GIRLS RECEIVE CLASS HONORS

The Misses Weidman, Bost and Wills Awarded Pan-Hellenic Prizes for High Averages.

DR. AITKEN IS SPEAKER

Says Prediction "America Holds the Future of World," Has Come True.

An address by Rev. Walter Aitken, Pan-Hellenic scholarship announcements and sacred selections by the university chorus assisted by the string quartet, featured the annual Thanksgiving convocation held in the armory, Tuesday morning. Colonel J. H. Presson who for many years has written all the proclamations of the governors of the state, read the Thanksgiving proclamation issued by Governor S. R. McKelvie.

The university chorus, directed by Mrs. Carrie B. Raymond, gave two selections, "The One Hundred and Forty-ninth Psalm," by Dwork; and the "Festival Te Deum," by Buck. The solo parts were taken by Francis Diers, Margaret Perry, Lucile Cline, and Oscar Bennett. The chorus was accompanied by the university orchestra.

Miss Louise Pound of the Pan-Hellenic society awarded honors to the freshman, sophomore and junior girls who made the highest averages in scholarship last year.

The girl receiving the highest rating in the freshman class was Inez Weidman, 3246 S street, who made an average of 93.5 per cent and carried thirty-four hours.

The highest honors in the sophomore class went to Jacqueline Bost who carried thirty-four hours and received an average grade of 93.6 per cent. Miss Bost is a member of the Phi Mu sorority, Union literary society and Chi Delta Phi. Honorable mention was won by Viola Lossbrock who made a grade of 92.9 per cent with thirty-five hours work.

Miss Wills Junior Winner.

Katherine Wills with a grade of 95.7 for thirty-three hours work had the highest average in the junior class. Miss Wills is a member of the Delta Delta Delta sorority, Silver Serpent and Mortarboard.

Scholarship honors are awarded each year by the Pan-Hellenic board to the university girls making the highest average in their class in the preceding year. Non-fraternity girls as well as those belonging to sororities are eligible for the honors.

Dr. Walter Aitken, pastor of St. Paul's Methodist church, gave the Thanksgiving address. The convocation was a little slow in getting started and Dr. Aitken had but ten minutes to give his speech. The speaker referred to the deep feeling of thanks that the American people have this year for the blessings that have been showered upon them. He explained the Pilgrim origin of the (Continued on page 13.)

CORNHUSKER FEAST CLIMAX OF SEASON

Football Banquet December 9 Will Commemorate Gridiron Work of the Season.

Plans are rapidly formulating for the annual Cornhusker banquet to be staged the night of Friday, December 9, in the ballroom of the Lincoln hotel. The feast is held each year at the close of the football season to commemorate the work of the gridiron heroes of the Cornhusker school. December 9 has been declared a closed night by university authorities.

Fraternities will not serve supper at the various houses the night of the banquet and every Greek organization on the campus has promised to have 100 per cent representation at the feast. Accommodations are being made for 800 or 900 men.

The girls' Cornhusker party, according to tradition, has been scheduled for the same night in the armory. More than 1,000 co-eds in the costume of Cleopatra, Joan of Arc, Little Eva and the Gold Dust Twins are expected to help in the celebration.

Several surprises are in store for men who attend the Cornhusker banquet. Speakers of note will be on the toast list. The captain-elect for 1922 will speak. Jack Best, if his health permits, will sit at the speakers' table.

Plenty of music—university songs and popular jazz numbers—will make the intermission periods lively.

THANKSGIVING HOLIDAY.

By action of the deans of the several colleges, Thanksgiving recess began Wednesday, November 23, at 6 p. m. and ends Monday, November 28, at 5 a. m. All classes will meet at their regularly scheduled hour on the above date.

REVIEWS GROWTH OF ALL ANIMALS

Prof. Barbour Tells Freshman of Development of Animal Life From Pre-historic Times.

RACE DESTROYED ITSELF

Illustrated Slides Show Much of Nebraska's Earliest Recorded Stages.

