NEBRASKANS ON ALL-AMERICAN

John Pucelik and Clarence Swanson Place on Walter Eckersall's Mythical Elevens.

PUCELIK IS FIRST HUSKER SO CHOSEN

Giant Guard is First Nebraskan to Win a Position on a First All-American Team.

In the selection of candidates for his first all-American eleven, Walter H. Eckersall, prominent Chicago sporting critic, has placed John Pucelik of the University of Nebraska team at right guard on the mythical eleven. This is the first time in the history of football at Nebraska that a Cornhusker has won a position on the first team. Captain Clarence Swanson is placed at left end of the second eleven by the Chicago sports writer.

Eckersall has picked men for his team from coast to coast and has a lineup of stars, should they ever play together would probably be the greatest football machine in the country. At the ends he has placed Captain Eddie Anderson of Notre Dame and Herb Crisler of Chicago. These two men were the stellar performers of the middle west at the wing positions and in playing teams from other sections of the country showed their superiority in playing their positions.

Several great ends are named by Eckersall, including Captain Swanson of Nebraska, Roberts of Centre, Sturm of Yale, Stephens of California, Kiley of Notre Dame, Muller of California, Belding of Iowa, and several other inter-college stars.

At the tackle on the first eleven are Slater of Iowa and McMillan of California. Nebraskans will remember Slater as the individual who ruined the Nebraska line in 1918 and 1919. On the second team is Ellis of Detroit and Keck of Princeton who is given the honor of captaining the second aggregation. All of these men are known by followers of the pigskin all over the country and it is practically a toss up between them for supremacy. Eckersall also names McGuire of Chicago, Huffman of Ohio State, Lyman of Nebraska, Capt. Kane of Harvard, Shaw of Notre Dame and King of the Navy as being some of the great tackles of the past season.

As a running mate or Pucelik on the first eleven is Ray Baer of Penn State, at left guard. These two men are probably two of the best line men in the game today and are capable of playing not only the guard positions but most any other position on the team. Eckersall has the following to say of Pucelik: "John Pucelik of Nebraska and Fiske Brown of Harvard are about equal when it comes to awarding the other guard position. The Cornhusker, however, is given the position because of his great work in the Pittsburgh game. It was mainly through his efforts that Pitt was unable to get away with any of its fancy delayed formations, which are timed to send the ball carrier through the middle of the line. In other games, Pucelik performed better than any other guard in the section, and a member of a championship eleven is deserving of the honor." Eckersall names a number of other guards who played good football the past season and are known throughout the country as great line men.

Stein of Pittsburgh is placed at the pivot position on account of his record for the past three years and his general ability as a center. "Polly" Wallace, who was placed on the first all-western is given the pivot position on the second team and Eckersall names Vick of Michigan, Bunge of Wisconsin, Larson of the Navy and several others as being some of the outstanding performers of the year. The backfield is composed of Aubrey Devine of Iowa; Aldrich of Yale, who has the distinction of being captain; Kaw of Cornell; and Owen of Harvard. As Eckersall says, "this backfield can do anything and every thing. I know there may be other great stars but to make a place for them on the first team would necessitate the shifting of a number of men and this would be doing the other men an injustice." There is little choice between the backfield as may be seen when the men are compared man for man.

ROSS RETURNS FROM SCRIBE CONVENTION

Nebraska Delegate to Sigma Delta Chi Meeting Reports a Sprited Gathering.

Clarence H. Ross, president of Nebraska chapter Sigma Delta Chi, national journalism fraternity, returned Sunday afternoon from the fraternity convention which was held at Ames college last week. The convention was a live affair and full of pep throughout the entire three days.

Ross will make his official report of the convention at the next meeting of Sigma Delta Chi.

Two new charters were issued by Sigma Delta Chi at the first day of the convention. The University of North Dakota and Northwestern university received official recognition in the society. Sixteen other applications for charters were on the roll.

Delegates from thirty-three universities representing schools in twenty-eight states, attended the convention. President R. A. Pearson of Iowa State gave the address of welcome. President Lea A. White of the fraternity spoke next.

