THE BAND.

While we are singing the praises of the other university organizations, let us not forget to show our appreciation of the band. Whenever there is something doing the band is always at hand and ready with music appropriate for the occasion. The fact that they are always on the job is a commendable characteristic for we have all felt the temptation to back out occasionally when we do not feel inclined to participate in an event.

What would a football game or a parade be like without a band to lead the cheering? It would doubtless be rather dull for it takes the band to awaken the slumbering patriotism that we are sometimes slow in showing. It is impossible not to respond to the spirit of the music and the crowd becomes full of enthusiasm. The student that is not thoroughly aroused when the band plays U-U-Uni has but little genuine Cornhusker blood in him. "The Cornhusker" is a wonderful song but it sounds just twice as good when the band accompanies the singing.

The band always displays a spirit that is very fitting for the university to show, and it is shown in their willingness to play as well as in the music. We will be doing nothing amiss as long as we leave it to the band to express the temper of our college.

We are strong for the band.

FRESHMEN SPIRIT.

Class spirit and co-operation—what do they mean to us? How can any class hope to pull together and remain firm and influential without that strong and essential foundation of class spirit and its running mate—co-operation. It is usually very hard for first year students to acquire this group consciousness and to realize fully the need of working together at all times.

The great battle to which all students are looking forward—olympics—is looming into view. In order to give the freshman a firmer basis from which to work, the all-university party committee is giving to them the entire charge of the freshman mixer to be held at the armory, Saturday evening. In addition to this, the freshmen are to have all the proceeds from this party to use in preparation for olympics. This is the second time that the freshmen have been given charge of a big mixer to which all other classes are barred. Last year the party was a great success. Seven hundred enthusiastic freshmen helped to make it a success, and their spirit shown at that party has been a great factor in the development of the sophomore class of this year.

Every freshman should feel personally responsible for the results of the olympics, and if he is a loyal classman he will be at the armory on Saturday evening, he will meet his classmates and plan for the greatest freshman class that the university has ever known. First year students who openly shun a gathering of their own classmates on a night like this are the ones who are responsible for the breaking down of the spirit of their class and for any defeat which they might suffer at the hands of their upper-classesmen.

Contemporary Opinion
(Unl. of Washington Daily.)

COMMERCIALIZING FOOTBALL.
The fact that a number of Washington won tidy sums by betting on the outcome of the Montana game last Saturday may have served as a source of additional jubilation for them, but it should also serve as a subject for serious consideration by the student body as a whole.

Betting tends to break down the morale, not only of the team but of the student body. A team struggling, even in the smallest degree, to save its friends from financial loss, cannot fight with that same pure zeal when it fights for alma mater's sake alone. A stand of rooters cannot cheer with that same unselfish fervor if some of the group have bet on the outcome of the game. Then, if a man loses he cannot help feeling some resentment toward the team.

Betting has proved the downfall of more than one respected sport. Horse racing, boxing, even baseball have yielded to the taint of commercialism. Football has been a lone outpost, one sport free from the muck of gambling.

Not the slightest possible chance should be taken that may eventually drag football down into the mire of commercialized sports. For the sake of the game and for Washington, the students should be willing to forego the doubtful pleasure of betting on football games. Let's keep football clean.

Student Opinion.

To the Editor of the Daily Nebraskan: What has become of the University Post of the American Legion? Is it dying or already dead? Most of the officers failed to return to school, true, but that is no reason for abandoning the organization.

If, as has been sometimes suggested, there are already too many student activities for the University, to be able to do justice to an American Legion Post, why not make arrangements for consolidation with the city post?

"Charter Member."

To the Editor of the Daily Nebraskan: Next Saturday Nebraska meets Oklahoma in her first Missouri Valley game. The Nebraska team will be out on the gridiron to fight to the last and win for Nebraska. But the laws will have their section reserved and will yell for the laws. The fine arts will have their section reserved, the Bizads, their section; the A. and S. their section, and probably some more colleges, their sections. They will each be yelling for their own colleges and scraping over their college lids. But all of this time the team will be out on the field giving everything they have for Nebraska. They won't be thinking of the college they are in nor will they care what college we are in but they will be fighting for Nebraska University. College loyalty is a healthy thing on the campus but can't we have it out of the football game? The team does. You would be sore if each man on the team began fighting for his college. If a Sooner pulls down the Cornhusker colors lets bust his neck. But why bring college yells and college color scraps into the stadium to split the expert? The Sooner game is going to be a hard fought bout. We want our men to win. Lets get behind them and give them the united support of Nebraska University instead of a bunch of colleges. Are we hypenated Nebraskans at the game?

NEWS OF THE DAY

Possible Postponement of Opening Session.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Postponement of the opening meeting of the international conference armament and far eastern affairs until the morning of November 12 was intimated as probable in high circles today.
Conflict between the program as originally drafted for the conference and that for the ceremonies incident to Armistice day, burial of America's unknown soldier was given as the reason for the probable postponement.

Band of Bandits Make Rich Haul.
MEXICO CITY, Oct. 25.—Government troops were engaged today in tracking a band of highwaymen which last night held up an express train at Atzacapotzaco, a suburb of this city, killing six persons, wounding five others and robbing the express car of packages valued at 200,000 pesos. The robbers fled in automobiles and vanished into the hills.

Lloyd-George to Sai' Nov. 3.
NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—The Cunard line announced today that the Aquitana, bringing Prime Minister Lloyd-George and his official party to the armament conference at Washington, would sail from Southampton November 3, two days ahead of regular schedule.

Seven Features of the Eppo Petticoat

FIRST—These petticoats are made of a particularly good quality of silk and that means a good deal.

SECOND—There is no vent in the back of the Eppo—it is snapped up at one side in front. An elastic is run thru the back in such a way that the gathers are always perfectly adjusted, no matter how far the elastic stretches.

THIRD—The snaps and placket are the flattest and smoothest imaginable, the placket being cut in on strip and all the tailoring of the best. At the placket belt there are double snaps.

FOURTH—Nearly all Eppos are braided bound to increase the wear round the hem.

FIFTH—The fullness over the hips is taken up in smoothly fitting darts.

SIXTH—Eppo petticoats have five gores; practically all other petticoats have four.

SEVENTH—And last of all, there is a great range of colors, and the materials include styles with jersey tops, with taffeta and satin, flounces and styles which are all taffeta and all jersey.
