Missouri and Nebraska Meet in Championship Battle Tonight

TEN MEETS FOR TRACK PROGRAM

Schulte Proposes to Better Last Year's National Rating and Hold Championship.

FIRST INDOOR VALLEY TRACK MEET THIS YEAR

Announce Complete Schedule for 1922 Cinder Path Squad—Three Meets Here.

Nebraska's 1922 track program is the biggest ever attempted at the Cornhusker institution. Ten track meets have been scheduled, including four indoor meets. The first meet will be a dual indoor meet at Ames, February 18, and just five weeks away. Coach Henry T. Schulte has issued the call for candidates, and intensive training will begin immediately.

Last year Nebraska made a very enviable record in track. At the Illinois, Drake, and Penn Relays, the Seale and Cream athletes made excellent showings, and then the Huskers eclipsed these performances by winning the Missouri Valley conference championship. The Huskers also placed sixth of 65 schools in the nationals.

According to Coach Schulte, Nebraska has four aims in track this year. These are as follows: (1) To better the 1921 record; (2) To keep the slate clean this year; (3) To better last year's marks in every event; (4) To develop several future olympic stars.

Coach Schulte wants a larger squad out than last year's squad, which was the largest in the history of the school. Coach Schulte declares that if Nebraska is to realize the track aims outlined above, the men must turn out for track.

Coach Schulte adds that every man in school who is game and willing to work, and has an average physique will be welcomed to the squad. Individual attention is promised to every man who will join the squad.

Nebraska will meet Ames, at Ames, February 18, in the first indoor dual meet in the history of the Husker institution. Ames has been at work for a month and the Cyclone school is featuring the Nebraska meet. The following events will be held: 60 yard low hurdles, 440 dash, 880 dash, mile run, two mile run, mile relay, pole vault, 16 pound shot put, high jump and broad jump.

For the first time in its history, the Missouri Valley conference is staging an indoor valley championship meet. This meet will be held at Kansas City, March 25.

The following is the complete Cornhusker track schedule for 1922. The first four meets are indoor.

PRAISE FOR HUSKERS FROM W. AND J. MEN

Eastern Grid Players Meet Nebraska's All-American Here Wednesday.

"Nebraska is rated very high in the east," commented Captain Russell Stein in an interview with the Daily Nebraskan sports editor yesterday. Stein is captain of the famous Washington and Jefferson football team, which passed through Lincoln yesterday on its return from Pasadena, where it outplayed the California "Bears" in the inter-sectional championship game which resulted in a 0 to 0 tie.

Captain Stein went on to say that the Cornhuskers played a wonderful game against Pittsburgh, and he highly complimented the work of the Husker line. Upon being asked whether or not Nebraska could defeat the California eleven, Captain Stein said that the odds were greatly against any team taking the long trip to the coast.

Stein explained that the adverse conditions of the trip and the change of climate prevents any team from playing in top form. As a remedy for this condition, Captain Stein suggested that the middle west was the logical place to play inter-sectional games between teams from the two coasts.

When asked of his opinion of the Syracuse team, the Huskers' eastern opponent next season, Stein said that the Syracuse eleven furnished the Presidents the stiffest opposition of last season. He predicted that Syracuse would have a powerful eleven next season.

Pucelik Meets Team.

John Pucelik, the Husker all-American guard, met and talked with the Washington and Jefferson players and Coach Neale. Pucelik was warmly received by the W. and J. players, who were anxious to talk with the Cornhusker star. Coach Neale told Pucelik that the fighting qualities and ability of the Nebraska players were a surprise to the eastern football world. One of the players added that the fighting spirit was much greater in the middle west than on the western coast. All the members of the Presidents team were loud in their praises of the Nebraska eleven.

FORMER STUDENT SHOT AND KILLED

Linn Andrews, '21 of College of Agriculture Dies by Own Hand—Believed Accidental.

Prof. Linn S. Andrews, '21, of the demonstration high school of the state teachers college was shot and killed Wednesday evening in the woods just east of Peru. The body was discovered this morning by a student, Joe Stanley, on his way to school.

Mr. Andrews was a graduate of the University of Nebraska college of agriculture last June and went to Peru as a teacher of the Smith Hughes agricultural work.