Delegates to the convention were royally entertained by the Iowa State fraternity. Dances were held and a smoker made the men merry. The Ames chamber of commerce sponsored the smoker.

GO-ED GRAD ON WAY TO INDIA

Laura Suhr '20 Sailed Yesterday for Far East—Will Serve as Missionary.

Miss Laura Suhr of Lincoln sailed yesterday from San Francisco on the "China" one of the big boats of the China Mail Steamship Co. Her destination is India where she will serve as a missionary of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society. Miss Suhr left Lincoln Saturday evening, December 3, over the Burlington for San Francisco. She will have a day or two in Honolulu and several days in Japan. She will then sail down the coast of China to India.

At the time Miss Suhr left she did not know where her work would be but will receive her appointment after reaching India. It will probably be in Cawnpore or Lucknow. In either case it will be along the teaching line. Miss Suhr is a graduate of the University of Nebraska, class of 1920, after graduating she spent a year at the Chicago Training school where she studied religion and missions.

Miss Suhr will spend Christmas on the ocean and New Year's in Japan.

SORORITIES AND FRATS

The managers of the Alumni Slogan Contest have decided to open the competition to Greek letter organizations as well as individuals. Slogans may now be entered in the name of any fraternity or sorority.

Get busy, you Greeks. Here is a golden opportunity to win a 1922 Cornhusker, with the name of your organization embossed in gold letters, for your chapter library.

Remember the contest closes Saturday so do not delay. Every minute is precious. You are not confined to one entry—write as many slogans as you please and they will all receive consideration.

THE JUDGES

Just a word about the judges of the contest. Harold F. Holtz is secretary of the alumni association. He is responsible for this contest. Prof. Roy E. Cochran is a very popular member of the university faculty, in the American history department. Jack Austin is editor of the Daily Nebraskan and prominent in many campus activities.

A better set of judges could not have been found.

Tomorrow

STUDENT COUNCIL WILL PUT QUESTION TO VOTE

At a meeting of the Student council yesterday afternoon it was decided to hold a test vote next Friday to ascertain whether or not the University public as a whole favored a three day Thanksgiving recess next year and an eight day Christmas holiday, or only one day at Thanksgiving and ten days at Christmas.

The vote will be under the auspices of the Student council and students may vote from nine until twelve and from two until five. The ballot boxes will be located in the Social Science building, the Library and in U hall on the city campus, and there will be one ballot box at the college of agriculture.

RESEARCH CLUB WILL HEAR TALK ON STRIKE

Denver Banker and Investigator of Denver Tramway Strike to Speak Soon.

James H. Causey, a banker of Denver, chairman of the Denver commission of religious forces that undertook an investigation of the Denver tramway strike, last year, is expected to be on the campus within a short time to discuss that situation before the Industrial Research club. An announcement will be made as to the time and place of the meeting soon.

This strike will be remembered as one of the most bitter industrial disputes of late years, seven lives being lost in it. Riots were so frequent that it was found necessary to place the city under martial law for a period of a month. "Destruction of much valuable property; the demoralization of street railway service; the importation of armed strike breakers; the imprisonment of seven members of the executive board of the union on a sentence of ninety days; the wrecking of the offices of a daily newspaper; the dislocation of more than a thousand of Denver's workmen," according to the report published by the above report.

The report takes up the history of the relations between the company and the men and thru close co-operation with both parties to the controversy the commission were enabled to find the truth of the situation and they have set forth the facts in print. Edward T. Devine Ph D, representing the federal council of the churches of Christ in America, Rev. John A. Ryan D. D., and John A. Lapp, LL D., representing the national Catholic welfare council, were in Denver working on this investigation.

"Black Jack Jerome," well known strike breaker, was on hand with his gang of strikebreakers to assist the company in their efforts to end the strike.

ALL-UNIVERSITY DANCE SATURDAY

George Salter in Charge of Committee Handling Preparations for the Party.

Something new in the line of entertainment for university students will be offered at the next week end. An all university dance will be the attraction, held at the armory. The dance will be under the supervision of the entertainment committee of all university party with George Salter in charge.

