THE LAW EDITION.

From time to time the Daily Nebraskan has published special editions of the paper telling, as well as possible, intimate things about the organization and administration of different colleges at Nebraska University.

Today we are publishing a special edition for the college of law—not at the request of any member of the faculty or any student organization within the college, but simply because the rapid progress of that college within the last few years has been so marked that at the present time it rates among the best institutions of its kind in the United States, and for that reason it is well for Nebraska students to know something about the faculty, school organization, plans, traditions, and hopes, which have made our school of law so successful.

Perhaps the individual feature of the school that is most noticeable to outsiders is the law school spirit—the esprit de corps, if you please. It is a big family group, bound together by a common purpose, common interests, and common ideals, and the unity and strength of it are possible because of democracy.

Nebraska is proud of its law school, and justly so, and for that reason the Rag presents to every Nebraskan a few facts about the college so that every student may be a law booster.

Faculty Notes.

Associate Professor of Practical Sociology, Dr. Hattie Plum Williams, addressed the open meeting of the Omaha woman's club Monday afternoon on the subject, "Social Welfare and Government." The program was given under the auspices of the Political and Social Science Department of the club.

Dr. Barbour of the geology department of the University was in Sioux City Wednesday where he lectured before the Iowa Academy of Science.

Clenn Ruby, a former University student and graduate of the geology department, who is now a geologist at Denver, Colo., visited the department Tuesday. Mr. Ruby donated the department a collection of copper ores obtained in the southern part of Utah.

EXHAUST

Harriette: Just made my letter in law.
Skeptic: How come?
Harriette: Flunked half my hours and the dean gave me "L."

Ques.—What is the Lincoln Police Court?
Ans.—A place infested by law students seeking scandal between classes.

One morning a prominent bootlegger from North 10th street was on trial. In trying to identify two witnesses who had entered his domain of hooch and spent good money for boot liquor the city attorney said, "If either or both of those men are in the court room just point them out."
The fourteen laws present scrambled to the stairs and dashed off to make a ten o'clock.

Famous Sayings.

"Only one inveterate cigaret smoker ever got thru my course and he failed in after life."
"This is a lawyers' subject."

"The U. S. supreme court and a big majority of the lesser courts say this is right, but it's wrong; hopelessly so."

Judge.—What is the charge against this man?
Officer.—He is here for stealing eleven bottles of beer.
Judge.—Dismissed! Eleven bottles don't make a case.
P. A. D. Quarterly.

THE FRESHMAN LAW.

Who is this lad of thoughtful mien, And deeply furrowed brow,
He was a boy four months ago,
But who shall name him now?
He talks in some wild foreign tongue,
Of pleadings and complaints,
Demurrers, writs, and plaintiffs,
Defendants and distracts.

He talks of torts and negligence,
Assault and defamation,
He knows the law, and knowing it,
Delights in revelation.

He argues every circumstance,
Each question has two faces,
He'll say he moon is made of cheese,
And back it up with cases.

The students in the academy,
Regard his words with awe,
Who is this learned demi-God,
Why, just a freshman law.

SEVENTY-FIVE.

A lot of students smoke and chew,
And still they seem to thrive,
But never a one smoked cigarets,
And got over seventy-five.

The figures back for twenty years,
Show cigarets will drive,
All legal concepts from the brain,
So they get seventy-five.

Just take this as a precedent,
That never a man alive,
Inhaled the filthy coffin nail,
And got over seventy-five.

Oh-h-h-h-h say! Law-aw-aw school,
Knock 'em on the tail,
We'll keep you out of Jail,
Laws, Laws, Laws.

Barbecue Day to Be During Autumn Week at Graduation Time

tion of our school was participated in by many judges and members of the Lancaster bar. Chief Justice Morrissey of the Nebraska supreme court watched the ball games, the leap frog contests, the broncho busting, and took pot luck with all the other fellows in the chow line.

This year the big affair will probably be held during graduation week in conjunction with the program to be dedicated to Nebraska's alumnae. Many grads will undoubtedly be in the parade in the morning, and follow the festivities thru the day, becoming acquainted, meeting old friends, fraternizing with the undergraduates and feeling more closely bound to their alma mater than ever before.

LAW GRADUATES IN EVERY STATE

Many in Public Office.

A large number of the graduates have gone into public office. From the replies given to the questionnaires, which include but about one-half of the total number of graduates, 107 have been county attorneys, 56 city attorneys, five district attorneys, seven assistant attorney generals, 33 county judges, five city judges, seven district judges, two supreme court commissioners, one supreme judge, 2 university regents, ten mayors, five members of state constitutional conventions, twenty-five state representatives, eight state senators, two United States representatives and one United States senator. More than 170 took part in some form of war work. Of the students now in school, 122 of 240 saw service.

Forty-three per cent of the fathers of the graduates were farmers and stockmen, twelve per cent were lawyers, eight per cent were merchants, 6 per cent were bankers, 3 per cent were clergymen, 2 per cent were physicians, salesmen and railroad men. Other graduates came from the homes of laborers to lone capitalists, tailors, carpenters, blacksmiths and teachers.

Graduates are now spread throughout the entire United States. The list of the graduates in different states follows:

- Nebraska 609, Arizona 4, California 38, Colorado 22, Delaware 1, District of Columbia 7, Florida 5, Georgia 3, Idaho 28, Illinois 19, Indiana 2, Iowa 23, Kansas 14, Maryland 1, Massachusetts 1, Michigan 1, Minnesota 10, Montana 28, New Mexico 5, New York 15, North Dakota 3, Ohio 3, Oklahoma 29, Oregon 12, Pennsylvania 2, South Dakota 19, Texas 1, Utah 6, Washington 59, West Virginia 1, Wisconsin 4, Wyoming 27, Canal Zone 1, Canada 1, Missouri 21, New Jersey 1.

This makes a total of 1,062 graduates. An additional 114 are listed with unknown addresses and 57 are deceased.

VANITY FAIR VOTES WILL BE ANNOUNCED

Cornhusker Beauty Section Election Results to be Posted Next Week.

The fact that six or eight University of Nebraska co-eds will have their pictures in a rotogravure section of the new 1922 Cornhusker, the section to be known as "Vanity Fair," has caused no small amount of interest on the campus. A bulletin board with the names of the leading candidates thereon, changing as the votes change from day to day, will be placed in the lower west hall of the armory during examination week.

Votes will be cast next week, as students pay their fees. Only those who purchase "Everybody's 1922 Annual" will be allowed to ballot. The first vote for any co-ed will count 100 points and the remaining votes will count 50 points each. Norma Talmadge has been asked by the Cornhusker management to judge the contest. She has not yet replied to the communication.

"We do not want students to get the idea that this is a mere beauty contest—much the same as those often conducted by cheap magazines or newspapers. The girls who are selected will not be the frivolous beauties at Nebraska—if there are any—we feel sure, but they will be beautiful girls who have a good measure of common sense as well." This was the thought expressed by an annual staff member yesterday.

The pictures in the rotogravure section will be personality photos. They will—in three different poses—depict the character of the girl shown.
