EDDY MEETINGS ARE ARRANGED

Tentative Program for Series of Student Convocations Announced.

THREE ASSEMBLIES TO BE HELD ON EACH DAY

Classes to be Dismissed for Morning Meetings to be Held Next Week.

One hundred fifty students, representatives of every organization on the campus, crowded Ellen Smith hall at a meeting called by the executive committee of the Sherwood Eddy meetings, to hear Ben Cherrington outline the purposes of those meetings which are to be held Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week.

"I haven't the slightest doubt but that the Eddy meetings will be highly successful," Mr. Cherrington stated in his talk. He told of the similar meetings conducted by Mr. and Mrs. Eddy at the University of California not long ago when at each meeting held by Mr. Eddy, over three thousand students attended.

Speaking of the purpose of the meetings, Mr. Cherrington told the representatives of the fraternities, sororities and other societies, that Nebraska students were being asked to turn from the whirl of campus activities for three days and to concentrate their thoughts on the world of reality outside the campus gates. Three days of serious thinking on world problems and the relation of the individual student to them should have a profound influence on the lives of many U. of N. students, he pointed out.

Ad Dettman, chairman of the executive committee, presided over the meeting and introduced Floyd Oldt, Clarence Dunham and others who gave short talks on plans of organization of the men's organizations. At least two meetings will be addressed by Mr. Eddy for men only, while at the same hour, Mrs. Eddy will address the co-eds.

The tentative program as announced is as follows:

Wednesday.
11:00 a. m.—Sherwood Eddy, St.

DR. D. S. MCGARTHY LECTURES TO LAWS

First Lecture Monday Includes Demonstrative Equipment of His System.

Monday morning at ten o'clock Mr. Dwight S. McCarthy gave the first section of his lecture on Modern Office Management to the three classes of the law college. Mr. McCarthy has spent ten years in preparing and perfecting this system. He has written many articles concerning his study, and has lectured to various bar associations and law schools.

On the platform before the students stood all the office furniture and equipment that the business end of a lawyer's practice could require. Desks, filing cases, form books, and dictaphones were drawn into the lecture, and their relations to the efficiency system were explained.

One of the most interesting features is the dispatch board which is used in connection with a small card index. This combination was referred to by the speaker as the office brain. Every new matter that is brought to the office for consideration is noted, and an index tickler card is made out and filed in the catalog under the month and day when it should receive attention.

When that day comes around the tickler slips are taken from the catalog and placed on the dispatch board in order of their importance. As each matter is attended to the slip may be removed and a memorandum of the next tack requiring attention stares one in the face.

The thing most emphasized in the lecture was to keep the desk in the neat and orderly condition. This was said to not only expediate the work, but also to act as a recom-

UNI EPISCOPALEAN CLUB ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

The University Episcopalian club elected the following officers for this semester at a business meeting last Tuesday:

Quintard Joyner, president; Charlotta Cheny, vice president; Henry Sargent, secretary; Mary Ellen Whelpley, treasurer.

WOMEN OBJECT TO POLITICAL SYSTEM

Voice Disapproval of University Politics—Plan "Clean-up" Election Methods.

The political machinery of the University is due for a general cleaning and overhauling. To vote for the man or woman rather than the machine he or she represents is what a committee composed of representative girls from dormitories, rooming houses, sorority houses and other organizations on the campus, decided should be the slogan for the coming weeks.

This committee is not to be called another organization. Rather it is the spontaneous outcome of a great deal of stored-up feeling the girls have had for some time that class politics have not been on the right basis. So, with one idea in mind, cleaner politics—girls in the University have banded together and are making definite plans for the coming election.

Wednesday night, at Ellen Smith Hall at 7 o'clock there will be called a general mass meeting for girls, interested in cleaner politics is wanted at this meeting. At the meeting last evening of sorority and non-sorority girls, the sentiment seemed to point towards this goal. It is planned to have the candidates for office present to make a statement covering every plank in his platform. In this way the girls will be able to vote intelligently. They will know before election day for whom they want to vote and the method of dragging people to the polls with instructions to vote a certain way will be done away with.