Nebraska and the middle west was undoubtedly the original habitat of many such animals as the camel, elephant, bison, and antelope according to Prof. E. H. Barbour who delivered the regular freshman lecture Monday afternoon and Tuesday morning. Prof. Barbour took for his topic "The Evolution of Domesticated Animals and Men." He traced the growth and development of animal life from the pre-historic fish up to man. His talk was illustrated with stereopticon views.

During the earlier pre-historic period the earth was inhabited by reptiles that could live on the land, sea or air. They were found as the giant lizard which was eighty to one hundred feet long, and weighed sixty or seventy tons. It was a quadruped but its head was small and resembled the head of a snake. There is a very fine example of one of these mounted in the Carnegie museum at Pittsburgh. This giant lizard was a native of Nebraska.

Race Killed Itself.

There were numerous other big animals of this period. The race, however, exterminated itself. The grown animals learned to suck their eggs, kill their young, aged, and feeble and in this way halted the perpetuity of their race.

The age of mammals then began. The lizards became bipeds. The flying lizard also developed. This creature combined many features of the bird and reptile. It had feathers like a bird, but its head, tail, teeth and scaly surface resembled a lizard. It was prophetic of, but bore no relation to the modern bird. Other animals of this period were the Dodo, giant ostrich, sea serpent, and flying dragon. The last named had a wing spread of twenty-five feet.

Camel Nebraska Product.

In speaking of early Nebraska animals, Prof. Barbour said that the camel originated in this part of the world and migrated to Asia and America over land ridges. Of course it (Continued on page 16.)

DIRECTORY SALES ARE VERY LARGE

Student Roster Being Taken Quickly Many Improvements in the Book But Price Same.

Sale of university directories will be resumed Monday after Thanksgiving vacation in the same places as they were sold last week. The sales have been going fast and it is expected that most of the books will be sold the first of this week.

The announcement in The Daily Nebraskan to the effect that the price had been increased over last year was erroneous. Although the book has been improved in all departments and is easily the nearest directory job ever put out at the university, the price is the same as last year—fifty cents.

Clarence Swanson has charge of the directory sales. The books have been going fast ever since they were first placed on sale Tuesday.

A. & S. MEN WILL HOLD SMOKER SOON

The men in the college of arts and science will hold a get-together meeting and smoker either Tuesday or Wednesday night after the Thanksgiving vacation, according to an announcement by Dean Philo M. Buck Wednesday.

Further announcement of the smoker will be made in the first edition next week.

NEBRASKA FOOTBALL TEAM BATTLES ROCKY MOUNTAIN CHAMPS THIS AFTERNOON

Turkey Day Struggle on Nebraska Field Will Be Last Appearance of 1921 Missouri Valley Champions—Swanson, Pucelik, and Wright To Fight Last Battle For Scarlet And Cream Today.

CORNHUSKERS EAGER TO AVENGE LAST YEAR'S DEFEAT

Coach Dawson's Men Complete Training To Overcome Aerial Game That Colorado Aggies Boast—Husker Line Will Outweigh Opponents By Big Margin In Line And Backfield.

THE LINEUP FOR TODAY'S GAME.

The 1921 Cornhusker football machine will make its last appearance of the season this afternoon on Nebraska field when the Huskers will mix with the Colorado Aggies, champions of the Rocky Mountain conference.

Coach Dawson's athletes are primed for a great Turkey Day demonstration and it will be the last chance of the season for Husker football enthusiasts to witness the 1921 Missouri Valley champions in action. The Aggies held the Cornhuskers to a 7 to 0 score in an early season contest last year and have been winning a big percentage of their games this year.

The Nebraska eleven is in first class condition for the final fray and Coach Dawson is depending on his warriors to wind up the season with a big victory. The Aggies have been weakened this year considerably by the absence of some of last year's stellar performers but are bringing two of the greatest players in the Rocky Mountain conference to Lincoln, in the Hartshorn brothers.

The Huskers will outweigh the Aggies by a big margin in the forward wall with the backfields of both machines about equal in weight. Fred Hartshorn will probably be on the booting end for Coach Hughes' eleven. The younger Hartshorn has a reputation of being the best punter in the conference and given a chance, will probably be able to give the Aggies a few points by the field goal route.

