LINCOLN, NEBRASKA, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 11, 1922.

PRICE FIVE CENTS

CORNHUSKERS TO FEATURE CO-EDS

Nebraska Girls Will Have Entire Section in "Everybody's Cornhusker."

TEN PRETTIEST GIRLS OF UNIVERSITY HAVE SECTION

Athletics, Organizations, And Activities of University Women Featured.

Senior girls will have their individual Cornhusker pictures taken this year in caps and gowns, but senior men will not. Caps and gowns, the former of various sizes, will be kept on hand, cleaned and pressed, at the Townsend Studio, official photographers for the 1922 annual.

Appointments for these individual pictures should be made at once, before the rush that other work will bring to the studio, advises Mr. Townsend. Organizations, including fraternities and class societies, are already having their group pictures taken.

All photographs for "Everybody's Annual" will be on a uniform background this year. This will give a uniform color scheme to the entire picture section of the book.

A feature of this year's Cornhusker will be a new section dedicated to the activities of University of Nebraska women—a section to be known as a "Co-eds' Section." Because of the fact that it has reached the ears of several members of this year's Cornhusker staff that University girls felt in other years that their efforts were rather subordinated to other activities on the pages of the annual, this section has been created.

At the beginning of the "Co-eds Section" will appear a picture of Miss Amanda Heppner, dean of women at the University. Close by will appear a large print of Ellen Smith hall, the women's building.

"Vanity Fair," containing in rotogravure personality portraits of from six to ten of the most beautiful girls at Nebraska, will be a part of the new "Co-eds' Section." These girls whose pictures will appear, will be chosen by ballot next week during the Cornhusker sales campaign, and Norma Talmadge, famous cinema star, will select the winning six or eight beauties from a total of about fifty photographs sent to her.

Other features of the new "Co-eds' Section," of the 1922 annual, will be a specially edited group of interesting pages devoted to women's athletics, pages telling of other women's activities on the campus, women in organizations and women in other lines of University work.

"The women will not be slighted in "Everybody's Cornhusker" this year," declared a staff member yesterday. "Their section will be representative of capable Nebraska women, assembled by capable women writers. All University co-eds are asked to bring in material for this section."

DRAMATIC DEPARTMENT SENDS OUT COACHES

The dramatic department of the university has received many calls from schools in this and adjoining states for coaches for plays and declamatory contests. There is a larger demand than ever for coaches. The department will send out students and former students to meet this demand.

Miss Gladys Appleman and Miss Genevieve Appleman will be sent as coaches to assist in this work. Miss Appleman has taken part in a number of the University plays this season and Miss Appleman after having finished here in 1920 took a scholarship in Boston.

Good results have been obtained by representatives of the departments in previous years and have received favorable comment. An Iowa superintendent has sent in his request asking for a coach who will be as satisfactory as the one which was sent them last year.

NEBRASKAN APPLICATIONS.

Applications for the following positions on the Daily Nebraskan for the second semester will be received at the student activities office until 5 p. m. Thursday, January 12: Editor, managing editor, three right editors, associate editor, business manager, assistant business manager and circulation manager.

DRAMATIC DEPARTMENT GIVE FINAL EXAMS

The final examinations in the dramatic department will give the students a chance to show their ability in writing and presenting short plays. These sketches will act as the final examination and yet make the work interesting. Many original sketches are looked for as well as the cutting of scenes from modern plays. Each act will be directed by one of the students taking part in the sketch, and it is expected that many originalities will be played in the sketches. Everyone will be welcome to attend these plays which will be held in the Temple theater.

MILITARY FUNERAL FOR EX-CORNHUSKER

American Legion And University Debate Seminary in Charge Of Services.

The military funeral of Ralph E. Halldorson, ex-'12, (Lincoln high school, '08,) of the 59th Pioneer Infantry, who died of pneumonia at Brest a few days after he landed in September 1918, was held in Lincoln Tuesday afternoon under the auspices of the American Legion and of the University of Nebraska intercollegiate debate seminary, of which he was a member in 1910 and 1911 and whose death was the first break in the ranks of the 138 alumni of the seminary.