He had purchased a revolver Wednesday evening and had gone for his customary walk. This was the last seen of him until found the next morning. His fellow teachers say that there was no apparent occasion for suicide. His class work was laid on his desk for Thursday while he had also purchased some material for future work. The latter was found in his pockets. It is believed that he was target shooting when the gun refused to work and upon examining it, he accidentally shot himself in the head.

The Promise He Made Her

It was early in the spring and his college days were coming to a close. Before long he would be off to the crowded metropolis to try and win a place for himself in the rushing throng who battle for success in the world of keen competition.

She made him promise that he would hold steadfast to the high ideals that had been inculcated in each member of the college student body. She was his girl, a romance of his college days, and he realized he would miss her, so he resolved to do his best, because some day—

Well—it is the same old story. There is no use to tell it over again. It happens at every college—it is the romance of youth.

His pictures in the Cornhusker, which she will take back with her to the little town from whence she came, will be a source of great comfort, and her picture in the Cornhusker will bring back memories to him of the days when he was studying for a future.

There is going to be a spirit of real romance and fine sentiment in the 1922 Cornhusker. Many a young man and young woman will be glad to have this beautiful book to take back home with them, as it will be a constant reminder of their days of romance, of the stirring athletic games, of the good times at the clubs, fraternities and sororities, and the college activities in which they were all keenly interested. It will make life worth living to at least remember some of them, to have them constantly before you, visualized in true to life manner.

Best of all, we consider ourselves most fortunate in having the cooperation of an expert creator of college annuals, who has put in practically a lifetime studying every phase of college year books. His ideas and the ones of the staff have originated are bound to make our year book an annual of wonderful quality—an annual that should take its place as the very finest publication that was ever produced at our school.

A skilful combination of illustrations, texts, beautiful borders, decorative division, drawings, special features, wonderful photography, artistic engravings and fine printing will make our Cornhusker a book that will be artistic and individual, a book that you will be more than proud to take back home with you. And when you think of the price, it is indeed most insignificant, barely the cost of a theater ticket, merely one-half the price of an ordinary pair of shoes for this most beautiful volume.

Don't fail to put in your order early. Don't fail to take advantage of the days of sale, which will be January 16-21. Subscribe for the Cornhusker, chapel entrance to Armory.

Students "Crammed" Up For Starting Of Final Examinations On Saturday

Some four thousand University of Nebraska students Friday started in on what showed signs of developing into a final "cramming" for the final examination for the first semester 1921-22. With Friday evening closed to dances and parties, students were planning to make use of the inactivity in cramming sessions which promised to last far into the night.

Modern Language 1 and 51 (French and Spanish) and English I examinations are scheduled to be held Saturday morning. Freshman throughout the colleges are reviewing their "s'il vous plait" and their "mu bien" together with all other idioms, verb forms and vocabulary which they have covered during the semester. Some students went to work with a vim which gave promise of giving them all the knowledge of the subject in one night rather than in the prescribed semester of time.

Saturday night and Sunday both promise to be dull days around the sorority houses. Fraternity houses will also be low on activities. All of the members will undoubtedly be busy at cram sessions and will have no time for the usual visit to their fair ladies. The only time they will have will be with their books and those articles of knowledge promise to have their busiest days between now and next Friday when the examinations come to a close.

Two Hours to Each Exam. Two hours will be given for each examination. The complete schedule of the final test periods was published in the Daily Nebraskan yesterday. Registration for the next semester was completed Wednesday. That was the last day in which students could see their advisers and their deans and get their programs o. k'ed. Fees will be paid next week in the armory where a temporary finance office will be maintained. Those students in colleges other than arts and sciences, business administration and teachers college, should pay their fees on Monday and Tuesday. Students in these

UNIVERSITY NIGHT PLANS PROGRESS

Colleges Ask for Places on Program of Annual Celebration in February.

Only five weeks more until university night. How near and yet so far. It has been assured however, by Chairman Wolf and other members of the committee that this program will be the best that has ever been staged. And we are inclined to believe them too, when we view the machinery as it is preparing a program which will be remembered by most of us for a life time.

