and the United States, had charge of all trade between those countries and the neutrals during the final period of the blockade of Germany.

In the fall of 1919, upon returning from Europe, Professor Bengtson returned to his university duties but within a short time again asked for leave of absence to take charge of a reconnaissance survey of Honduras for one of the large American oil companies, and spent the larger part of 1920 in this work.

Miss Anderson, instructor in geography, is spending this year in graduate study at the University of Wisconsin. Instructor Wolfanger several years experience with the bureau of soils in field work and is credited with being one of the strongest men on the staff. His work has carried him into the various regions of Nebraska and he is the author of a number of soil survey reports. He has charge of men's field work in geography and will also give a course on the agricultural geography of Nebraska next semester. Miss Rigdon has had several years of very successful teaching experience and is a well trained geographer. She has charge of women's field work, methods in geography, and a course in the geography of Nebraska.

Special studies in progress now are: Geology and geography of the Permian area of Nebraska, geography of Honduras, geography of maha, course of study in high school geography, and the problem method of teaching geography of Nebraska.

MEN ARE MORE WILLING THAN WOMEN TO WORK TO PROVIDE MONEY FOR HIGHER EDUCATION

rather than go to the university on money which they themselves must provide cannot be stated but the figures as given out by the extension department would indicate that fact. It would seem that the girls prefer to quit school and work when it comes to the point where their parents no longer feel obligated or able to further keep them in school. This is proven by the figures on registration which show that there are more boys than girls in the University of Nebraska. Yet government statistics on population point to more women than men in the country as a whole. So one is led to believe that most of the girls do not desire education beyond high school.

More Girls In High School.

There are more girls than boys in the high schools as a rule yet figures of the university are just reversed in this regard. It is therefore apparent that the girls quit school after they have received their high school diploma in more cases than do boys.

Whether the opportunity for boys to work their way through school is better than that given to the girls is another arguable point, but educators throughout the country acclaim the many opportunities there are for everyone to receive a higher education if he really wishes so to do.

Each year there appear on the University campuses more and more girls who are working their own way. Larger also are the number of boys who depend solely or in part on their own resources for their higher education. With the increasing number of girls who come to the universities on "their own hook" the figures as given out now by the extension department will in all probability not be true a few years hence.

But nevertheless at the present time, the figures tell of more boys being willing to work their way thru schools than girls.

"MOSES IN THE BULLRUSHES" HAD NOTHING ON THE "HOME EC. BABY" WITH THIRTY PHARAOH'S DAUGHTERS

snaps the pin together again. The babe has yet thirty amateur mothers to contend with before her heavily booked season is over, and she emerges an A-No. 1 model. Thirty different sized fists to make the rounds of her diminutive gums daily, to feel the approach of the first tooth. Thirty more styles of hair dressing. Thirty more mothers to misinterpret the imperative "goods" and "gals," and to register her translation of such in the pink record book. Thirty more individuals who will slyly try to leave an indelible mark of her own personality on the child. Thirty more examinations by the doctor, who checks up on the student mother weekly and grades her according to the condition of the infant.

Then after this training the charge will be ready for the sweepstakes in any contest, and her little body will be literally wound and bound with blue ribbon, and every milk canner in the country will want her likeness for labeling purposes.

Intelligent mothers realize the value of the experiment and daily the home Ec. department is swamped with letters. Some seek advice, while others desire to lend their children. One mother wrote "I have reared six children that are in apparent good health but I realize my own shortcomings. Will you take little Willie, my seventh, for six months?"

Katherine Marie, born in the sun unmindful of the stir she is causing. Unmindful, also, that when her contract lets out here that an active committee from the order of the Golden Fleece stands ready to pounce upon her as a mascot, because of certain topping qualities she possesses.