The pallbearers were Lincoln representatives of the seminary who served in the army or navy: Prof. M. M. Fogg, Army Educational Corps, director of the college of journalism, American Expeditionary Force, University; Prof. G. N. Foster, law, '11, lieutenant, infantry; Fred C. Campbell, law, '23, lieutenant, infantry; Guy C. Chambers, law, '16, lieutenant, infantry, A. E. F.; C. L. Clark, '12, law, '14, Nebraska provost marshal general's office; and Paul F. Good, ex-law, '14, Oxford (Rhoades scholar) '17, ensign, flagship Panther, Brest.

At the grave a double firing squad, representing the American Legion and the University Cadet battalion fired the salute and Lieut. B. G. Westover, commander of the American Legion Post No. 3, who was in the air service overseas, sounded taps. Corp. J. M. Johnson, Lincoln, was the Legion's representative in charge.

Chaplain Harold Capsey of the Legion officiated at the services at Wyuka. At the services at Robert's chapel Rev. H. H. Harmon, '96, of the First Christian church, who was on the battle front a year and who was associate divisional chaplain of the Second division, spoke on "The Good Soldier."

"I rather hate to see the good old U. S. slip away," Halldorson wrote home as he was embarking, "but I hope it will not be long."

"The results of an investigation turned in to the argumentation and debate seminary by Ralph Halldorson was always depended upon as thorough, accurate," said Professor Fogg, in whose office hangs a large portrait, draped with flag and crepe, of the dead soldier. "He was the soul of honor."

On the casket, before which marched the Legion's color-bearers and guards, lay a large wreath—in remembrance of Ralph's Fidelity to the Truth and to Duty. From Members and His Teacher, University of Nebraska Intercollegiate Debate Seminary.

FINALS OF COLLEGE SERIES THURSDAY

Laws Win From A. and S. Team and Pharmacists Defeat B. A's in Semi-Finals.

The Pharmacists defeated the Bizads 31 to 26, and the Laws nosed out the A. and S. quintet 15 to 13 in the semi-finals of the inter-college basketball tournament, played yesterday afternoon on the armory floor. Both these games were hard fought, the teams battling gamely until the final whistle blew. A crowd of 200 enthusiastic students witnessed the games.

The Laws and the Pharmacists meet in the finals Thursday afternoon at 4:30. Both teams are out to win the championship, and an exciting game is promised. A small admission fee of ten cents will be charged. The fee is being taken up in order to buy a suitable trophy, probably a banner, for the inter-college championship five.

When The Train Pulls Out

There is a feeling of sadness about a college campus during the last days of the college year. Here and there you see little crowds wending their way to the railroad station, each one to go back to their home, severing college ties forever.

When the train pulls out and they are on their way at last, it is then that they realize it is the last of those four wonderful years of college life, with all of its sentiment, all of its friendships and all of its ailments.

It is no wonder that they turn to their Cornhusker if they are so fortunate as to have a copy, and look upon it with a feeling of reverence and affection, as they realize that in its pages are recorded in picture and in text all of the important events that transpired during the last year of their college life.

Your 1922 Cornhusker will be more costly. It will have a campus section that will be a rare artistic treat, not merely engravings of buildings, but each page is a beautiful composition, a combination of color designing, illustrations, all blending together into one big feature that will revolutionize this section of your year book.

The opening pages will be filled with fine decorative art features, molded after the dominant and impressive art work produced by such master designers as Franklin Booth and W. D. Teague, whose beautiful, decorative art work you have seen featuring community silver and Adler clothes, as well as the editorial pages in the Ladies Home Journal and Woman's Home Companion.

We have realized the necessity of making use of experienced people in helping us plan our book so as to make it radically different. The skill of professional book illustrators has been used freely, so that every section of the book will fairly teem with new, striking, beautiful features.

Only a few days remain now until the advance campaign. Are you saving your money so that you will be sure of obtaining a copy? Don't take a chance and wait until the book is published, because at that time there will be no opportunity whatsoever of buying a copy. Your last chance will be during the advance campaign at the Chapel entrance to the Armory—January 16-21.

DANCE PRICE GOES TUMBLING DOWN

Northwall's Announces Change Of Seventy-five Cents Friday Evening.