It has been rumored that only the best talent in our school will be represented on February 18, and the committee substantiates the rumor. All writeups will be put on a competitive basis, and only the best will be selected. A time limit has been set on the last day when this material will be accepted, Sunday January 15. Only a few days left, and to get busy. Numerous skits have been submitted. So competition is quite keen.

The Bizads are clamoring for a place on the program. Tyson has offered a prize of $5 for the best write-up for the Bizad college which is handed in by the final date. Five dollars is a lot of money nowadays, so competition is keen within the Bizad college for the prize money.

The Laws, not to be outdone, insist they must have a place on the program too. So the barristers are having a little role amongst themselves for the "honor" which goes to the one who is deemed the most original and cleverest writer.

The Engineers claim talent abounds in their college too, so we look to them for a clever piece of work.

The Ags. have stated their desire to have a skit and we believe if they do, that it will be a good one.

The Palladians and Dramatic club have been working on their writeup, also.

University night is our night during the year when the students have an opportunity to throw mud at each other and at the faculty, and no body takes offense. In other words the bars are let down, and only the best of entertainment and humor will be staged.

TIGER INVASION OF HUSKER CAMP

Missouri Arrives in Lincoln to Play the Nebraska Basketball Tossers.

ONE OF THE HARDEST GAMES ON SCHEDULE

Champions of 1921 Valley Conference Look Like a Dangerous Foe.

The Missouri Tigers, champions of the Missouri Valley conference in 1921, will invade Lincoln today, preparatory to battling the Cornhusker basketball tossers Friday evening on the coliseum floor. Missouri's record so far this year has placed them well in the running to repeat the laurel winning feat of last year and the game tonight will probably be one of the hardest on the Husker schedule.

The Tigers have so far this year defeated Washington and Drake. The Tigers overwhelmed the Pikers by the top-heavy score of 45 to 26 last Monday night.

Nebraska has also taken the Washington Pikers to a drubbing. The Huskers did not out-point the Pikers quite so badly as did the Tigers, however, the Husker quintet piling up 31 points to the Pikers' 23. The Huskers have also defeated the Iowa state basket tossers.

While the dope seems to indicate a Tiger victory Friday evening, little can be judged from comparative scores. Three years ago, the Missouri Tigers invaded the Husker camp with the dope all pointed toward an overwhelming victory in their behalf. But when the two teams met in the cage in games on two succeeding nights, the Cornhuskers opened up an offensive which completely wiped the Tigers off their feet and gave the Huskers a pair of sensational victories.

The Missouri Tigers have three letter men on their squad. Captain Bond, guard; Browning, forward; and Bunker, center, were all members of the last year Tiger five. Vanice at forward and Faurot at guard make up the other two positions on the Missouri squad.

Coach Owen Frank has been working hard rounding the Husker basket-tossers into shape for the Missouri battle. The cagers have been put through daily strenuous practices in an effort to mould them into winning form.

Holland Out of Lineup.

With the exception of Lyle Holland, the entire Husker squad is in excellent fettle for the Friday evening clash. Holland is out of the game temporarily with an infected hand.

The lineup of the Cornhuskers Friday evening will probably be much the same as that which was presented against Iowa State last Monday night and took the Ames cagers to a trimming. The lineup was Captain Smith and Russel, forwards; Warren, center; Kohl and Mungers, guards.

Saturday evening the Cornhuskers are scheduled to take on the Grinnell five at the coliseum. Grinnell has lost games to Oklahoma, Kansas and Kansas Aggies and the dope points to a Husker victory. Yet the fact that Kansas defeated Grinnell does not indicate much for the Kansas

WOODWARD TALKS TO ENGINEERS WEDNESDAY

Allan Woodward, report engineer for the Doherty Co., doing results and testing work at the Lincoln Gas and Electric Co. gave a talk on "Power Plants to the A. I. E. E." Wednesday evening.

Mr. Woodward advised those engineers who were seeking to get rich quick to stay away from the public utility game. "It affords, however an opportunity for service which is an inducement to some. The policy of grabbing what you can and letting the other fellow take care of himself is not the one of the successful public utility."

He urged engineers who go into public service work to work toward executive positions and the best way to reach these positions is thru the results and efficiency department.
