ON WITH THE DANCE.

Dancing is one of the most delightful relaxations available for students at Nebraska. University students in larger cities than Lincoln are afforded a variety of entertainment which we lack here. For this reason we must and do resort almost entirely to dancing for our amusement.

Friendship, sociability, and interchange of ideas, are three distinct features of a party that bring momentary and lasting pleasure to the participants. A new acquaintance, a bit of repartee that is worth repeating or a slightly altered idea, are things we seek, and which are worth while.

Does our dancing at Nebraska afford these things to us? At the present time it DOES NOT. Nebraskans have been called snobs and much promising material goes to other schools because of the reputation however groundless it may be. How much does our method of dancing have to do with this?

Before the war no dance was complete without elaborate programs. They served as a guide to the dancers throughout the evening and were kept as souvenirs which brought back happy memories. Nebraska now dances without programs. The result is that a couple will dance throughout an entire evening without exchanging a single dance. What chance have the dancers for making new friends, enjoying dances with those that they already are acquainted with, or exchanging ideas with students they may never again have the opportunity to talk with?

Already a step in the revival of that once popular custom of dancing with programs has been made. Congratulations are due the originator of the idea, and perhaps the girls who suffer in silence because of the shiftless foot-work of their dancing partners will heave a sigh of relief when they find that new steps and new wit will be mixed with the old.

OUR ARMISTICE DAY.

The action of the University of Nebraska in getting behind the celebration of the city of Lincoln to be held on armistice day is well worthy of the support of all students in the university. Armistice day has been declared a legal holiday in the state of Nebraska by action of the last legislature. This day stands for more in the lives of present day people and in the lives of future generations than most of holidays observed at present. The fact that the recent war was so much greater than the revolutionary war and the fact that it culminated in liberty for all the people of the world makes this day as great as the fourth of July.

In the parade to be held by the city, there will be a section for the university. Every student should march in this section as a patriotic duty.

OUR CROSS-COUNTRY TEAM.

Tomorrow our cross-country team will swing their pedal extremities over the recently surveyed five-mile course, in the first race of the season—the dual meet with the Kansas Aggies. Five miles is a long distance and the pace set is a grueling one, searching for any weakness of body, will, determination or generalship, in the participants. Our team is worthy of our colors.

Heroic work by our men has been shown in the past. On one occasion in a Missouri Valley race a Husker was thrown into the ditch with cramps—but he pulled himself to gether and finished. In the Kansas dual meet another fighter ran three miles with a broken vein in his side. Last Thanksgiving a gritty Husker ran the last mile after breaking a bone in his foot. Work of this kind deserves the highest praise on our part. Men of this calibre show the true Nebraska spirit.

Let's back them as we do our football team!

Yesterday's Paper regarding School on the Friday after Thanksgiving. We will go Even farther. We think it's a Damn shame.