The high cost of dancing has taken a tumble!

Following more than two years of the "dollar ten"—sometimes even more than that—charge on dances, an advertisement appeared in the Tuesday morning Daily Nebraskan announcing a cut to 75 cents by one of the popular Lincoln orchestras.

Northwall's Jazzland band will give a dance at the Lincoln hotel ball room next Friday evening and is charging a straight six-bits admission. This price includes war tax and everything.

Not only is Northwall lowering the price of dancing for University of Nebraska students, but other orchestras have announced subscription dances with new and lower prices. The cut is more than welcome among university students, many of whom are attending school on smaller allowances. (Continued on Page Three.)

CAST IS ANNOUNCED FOR AEOLIAN OPERA

Aeolian Singers Club to Present Musical Production The Latter Part of March.

The cast for the opera "The Mascot," to be given by the Aeolian Singers club, composed of alumni members of the Lincoln high school glee clubs, has been announced by Joe Zimmerman, president. The opera will be given late in March probably at the Lincoln high school auditorium.

The cast follows: Pippo, the shepherd, Francis Diers; Lorenzo XVII, Joe Zimmerman; Bettina, the mascot, Bernice Bayes; Fiammetto, daughter of Lorenzo XVII, Marjory Cooper; Rocco, the farmer, Henry Eller; Frederick, prince of Pisa, Ivan McCormick; Matric, Robert Hiatt.

Besides these persons, who take the leading roles, there is a chorus of some fifty persons. All of the persons taking these leading parts are students of the University of Nebraska. (Continued on Page Three.)

Students Tuesday started in on what proved to be a last minute rush to register. Deans' offices in all colleges were busy all day with students getting final approval on their schedules.

One day only remains in which to complete the registration, the final day being Wednesday of this week. Students who are not registered by Wednesday evening will be subject to a late registration fee.

Registration in all colleges except the college of agriculture was started last Tuesday, January 3. Agricultural college students started registering Monday. Many students used the first few days in which to complete their schedule making but many others have neglected it until this week. Monday and Tuesday these students commenced seriously thinking of registering and advisers and deans have been kept busy ever since.

Wednesday will undoubtedly be the busiest day of the entire week. Students will come in a last minute rush to complete their registering in order to avoid paying the extra assessment. The new system of registering this semester has proved out successful. Both students and instructors have found it not only a time saver but also a lessening of the number of mistakes. Advisers have it easier in that they are not so pressed for time and can inspect each program more thoroughly.

Pay Fees Next Week. Payment of registration fees will be made next week in the university armory. Students in the agricultural, dentistry, engineering, law, pre-medicine and pharmacy colleges must pay their fees on Monday and Tuesday. Students in the arts and science business administration and teachers college must pay their fees January 1 to 21.

A late fee will be charged against those students who do not see their advisers by Wednesday evening or do not pay their fees on the proper days.

New students entering the university will be given instructions as to registering when they pay a visit to the registrar's office. Payment of fees for them will be on the same days as for other students.

NEBRASKA MAN VISITS MONTANA AG. COLLEGE

Low T. Skinner, of the agricultural college, leaves today to visit the Montana agricultural college at Bozeman. As a member of the national executive council he will preside Friday at the installation of the Montana chapter recently chartered by Alpha Zeta, the agricultural college honorary fraternity. Among the sponsors for the new chapter are three Nebraska alumni: E. L. Currier, T. W. Moseley, and R. E. Bodley. The installation will be held in connection with the annual Farmers institute week at the Montana college, which corresponds to our organized agriculture week just closed.

LEROSSIGNAL GIVES TALK ON SOCIALISM

Freshman Lecture Group Hear Interesting Talk on Important Subject Monday.

"There are as many different kinds of socialism as there are different nationalities," declared Dean J. D. LeRossignol in his address before the freshman class Monday afternoon and Tuesday morning. Dean LeRossignol's subject was "Socialism and Other Isms." He spoke of eight particular brands of socialism which he said by no means covers the entire field.

