

SCHOOL OF FINE ARTS DISTRIBUTE LEAFLET

The university extension division distributed during the past week to the high schools of the state a leaflet dealing with the school of fine arts. The school of fine arts is a part of the college of arts and sciences, but it has its own distinct faculty which is primarily responsible for its courses of study and its activities. The director acts as advisor to all students who major in the fine arts. Data is given concerning the course of instruction in drawing and painting, music, and dramatics; also requirements for B. F. A. degrees in these subjects. The courses leading to the B. F. A. degree are a combination of the fine arts and arts and sciences courses. Students devote about one-half of their time to the fine arts and obtain a training that fits them to become professional artists or teachers of the arts.