It is hoped that in the coming election that the best man or woman will be chosen for the job regardless of whether he is a Greek or a Barb. Then the thinkers and the workers, the people in this world who really accomplish things will be given a chance to help engineer class and school affairs; and the natural leaders would dominate instead of representatives of the social organizations to which a man belongs deciding who would be a leader. Then we would have spontaneous leadership. The leaders would think of the welfare of the school, instead of their own personal glory.

Many offices have been filled in the past because the machine back of the candidate was a strong and powerful one, because that machine promised a division of the spoils to all who would support it. If a plan for cleaner and better politics can be worked out satisfactorily there will be no such thing as a division of spoils to supporters of the victorious, for natural qualifications will be considered when the division is made.

ARE ENTHUSIASTIC OVER AG COLLEGE ORCHESTRA

The Ag college orchestra is no longer a dream; it is here to stay. This is the enthusiastic report from leader and members alike. Twelve to fifteen instruments are now out for regular weekly practice and the orchestra will soon be ready for a public tryout. The men have taken real interest in the work and with the backing of students, should develop with a worth-while organization.

Pershing Rifles.
An important meeting of the Pershing Rifles, both active and alumni, will be held Thursday evening, February 2, at 7:30 in Faculty hall, 2nd floor of the Temple building.

Student Soldiers Have Sand Pile Class But No Kindergarten Work

Not all of the engineering that is taught in this university is given in the engineering college, nor is all of the sand-table work taught in the sand-table work class. You will undoubtedly wonder what the connection is between these two things. It is simply this:

Over in Nebraska hall on the third floor, where the military department holds sway, there are two large sand tables with miniature equipment of all kinds, some of which looks very much like the things that we played with during our early youth. There are trowels, sticks, blocks, and sand bags. But all of these things have a more serious and deadly purpose than mere child's play.

It is here that the juniors of the department are being initiated into the mysteries of field engineering by Captain Nix. The construction of revetments, trenches, obstacles, barricades, and fortifications is demonstrated in miniature on these sand tables and the future officers are made to go through the process of actually constructing them.

Some of the students take great delight in digging in the sand and the less fortunate men of the basic course are often seen inspecting the sand tables and asking about the work. Nobody has been found asleep during one of these classes, and the groups into which the classes are divided for work vie with each other in seeing who can construct the best trench with the most comfortable dugout.

It is always with a feeling of regret that the bell that signals the intermission, is heard, for all of the work must then be demolished and the table leveled off for the next problem. But sand-castles are like air-castles, they must always give way to others of their kind.

When a group of students have toiled hard for the space of some fifteen or twenty minutes at the construction of an unassailable position, heaving up vast quantities of earth and rocks (sand and gravel in reality) it is rather hard to have the instructor come around and point out a score or more of places where your trenches fall short of that model trench perfection, the Hindenburg line. But you breathe a sigh of relief when you think how easily your errors can be corrected in the sand and rejoice that you do not have to alter them out in the field under fire and in full size.

DELTA CHI FIRST IN RIFLE MATCH

Eleven Fraternities Contest in First Interfraternity Gallery Contest.

The Interfraternity rifle match was held during the week of January 23-25. Every fraternity was represented by a team of five men. Delta Chi placed first and Alpha Gamma Rho, agricultural fraternity, pulled down second honors. Some very good scores were fired by men in this competition. The three highest individual scores were fired by L. V. Smetana, Delta Chi; E. J. Lake, Jelta; and Captain Joseph Noh of Phi Delta Theta.

The ranking of the teams was as follows:

Fraternity	Score
Delta Chi	830
Alpha Gamma Rho	792
Sigma Phi Epsilon	788
Sigma Nu	782
Phi Delta Theta	771
Alpha Tau Omega	769
Farm House	767
Phi Gamma Delta	764
Silver Lynx	756
Sigma Chi	755
Pi Kappa Phi	725

Other entries incomplete. Some rather keen interest has been displayed thus far in the rifle matches. There is now an adequate supply of the new Winchester target rifles in the gallery now and the men are becoming used to them rapidly. A new type of targets is now being used which requires much less trouble in changing the target. This saves time and helps to keep up interest in the shooting.