An "ism," according to the dean, is an organized system of beliefs or set of theories. He expressed the opinion that socialism is a set of beliefs, that generally speaking they are peculiar to people of an optimistic temperament, that is they are optimistic about the future and pessimistic about the present. They are usually dogmatic in their beliefs.

The types of socialism outlined by Dean LeRossignol are as follows:

1. Utopian socialism is the very earliest brand. It is based upon the book by the same name, written by Sir Thomas Moore. In this book Moore pictured a purely fanciful island on which everything was ideal. Everybody did an equal amount of work and was equally rewarded. The element of compulsory labor therefore entered in Utopia. Utopianism is generally regarded as wholly impractical.

2. Scientific socialism was originated by Karl Marx, a German, during a professional agitator and his doctrines were revolutionary. It is based on the theory that the economic point of view in human life is the most important. It assumes that there is a constant struggle between the upper and lower classes and that the upper class are exploiters and the lower class exploited. The scientific socialists look to the social revolution which they say is coming, as many Christians look to the second coming of Christ.

3. Christian socialism is simply an attempt to apply the teaching of Christ to everyday business life. True Christian socialists regard themselves as the trustees of property which belongs to God. It is an appeal to the individual rather than to the state. The Christian socialist would not do away with private property. Marxian socialists say that the feature of Christian socialism that are Christian are not truly socialistic.

4. Fabian socialism is named after the Roman general, Fabius Maximus, who thought the best way to defeat Hannibal when Rome was in

VETERANS EXPRESS THANKS TO CO-EDS

Disabled War Veterans Pass Resolutions Thanking Girls' Organizations.

Resolutions expressing thanks to the Mortar-Board, Valkyrie, Silver Serpent, Xi Delta, Mystic Fish and Freshman commission for their services in the sale of Forgetmenots for the Disabled American Veterans of the world war have been submitted by John Davey of the Lincoln chapter of the Disabled American Veterans.

The resolutions are as follows: Whereas, National Headquarters of the Disabled American Veterans of the world war had designated Forgetmenot as the official flower for their association,

And Whereas, December 17th, 1921, was designated and set aside by the organizations as the day the said flowers should be sold throughout the United States,

HUSKERS DEFEAT AMES GAGE FIVE

Scarlet and Cream Quintet Down the Cyclones in Last Few Minutes of PiPay.

MISSOURI AND GRINNELL NEXT FOE FOR HUSKERS

Missouri Last Year's Champions Here Friday Night—Grinnell, Saturday.

Three spectacular baskets, caged by Captain "Tony" Smith in the last six minutes of play, gave the Cornhuskers the victory over the Cyclone quintet Monday night. The end of the first half found the score tied, each team having eight points. The goal shooting of "Smitty" and the floor work of Russell were the outstanding features of the Huskers' play. Greene, flipping four goals, starred for the Cyclones.

The Huskers found some difficulty during the first half in familiarizing themselves with the floor and the offense of the Nebraskans had just started when the first half ended. The score was tied, 8 to 8.

The second half opened with a rush, with both teams fighting hard to gain the lead. With the score 15 to 14, and but six minutes to go, the Husker captain, broke loose and caged three field goals, making certain the Scarlet and Cream victory.

The Husker captain, Austin Smith, shooting six field goals and five free throws, totaling 17 points, was easily the individual star of the game.

Russel played a fast game, bringing the ball down the floor and passing it to Smith, who dropped it through the hoop. The close guarding of Kohl and Munger held the Cyclone score down. Warren also played a good game.

Captain Currie, left guard, and Green, right forward, starred for the Cyclone quintet. Greene hooped the leather four times, while Currie negotiated one field goal and four free throws.

In winning their second conference game, the Cornhuskers played a much better game than they did against the Washington Pikers last Saturday. Inability to locate the basket and poor floor work, noticeable in the Piker game, were almost entirely absent in the Ames game.

The Cornhuskers meet the 1921 Valley champions, Missouri, Friday night on the coliseum floor. This game is classed as one of the hardest games on the Husker schedule, and a fast and exciting contest is looked for. The following night the Huskers play the Grinnell five at the coliseum. The Huskers are expected to have little trouble in disposing of the Pioneers, who have lost three conference games in less than a week.
