football. The yearlings held them on a number of occasions for short gains and were in scoring distance only to be stopped by the varsity line. Coach Young has developed an attack for the Frosh that caught the varsity napping more than once.

The varsity was dealt another blow this week when Bassett did not report for work. Reports are to the effect that the big Husker tackle has left school and will not return this semester. This adds another name to the list of men who are either ineligible or out of the game on account of physical reasons.

Scherer worked with the varsity a while last night but is still being troubled with a bad ankle. The Haskell Indians are due to arrive in Lincoln sometime Friday and will probably take a light workout on Nebraska field or at the Ag. college gridiron that day. Coach Madison Bell, of the Indian institute is bringing a squad of twenty-five men to Lincoln to battle the Huskers and the lineup included some of the best football players in any of the Kansas schools.

Scrimmage with the yearlings will be held this evening with the first and second string men working against each other part time. Final directions and instructions will be given the men tomorrow evening. Coach Dawson expects to give the men mostly signal work tonight and tomorrow evening. All practice will be continued to be held behind closed gates and Director Luehring has especially requested that visitors be on hand Saturday to help out and stay away from the field during the week.

UNIVERSITY ALUMNUS PLANNED NEW SCHOOL

University Trade School Backed By U. of N. Graduate and the American Legion.

The $75,000 appropriation made by the state legislature last winter for the establishment of a University of Nebraska trade school was the result of a bill introduced by a graduate of the university—Charles S. Reed, assistant state attorney general, who was a member of that body. Mr. Reed seeing need for a vocational training school in the state to aid in the rehabilitation of 1,550 ex-soldiers, introduced the bill and with the co-operation of the legislature, and of Governor McKelvie, it was passed in fine shape.

Mr. Reed also has a part in the establishment of the school. Professors of the university, representatives of the department of labor, state department of vocational education and of the American legion all helped to plan the school.

The appropriation made by the last legislature will be practically the last necessary, in the opinion of Mr. Reed. The tuition which the students will pay will cover the expenses. The United States government will pay this tuition for the injured ex-service men and the state department of labor will stand the expense of training for men injured in the trades. The trade school is the only school in the state of Nebraska which teaches men trades and does not have the requirement of an elementary education.

The purpose of the school is to give the men a short course a complete working knowledge of a trade which (Continued on Page Four.)

The University of Nebraska is entitled to five candidates for the honor. Other colleges in the state are allowed candidates in proportion to their enrollment as follows:

TRYOUTS FOR CROSS COUNTRY TEAM HELD

Coach McMasters Begins Work of Choosing Varsity Team From Twenty Applicants.

The first cross country try-outs of the year were held yesterday afternoon and the results were very satisfactory according to a statement issued by Coach McMasters. The tests were held merely to give the coaches a chance to get a line on the material at hand and will have no bearing on the final selection of the team.

The course covered was practically four and one quarter miles. The time of each man is given below. Here is the order in which they finished:

FARLEY YOUNG.

Young has charge of the 1921 Yearling crew. He is developing the men who are to be the Cornhusker stars of years to come. He is an old varsity man himself and well fitted for the responsible position he holds.

FOOTBALL RALLY TO BE FRIDAY EVENING

Armory to be Scene of Cheering and Singing in Preparation For Haskell Indians.

The initial football rally of the school year will be held Friday, October 14, from 7:00 to 7:30 p. m., in the armory, on the eve of the gridiron clash between the cornhuskers and the Haskell Indians. The innocents society will be in charge.

Every student is asked to show true Nebraska spirit and be present for the half hour of cheering. Fraternities and sororities are expected to attend en masse.

"We are asking every student who reads this to see that five others attend this rally," said a member of the committee yesterday. "In this way we will be assured of a big attendance."

Many students at the university have not yet been introduced to Coach Dawson. He will be on the platform Friday night. Many students have not met all the men who comprise the Cornhusker moleskin squad. Every member of the team will be seated before the assembly the night of the rally and they will be introduced by Captain Clarence Swanson.

Nebraska's cheerleaders—Ed. Shoemaker, Fred Richards and Richard Kimball—will be on hand to lead in Cornhusker yells, songs, and the famous chant.

The university band will play at the gathering. Because "The Cornhusker," Nebraska's anthem, is not sung with the enthusiasm that should be displayed, groups of students who congregate in dormitories, in the university Y. M. C. A., in Ellen Smith hall, in fraternity and sorority houses are asked to learn this song before the rally Friday night.

"To hear 'The Cornhusker' sung on the football field by the two or three hundred students who are displaying enough spirit to sing, is to listen to something akin to a funeral dirge," remarked a co-ed yesterday. "Every student of the University of Nebraska should know this song, forwards, backwards and sideways."

Moonlight and Gentle Zephyrs Sure to Bring The Serenaders

Moonlight and gentle zephyrs!

Doesn't that make you think of a wonderful, low serenade late at night? The moon shines down on a quartet that has gathered out on the side walk in front of the house and they sing "Moon" and after much shouting for "more" they favor us with another selection; this time they put a little more pep into their song—perhaps a little jazz this time, but always the same harmony—the tenor singing out above all the rest and making the hearts beat with a striddle rapidity in the window up above. When this has reached its end and has received due hand clapping and more shouting they sing a fraternity song just to let the fair ones know who it is that has such good voices and besides they want you to appreciate the fact that they took the trouble to stop

PRESIDENT OF BOARD SPEAKS

Dr. P. L. Hall, Head of University Regents, Lectures to First Year Students.

UNI. IS PEOPLES SCHOOL

Warns Freshmen Against Excess Social Activities While Attending U. of N.

"The University of Nebraska is a people's school, maintained by the toil and sweat of the taxpayers, and the students of this institution should realize the responsibility thus placed upon them." This was the outstanding thought in the addresses delivered by Dr. P. L. Hall of Lincoln, president of the university board of regents, at the regular freshmen lectures Monday afternoon and Tuesday morning. He spoke of student life and activities from the point of view of the regents saying that their work was the work of love and patriotism rather than of remuneration. The regents, he said, have many difficult problems to settle. They feel heavily the responsibility of having resting upon them the faith of so many taxpayers who are generously supporting the university.

Dr. Hall said that the taxpayers take a pride in the future welfare of their state. They want to see Nebraska youth enter the battle of life prepared to shoulder the burdens of good citizenship. The citizens of this state are making the sacrifice necessary to educate their young people. Students therefore cannot afford to waste their time in university. They must realize that it is a privilege to come to university, and make every minute spent here count.

"You must emerge able and fit to take our responsibilities upon your shoulders," said Dr. Hall.

He quoted Emerson's saying that educated men are prone to do one of three things. They sometimes keep themselves in cloister-like seclusion that they might spend their time in thought; they may shout their thoughts from the rostrum; or they may translate their thoughts into actions. It is the latter type of men and women that the university endeavors to turn out. Dr. Hall hoped the university students would learn to think soundly but that they would also learn to act. Some men are brilliant thinkers but they think along wrong lines. They lead people in the wrong direction. University students should learn to think soundly, reach an ultimate conclusion, and not allow error to creep into their mental processes.

Social Problem is Big One.

The problem of social activities is one of the regents' chief problems.

NO WOMEN CHEERLEADERS.
After answers by telegram from Wisconsin, Iowa, Ames, Missouri, Minnesota and other schools, which said "no" to the letters that asked them whether they had women cheerleaders at these institutions, it has been decided at the Cornhusker school to dispense with co-ed leaders here, except probably for the women's sections in the bleachers, and to divide the main cheering between three men: Fred Richards, '23, Richard Kimball, '23, and Edgar Shoemaker, '24.
