

HUSKERS AGAIN SUPREME

NEW PUBLICATION FOR AG COLLEGE

Cornhusker Countryman To Make Its Appearance at Special Ag. Convocation.

FIRST ISSUE ON TUESDAY

Dean Burnett To Introduce College Magazine To Students And Faculty.

The Cornhusker Countryman, the new college of agriculture publication will be off the press and ready for distribution Tuesday morning. A special Ag college convocation, to be held in Ag auditorium at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning, has been called by Dean E. A. Burnett to introduce this college magazine to the students and faculty.

This is the first issue of this "magazine devoted to agricultural progress" and the staff wishes to give it a good start to insure its success. The staff has been working hard and earnestly to make The Cornhusker Countryman a real college magazine which will cater not only to students in agriculture but to teachers of agriculture, to high schools, to county agents, and to others throughout the state who have an interest in the progress of agriculture. Those who have seen proof of the magazine feel that the staff have made a success in this magazine, and that it is indeed the product of a live college.

The Cornhusker Countryman takes the place this year of Agriculture of former years. The new name is more appropriate than the old, and the magazine is a decided improvement over the former publication.

The staff which consists of Grant Lantz, editor in chief, O. M. Kreuger, business manager, and Alfred Stenger, circulation manager, and a host of departmental editors are real optimists about the future of the magazine.

The departmental editors are Hugh Beall, agricultural engineering; Viola Fisher, animal husbandry; H. P. Compton, dairy; W. M. Shrader, horticulture; Bernice Elwell, home economics; O. L. Halberstien, poultry; J. W. Nielson, sports; and J. L. Proebsting, Helen Meyer and John McIlwain, student life.

The entire staff held a pep meeting during dinner hour Thursday evening to plan the introduction of the magazine. They have planned an interesting program for the convocation Tuesday morning and urge every Ag student to attend.

PHI DELTA KAPPA HAS NATIONAL CONVENTION

A meeting of Phi Delta Kappa, the national educational fraternity, was held in Omaha on Thursday of association week. Members were present from six different chapters including Nebraska. A luncheon was given in honor of Professor Engelhart of Columbia University and Superintendent Scott of Louisville, Ky.

Zoological Society Initiation Is An Ordeal Of Many Terrors

Screams, shrieks, moans and lamentations that made even the cadavers in the dissecting room turn over in their swaddling echoed through the uncanny halls of Bessey building just before the unearthly hour of midnight on Thursday last. Tortures without number were endured, trials without end were encountered as the captive souls staggered back and forth in the thralls of serfdom through the echoing rooms of that great building. The Zoological Society was holding its annual initiation.

Blindfolded and sick at heart, the initiates were duly instructed into the rites and ceremonies. Though fortified by a strengthening medicine, known only to those who have endured the terrors of the gruesome ordeal, yet the new members barely survived the awe inspiring introduction and handclasp with Sambo, the Sovereign Royal of the anatomy laboratory.

But recompense came at last for those who suffered upon the rack and the meek and lowly initiates were finally led into the banquet room where they drowned their sorrows in cherry pie and made merry by imitating the animals they were supposed to know so well.

The initiates included: Howard Turner, Florence Sherman, Alice Bergland, Mae Bergland, Adelheit Dettman, Allen Wolsott, Henry Johnson, Laurens Masoy, Marjorie McGhee, Andrew M. Shoepel, Roscoe Luce, Eleanor Lowry, Paul Bancroft, Beulah Oberdorfer, Samuel Yabroff, and Helen Parker.

"DAVE" NOBLE.

Flashy end runs and good consistent playing marked "Dave" as one of the stars in the battle for the Missouri Valley title at Ames yesterday.

STUDENTS WANT TO HOLD "HELLO" DAY

Nebraska May Try Having Day Of Greeting—Other Universities Have Similar Traditions.

"Hello" day is something that the University of Nebraska has never as yet tried. Last year considerable agitation favoring such a day was had but nothing done in the matter. Now some students have come to the front favoring such a plan and hoping that the Husker school might adopt it.