Coach Hughes of the Aggies has been spending considerable time with his proteges in perfecting an aerial attack which he intends to launch against Coach Dawson's men today. The "million dollar" play, the most talked of shift in the Rocky Mountain conference will be in evidence today also and should furnish the Huskers some trouble in stopping it. Coach Dawson has been giving the Huskers crew stiff workouts in the little time that has elapsed since the Ames contest and Coach Farley Young's frosh squad have been using the Colorado plays against the varsity.

The yearlings were able to make several good gains by the aerial route in practice the last few evenings, using the Colorado plays but the Cornhusker mentors expect to be fully prepared for this form of attack. The offensive playing that worked so well against the Ames Aggies will be tried against the Colorado men in a somewhat different manner. The Huskers used new shifts against the Ames men for long gains through the line but Coach Dawson expects to shift this attack to more passes and long end runs.

Three Cornhusker veterans will play their last contest for the scarlet and cream this afternoon. Captain Swanson, left end, John Pucelik, left guard, and Floyd Wright, left halfback, are the three men who have played their three years of varsity football for the Husker institution. These three men have played important roles in practically every game for the last three years and their places will be hard to fill next year. Captain Swanson and Pucelik received all-American mention last year by most of the leading critics of the country and are considered two of the best gridiron performers ever developed at Nebraska. Wright is one of the greatest all-round athletes of the institution and holds a number of Missouri Valley records on the cinder path as well as being a great football player. He has been one of the most dependable men in the backfield to carry the ball and his long end runs have been the foundation for many a Husker victory.

Plans Laid For Big Homecoming Week Next June In Connection With Commencement Festivities

By G. C. Follmer.

What to do to bring them back; what to do to revive the interest of all alumni in their University; what to do to build up spirit de corps for this college? These are the interrogations which will be answered by the plans for next June. Realizing that the greatness of any University is limited by the spirit of its alumni and ex-students, it seems that the answer to the last two questions lies in the solution of the first. In other words, if some real inducement can be found which will make every one want to direct their footsteps back to the old campus at least once each year the development of the esprit de corps and the progress of the University will follow as naturally as the law of gravitation.

Last year President R. G. Simmons, of the alumni association, on assuming office, immediately appointed a committee from the alumni to discover that particular something which will arise in everyone that desire to come back. This committee has called upon committees of the faculty and student body in order to get ideas and co-operation from every branch of the school. These three committees will constitute a central organization, which will be charged with the responsibility of carrying thru any plans that may be adopted.

Three Day Affairs.

If tentative plans work out, the three days following examinations and just preceding commencement, will be devoted to a combination of alumni affairs. The home coming and university celebration of every organization in school will be held on the same night, preferably Thursday following examinations. This concentration of all activities is the keynote (Continued on page 13.)

Nebraska Corncobs, Pep Arousing Organization, Fill Great Campus Need

By Wilbur C. Peterson.

Of all of the developments at the University of Nebraska in the last year, the most important so far as the welfare of the Cornhusker school goes, is the organization three weeks ago of the Corncobs, a pep-leading organization.

The Corncobs is composed of some forty enthusiastic supporters among the student body of the Husker school. They were organized for the much needed and long hoped for "pep" organization.

The pep leaders made their first appearance at the Nebraska-Kansas game on Homecoming day, where they put on a more than pleasing inauguration ceremony before the 12,000 spectators and won their place among Nebraska students.

Appears at Ames Game. The Corncobs, following out the practices of cheerleading organizations in other universities, sent a representative body to the Ames-Nebraska game last Saturday where they demonstrated to the Iowa state gridiron followers that Nebraska is on the map to stay.

The idea for the Corncobs was gotten from the Oklahoma Jazzhounds who made such an impressive scene at the Sooner-Nebraska game in Lincoln early in the season. No sooner had the Jazzhounds appeared than every student in the Cornhusker school decided that there was something Nebraska needed. Accordingly, after a week of planning and waiting, Audley Sullivan called a meeting of representatives of all the fraternities and the organization was started.