The dance will be similar to those held at other universities where they have proven a success and will be on the general order of a mixer. Special opportunities will be made to secure partners for those who came without a date and thus no one should feel backward about coming, just because they do not have a girl or boy friend for that evening. The dance is being given with the avowed purpose of fulfilling a need long felt at Nebraska for a place where students might go and enjoy the evening dancing without being forced to attend the public dance halls down town.

The price of admission will be the same as for a regular party put on and will be taken up by dancing.

PALLADIANS INITIATE NINETEEN STUDENTS

Taken to "Haunted House" in University Place to be Punished for Sins.

Nineteen new members were initiated into the Palladian literary society Saturday evening. After hearing the principal traditions of the school and of Palladian from Prof. Lawrence J. Foster, Mr. T. F. A. Williams, and others, they were taken to a haunted house in University Place, where punishment was inflicted for their future transgressions of rules and customs.

The names of those who were initiated are:

- Wilbur Anderson.
- Clara Brehm.
- John Cochran.
- Glen Cook.
- Andrew Fossgreen.
- Earl Howard.
- Richard Hughes.
- Ben Johnson.
- Thomas Koontz.
- Irvin Lounsbury.
- Doris McKenney.
- David Muller.
- Amorette Pardee.
- Eleanor Peters.
- Leona Schultz.
- Jeannette Shafer.
- LeRoy Smith.
- Grace Spacht.
- Ethel Vase.

NEBRASKA IS THIRD IN POULTRY JUDGING

Nebraska's Poultry Judging Team placed third in a contest held in connection with the Chicago Coliseum Poultry Show on Saturday. The teams placed in the following order:

Oklahoma; Iowa (Ames); Nebraska; Indiana (Purdue); Missouri; Kansas; and Michigan.

Some of the birds the students judged, were winners at the show, and valued at hundreds of dollars. In the utility classes, the students were called on to place hens according to their egg production. All teams graded higher in the utility judging than in the exhibition judging. Mr. S. J. Marsden coached the team. The members were Paul Bancroft, David Halberstaben, and Oliver Summers.

DOROTHY NOYES ELECTED TO Y. W. C. A. CABINET

Dorothy Noyes has been elected to membership on the Y. W. C. A. cabinet having charge of the high school Girls club. This work has been in charge of Grace Lufken since the first of the year, who was forced to resign on account of heavy school work and ill health.

DR. MAYHEW TALKS TO LAW STUDENTS

Prominent Lincoln Surgeon Talks On Connection Between Two Great Professions.

Dr. J. Mayhew delivered a lecture to the law students Friday morning on medical jurisprudence, and the important connections between law and medicine. He showed how a medical expert witness had a lawyer at a great disadvantage unless the barrister had a certain fundamental knowledge of the points which he sought to bring out during the examination. He told how the conclusions of the expert could be arrived at only on the basis of long years of technical study, and could not be ruled on by the judge as ordinary evidence unless the judge was also a learned man in the medical profession. In this way the expert witness acts in a judicial capacity. His word must be taken as correct by the members of court and bar, who could not distinguish ordinarily in a case like this, between right and wrong.

According to the system now used in the United States the party needing expert testimony hires and pays for the expert. In England and several countries on the continent experts are appointed by the court, and are paid by the state. This frees the witness from any feeling of duty toward his employer, and tends toward a more fair trial. Dr. Mayhew looks for a change in the system employed in this country to comply more closely with that in Europe.

In closing Dr. Mayhew read two examples of writing by insane people. The first was by a "borderline case," or one who was not entirely insane. The doctor said this might not be distinguished readily, at first glance from some of Henry James or Browning. Only a few passages marked it as out of the ordinary. One of these ran:

"The number of men was seventy-three.

All were captives, and three were free."

The last piece read was called a "Word Salad." It was a heterogeneous clutter of words and phrases, and indicated a mind fluttering from one subject to another before a complete thought was formed. The most lucid part follows: "Hurrah, hurrah, great sorrow, blank, blank, Queen of Spain, constitutional government, apologize profusely, profuse apologies, cheer, hurrah, hurrah, hurrah, amen."