"Hello" day is a tradition in many universities of the country—especially those of the more democratic spirit. In the University of Cincinnati, a recent edition of the student publication contained a lengthy editorial on the subject of "Hello's."

The plan as outlined is simple. It calls for nothing more difficult than that all students say hello to every student they meet on the campus. Whether they have ever met them or not makes no difference. The loyal supporters of the movement will say "hello" to all.

Helps Democratic Spirit. Probably the best benefits to be derived from such a movement would be the increased spirit of democracy. Naturally when one goes through a day in which he says "hello" to every one he meets, he will continue to say the cheery word to many of those students in after days. Increasing of the democratic spirit will tend to increase the spirit of the school.

There are in the University many students who make a practice of saying "hello" to everyone on the campus who they have ever come in contact with as well as those they know. While apparently there is no immediate benefit from such a habit, the students to whom he says the cheery word will soon commence to speak to him and it is not long before he is one of the most well known students on the campus.

The matter will in all probability be referred to the student council who could set a date for it. It is to be doubted if there are very many students in the University who would not comply wholeheartedly with the plan and when the day is over feel that it was one of the most profitable in their school career.

LAWYERS HEAR TALK BY TRAFFIC MANAGER

Mr. E. C. Childs Addresses General Convocation of Laws Friday Morning.

Mr. E. C. Childs, manager of traffic bureau for the Omaha chamber of commerce, spoke to the members of the law college at the general lecture period Friday morning. The talk concerned government of public service agencies by commissions. Mr. Childs suggested that the basis for such commissions rested on the common law, which recognizes the public right to regulate organizations serving the public directly.

The work now handled by the various commissions was originally ground thru regular courts. In the early seventies the burden became too great for these courts, and the interstate commerce commission was formed.

The first commission's duties were then purely administrative and had to do with railroads. Now, the interstate commerce commission handles, not only railroads, but also such public utilities as telephones, street car, and telegraph companies. The powers, too, have increased in a like manner, until the commission has almost complete administrative and judicial control, as well as legislative importance in these matters.

The shipping board is one of the latest commissions established, and is one of the most important.

The commissions offer a fine field for specialization to a lawyer. The procedure is much like that in a court, though more informal. The findings of fact of the body are final, and an appeal may be had only on points of law. Practice before these quasi-judicial, quasi-executive tribunals offers a wide and interesting work.

"HERB" DEWITZ.

"Herb" again had a chance to show his line plunging ability in the Ames game Saturday. The Cyclones had reason to fear this Husker back as he rammed thru for big gains.

TODAY NAMED AS "GO TO CHURCH" SUNDAY

All Students Urged to Reserve November 20 to Attend Services in Lincoln Churches.

Lincoln churches today hold their annual "Go to Church Sunday" for University of Nebraska students. Invitations have been sent to all the students in the Cornhusker school urging them to attend the church of their preference today.

This is an annual affair in the Lincoln churches. The Sunday preceding Thanksgiving is designated for it. It does not mean that because a student attends church on this day he should stay home on other Sundays but the meetings are held to encourage the students to attend church regularly.

All the Lincoln churches allow students to affiliate with them for the period of their university career. In this way they are directly connected with a Lincoln church but do not lose connection with their home-town church.

BUSINESS MANAGER FOR LYCEUM CHOSEN

George Simms Selected By Board To Head Next University Week.

George Simms, 22, was elected business manager of University week by the University Lyceum board at a meeting held Thursday afternoon. This board has by action of the board of regents taken the place of the old University week association. It is composed of five faculty members, three members from the Innocents society, and three from the Mortarboard. The five faculty members are Prof. A. A. Reed, chairman; Neil T. Chadderton, secretary; Professor Roy E. Cochran, H. Alice Howell, and Deann Amanda Heppner. The members from the Innocents are Roy Wythers, Asa Hepperly, and Sago Ross; those from Mortarboard are Mary Sheldon, Betty Scribner, and Madalene Hendricks.

George Simms came to the University from Harlan, Ia. He was president of the pre-med society; and also editor-in-chief of the Pulse. He served on the junior prom committee, and assisted the manager of University week in handling the business of the association. Simms is a member of Innocents, Alpha Tau Omega, and University Press club.

