Examination Cramming In Vogue; Students Have No Time For Pleasure

The newest fad in the University of Nebraska circles was introduced this week. Yet it is not a fad, rather a semi-yearly event in the Cornhusker and every other institution of learning.
The fad—if such it may be called—is that system of study which has long since been termed "cramming." Examinations for the first semester commence next Saturday and students of the university have suddenly become aware of the fact that they know less about the subjects they are taking than they did at any other time during the present semester.
So, forthwith, viewing the situation carefully from all angles possible, students have come to the conclusion that the only way they are going to be able to do proper justice to themselves is to absorb in from one to seven days all the knowledge which a hard-working corps of professors has been trying to pound into them for some seventeen weeks.
Classes for examination cramming have become the custom among many students. Each afternoon, or at any time when any members of them have moments to spare, a group is formed and the absorbing of knowledge commences.

Pleasure, which during a part of the semester at least has taken the place of study in the daily run of many of the students, now has no place in their lives. They are out to get better than 60 per cent and get it they must whether pleasure suffers or not.
Friday night is a closed night for university students. It was decreed such when the examination commencement was decided as Saturday, January 14. And even were it open, little patronage would be given to parties or dances that night especially by students who have examinations on Saturday.
Dance halls and motion picture theaters are reported to have suffered a severe loss in business this week. The only cause for the loss is the coming examination and they are cause sufficiency.
And so it comes to pass that examination cramming has become the latest fad among university students.

PRINTING PLANT IS READY FOR STUDENTS

All Necessary Equipment Installed—Can Start Work By Next Semester.

Opening of the second semester of work in the University of Nebraska will probably see a corps of students working in the trade school printing plant. All necessary equipment for the plant has been installed and F. A. Miles, instructor, is about prepared to start handling the students.
The printing plant has been in the process of completion ever since the opening of school. Delays in shipments and other unavoidable breaks in the run of delivering the equipment for the plant has so hampered the work that the plant will not open for at least a month later than it otherwise might have. So far the plant has done much good work in the printing of university stationary and other small jobs.

A folding machine which was broken in the original shipment and sent back to the manufacturers has been replaced by a new one, a large stone has been installed and a couple of galley racks placed. All of the type has been placed in the cases and are ready for use.
Mr. Miles has practically everything lined up in preparation for the coming in of the trades students. He can handle nearly a dozen men in the shop and about that many will probably be placed.

ALUMNI NOTES

Supt. Everett Hosman of Ord, recently elected secretary of the state teachers association, was a visitor at the teachers college yesterday.
Dr. Lida B. Earhart of the faculty of the teachers college who has been quite ill, is in Rochester, Minn., where she is getting along as well as can be expected. She will probably be back in a few days to take up her work.

Name Plate, Gift Of Pledges, is Taken From Alpha Delta Pi House

Alpha Delta Pi sorority is bemoaning the loss of a hammered brass name plate which has since the commencement of school this year been adorning the front door of their chapter house. On the Thursday before the Christmas holiday vacation some one decided the name plate was not just where it belonged. So accordingly they walked upon the porch of the house and unscrewed the plate, from the door. It has been missing ever since.
The name plate was valued at nearly $50. It was a beautiful piece of brass work bearing the Greek letters of the sorority. It was purchased by the last year pledges and awarded to the active chapter.
When school started this fall, the plate was entirely finished and delivered. Immediately it was placed on the front door to welcome the visitors and to tell passers-by that this was the home of Alpha Delta Pi. It was believed to be in safe repose there on the door and little thought of it was given.
But for some reason or other, some one decided the name plate should not thusly adorn the chapter house. So they removed it from the door and walked off with it without leaving so much as a note or a statement of

JUDGE PALMER TALKS ON POULTRY INDUSTRY

Immensity of Poultry Industry In Various States Brought Out in Talk Thursday.

The auditorium in agricultural hall was filled Thursday afternoon, January 5th, with poultry men gathered here for the annual meeting of the Nebraska State Poultry Association. Mr. O. G. Smith of Kearney who was scheduled to speak on, "How Hens Have Helped," was unable to be present on account of illness at home. Mr. R. F. Palmer, a prominent judge, spoke in his place. The first point brought out by Mr. Palmer was the immensity of the poultry industry. There are more people raising poultry, than any other one kind of livestock. In one county alone the assessed valuation of poultry and poultry products was over a million dollars. It is a large, rapidly growing industry. In discussing the Nebraska State Poultry Association he explained that it is organized under the laws of the state. It is as much a part of the state as the university and receives an appropriation regularly from the state. He congratulated the association for encouraging the raising of the more practical and popular breeds other than the ultra fancy breeds. In defense of the breeders of show stock he showed that they were not fanatics or cranks, but actually do a great deal toward the improvement of the breeds.
In a study of the poultry conditions in the south, Mr. Palmer discovered that in one instance a hen would have to produce ninety eggs each year to pay for her food and care. A two hundred egg producer then would produce one hundred and ten eggs profit. A hundred, two hundred egg hens would produce one thousand dollars profit under those conditions. To produce the same amount of profit it would take twenty-eight, eight hundred pound steers or eighteen thousand pounds of cotton.
In conclusion, Mr. Palmer, brought out the fact that on the average farm the care of the poultry is left to the farmer's wife. Since she does not have the time to give proper attention to the chickens, they fail to be a profit producing enterprise. But if the farmer would give his chickens the attention he gives to his other livestock, they would become as profitable a side line as any other branch of farm activities.

DANCE PRICES GOES TUMBLING DOWNWARD

than usual this year. The constant draining of the pocket book which the "dollar ten" charge caused has been seriously hampering the financial conditions among a good many students. The reduction of thirty-five cents, equal to almost one-third, will find favor for all orchestras which have taken it up.

CAST FOR OPERA IS ANNOUNCED

Their ability as singers has long since become known to Lincoln people through their work during their high school days. The Aeolian Singers club is the only organization of its kind in Lincoln.
Staging of the first act is scheduled to take place Wednesday evening. The chorus parts are all memorized and only the parts of the leading persons are yet unprepared. Good progress is being made on the opera and it will be in readiness late in March.
H. O. Ferguson, director of music in the Lincoln public schools, has charge of the opera.

COMMERCIAL CLUB SHINGLE READY FOR DISTRIBUTION

All Bizad students who were initiated into the commercial club last October can get their shingle by calling at the commercial club rooms this week. Harm Harms has been able to give a few of his services to the club. To him credit must be given for the clever way in which he printed the shingles. Harry LaTowsky, president of the commercial club stated that he was able to secure the valued services of Mr. Harms only after considerable talking. Mr. Harms is rapidly coming to the fore as an artist and penman to the commercial club is indeed fortunate to get his services.