WILL TALK TO PRESS CLUB ON PRINT SHOP

Dean Puck and Mr. Miles Will Discuss New Printing Trade School Tonight.

The University Press club will meet tonight at 7:30 in Law 101 to hear Dean P. M. Buck outline the plans for a Nebraska university press and to hear Mr. Miles, who is in charge of the vocational trade school, printing shop, speak on the possibilities of printing university publications here in the near future.

These two topics are directly in line with the program of the press club. The main object of the club is the establishment of a university owned press will not be to compete with city printers but to provide a laboratory for students studying journalism. The plant established by the government for vocational students in the basement of University hall will undoubtedly form a nucleus of a university press.

The other number on the program of the club is the part it will take in the State Press association convention to be held here this winter. An effort will be made to secure the association's support of a university press.

The meeting tonight will be open to the public. Following the address is a short business meeting will be held. All members are to be present and to bring their friends.

HUSKER PROSPECTS ARE BRIGHTENING

Nebraska Cage Squad Lines Up Well With Other Valley Teams.

MISSOURI TIGERS HAVE THREE ALL-VALLEY MEN

Large Number of Last Year's Veterans in The Conference This Year.

With dope from other valley schools on the prospects for a championship basketball quintet coming in, Nebraska's prospects appear as bright as those of any school in the valley. Coach Frank has several letter men back from last year and a strong aggregation of last year's freshman in the varsity ranks this year.

Missouri, winners of the title last year, have wonderful prospects again this year and the Tigers are expecting to clinch the title. The Missouri quintet won seventeen consecutive victories last year and suffered only one defeat, that being the last contest of the season. Banker, Williams, and Browning, stars of last year's aggregation are back and will form the nucleus for the Tiger quintet. All of these men were placed on the all-Valley team last year.

Kansas has four of last year's quintet in action this season and promise to make a strong bid for the championship honors. The Jayhawkers use good floor work and this combined with a long and short pass enables the Kansas athletes to score almost at will against a fairly strong team. The Huskers mix with the Jayhawkers at Lawrence one week from tonight in the initial contest of the season.

Drake won five out of thirteen contests played last year against some of the strongest teams in the conference and will start the season with a few veterans on hand. Paysel, star forward for Coach Solem and the Blue and White quintet will be in action again this year and the only difficulty now is to develop a running mate for the aggressive forward.

At Manhattan, Coach Curtis of the Kansas Aggies has a flock of basket tossers working and expects to develop a championship team. The Aggies lost two of their star men last year but the advance dope indicates prospects for a winning team. The Aggies won nine of the thirteen contests played last season and finished in third position.

Oklahoma finished in seventh position last season but having been coming strong and will probably put a team in action this year that will be on a par with any of the Valley quintets. Waite, the big center, is back in the fold and hitting the hoop with deadly aim. Waite was second highest man in the Valley last year in scoring, finishing next to Williams of Missouri, and should be a great asset to the soomers.

Grinnell Prospects Bright.

Prospects at Grinnell are much brighter this year than last on account of so much first class material coming in from last year's yearling crew. The Pioneers finished far down in the list last season but fought some close games with the leaders of the Valley. Coach Rider of the Washington reports that every one of his men have returned from last year and that the system there has been changed somewhat and it is hoped that the St. Louis athletes will come to the front more this season.

Ames finished in fourth position last year and has most of last season's veterans on hand this year. The Ames squad is composed of four of last season's veterans and an abundance of material from the freshman squad of last season. The Iowa State Aggies appeared twice last year and although losing both contests, made the Huskers extend themselves to cop the long end of the score. Nebraska lost her first game at Ames last year.

ENGINEERS TO INSPECT THE TELEPHONE COMPANY

The A. I. E. E. will inspect the telephone company at their next meeting Wednesday, December 14, 1921. The telephone company has extended an invitation to the student engineers to inspect the well equipped plant to which recent additions have been made. The company will furnish guides who are familiar with the apparatus. This is a splendid opportunity for all engineers and others interested to gain an insight into the working of the telephone.