Junior assistant managers for each route will be selected later. And a number of freshman assistants will be appointed to give some of the younger men an opportunity to acquaint themselves with the management of the enterprise.

Is A Tradition

The activities of university week have become a fixed tradition in the state as well as in the university. One week every spring is devoted to sending representatives of university talent to the towns of the state. These entertainment courses are in the nature of a Lyceum course and usually

CHAMPIONSHIP OF MISSOURI VALLEY CONFERENCE WON BY NEBRASKA'S VICTORIOUS TEAM

Huskers Defeat Ames 35-3 in Saturday Contest Before Big Homecoming Crowd—Cyclones Score Only Counter Made by Valley Team Against the Nebraska Cornhuskers This Season.

LARGE CROWD OF NEBRASKA ROOTERS MAKE THE TRIP

Coach Dawson's Men Slow in Getting Started on Muddy Field, But Come From Behind With Vengeance and Overwhelm Iowa Aggie Opposition.—Cornhuskers Undefeated in Valley.

(Special to The Nebraskan.)

AMES, Ia., Nov. 19.—The Nebraska Cornhuskers today finished the last lap of their battle to conquer the Missouri Valley championship by defeating Iowa state college 35 to 3 on State field. The victory of the Huskers over Ames gives the Nebraskans full claim to the Valley championship without the blot of defeat against their record. This is one of the few times in the history of the Missouri Valley conference that a championship has gone to an undefeated team. The three points which Ames scored today are the only tallies to be registered against the fighting Cornhuskers by a Valley team.

Starting the game with two backfield men who have been out of all the last three games on the Husker schedule, the beefy Nebraskans were slow in getting started. Before they were fully aware of the strength of the Ames eleven, Lingenfelter kicked a neat field goal from the Nebraska 35 yard line. The kick followed a Nebraska fumble recovered by Ames. Trailing the Aggies by three points, the Huskers soon woke up and before the end of the first period they carried the ball across the Ames goal for the first of a series of five touchdowns.

In the second quarter the play resolved itself into a kicking duel, neither side taking much of the advantage. But in the third period, the Huskers showed the spirit with which walloped the Pitt Panthers and tallied up twenty-one points. They registered another touchdown in the final period and so clinched their claim to the Valley championship.

The University of Missouri with only one Valley defeat on their books lays claim to second place in the conference race. Had Ames succeeded in stopping the fighting Huskers, the Missouri team would have taken the title, leaving Nebraska in second place.

The lineup of the two teams follows:

Nebraska	Pos	Ames
Swanson (C)	1e	Riggs
Lyman	1t	Zink
Pucelik	1g	Morrison
Peterson	c	(C) Walters
Berquist	1g	Church
Wenke	rt	Lingenfelter

Mechanical Drawing Class Run As Practical Drafting Office

Newer and better ideas of how to give students practical working knowledge along with theory seems to be the aim of the instructors at the University of Nebraska. It is unusual for a week to pass without one's hearing of some new, successful plan of teaching. A scheme that is particularly good has just been worked out in the college of engineering.

Students in applied mechanics 1,—mechanical drawing—have hitherto patiently turned out certain stipulated plates. The instructor decided to try something new. He proposed his plan, it was accepted eagerly by the students, and has been entirely successful.

The different sections are now organized and run as much like a regular drafting office as possible. Each office has its chief draftsman, squad bosses, and draftsmen. The men with the highest grades were picked in each section to form this advanced class which is dispensing with the regular plates of the last half of the semester. Instead, these groups are doing work which may be required of them as practicing engineers. They are measuring up and sketching machinery the find in the buildings of the college. From these sketches they intend to make finished working drawings, tracings, and blue prints.

One group is working on a Metz automobile motor. Another is climbing around over the traveling crane in the forging laboratory in the mechanical engineering building. The members of the latter group are constantly endangering their lives jumping from beam to beam twenty feet above a concrete pavement, but, of the two groups, they are certainly obtaining the most practical experience. No matter what job each office is doing the same thing is true of every section—those who have not made the advanced class are working harder, and those in that class are trying hard to keep their posts.