The inter-collegiate matches are scheduled to begin soon and the teams are already practicing up under the instruction of Colonel Mitchell, who has attained some success as a rifle coach. The teams are expected to make a good showing when the matches begin this week.

Suffer Ye Freshmen For I Shall Send Snow For You To Clean Up

Feeling probably that fraternity freshmen were not getting all of the work that should rightfully be bestowed upon them, Old Man Weather Sunday morning opened up his snow machine and sent down a flurry of flakes. And then in order to hold the flakes in place he opened the rain barrel and made streets and sidewalks almost lakes.

Sunday night he again opened up and sent down more snow and rain.

But cleaning snow alone off the sidewalks is not a particularly hard job and the old man wanted to make the freshmen work. So Monday morning he sent the mercury on the downward wain and froze all of his Sun-

GIRLS' COMMERCIAL CLUB TO ENTERTAIN

The girls' commercial club will entertain the members at Ellen Smith hall, Wednesday, February 1, 5 p. m. at dinner. Mildred Othmer has charge of the sale of tickets, which are 50 cents each. The tickets will have to be purchased before Wednesday noon in order that the proper reservation can be made.

URGE EX-SOLDIERS TO JOIN LEGION

Samuel Avery Says Veterans Should Join for "Honor of the Institution."

A letter urging former students, alumni and faculty of the University of Nebraska who served in the recent world war, to join the American legion has been sent by Chancellor Samuel Avery to Hanford McNider, national commander. In it, the chancellor stresses the patriotism displayed by the university during the late war and that this should be continued. He urges all veterans to join the legion for "the honor of the institution and the perpetuity of his country."

The letter to the alumni, former students and faculty of the university follows:

"Approximately 3,000 students, former students and faculty members were enrolled in the armed forces of the United States during the world war; and though the war is over our patriotism is not demobilized. The university now has approximately 1,000 students in the reserve officers training corps. On the campus, the faculty and students delight in preserving the tradition of Pershing as a young lieutenant in the army. From the state at large the alumni have furnished both the past and the present state commander of the American legion. The first, Earl Cline, is a distinguished former student of '15; the second, Robert G. Simmons, of the same class, is now president of the State Alumni association; the present able and active commander, William Ritchie, Jr., is also of '15.

"The American legion can and ought to be one of the greatest forces for good in the country. The American citizen soldier and war veterans have preserved this country from the curse of militaristic tyranny. Let us now preserve it from the curse of the tyranny of anarchy. Let us make the legion strong in order that it may help keep America on its historic course, avoiding the ditch of imperialism on the one side and the even deeper ditch of bolshevism on the other. Hence I urge every University of Nebraska veteran of the world war to join the legion for the honor of the institution and the perpetuity of his country. Very respectfully submitted,
SAMUEL AVERY,
Chancellor University Member of Lincoln Post No. 3."

HOCKEY FEED THURSDAY FOR TOURNAY WINNERS

Hockey season is over but there is going to be a hockey "feed" just the same next Thursday night, 6:15 sharp at Ellen Smith hall. The seniors must be entertained for tramping on the sophomores. The sophomores are good sports so there will be good food, plenty of it, served with good cheer. Sign up in the gym before Wednesday noon.

The "eats" committee—Jessie Hiatt, chairman; Frances Gable, Lois Pederson, Nar. Snavely.

Filings of candidates for offices to be selected at the elections to be held February 7 must be handed into the Student Activities office by next Friday, February 3.

The following offices will be filled by the election: Freshman, sophomores and junior members of the publication board; junior managing editor, business manager and editor-in-chief of the Cornhusker; presidents of all four classes; Ivy day orator.

HUSKERS TIED FOR FOURTH IN VALLEY

Even Honors for Huskers, Drake and Kansas Aggies in Conference Cage Race.

SMITH IS SIXTH IN INDIVIDUAL SCORING

Strenuous Week of Practice for Ames Game Here Saturday In the Coliseum.

Nebraska ties with Drake and the Kansas Aggies for fourth place in the valley basketball race as a result of the Oklahoma capsters last week. Missouri, with six victories and no defeats, is setting the pace in the conference race. The Tiger quintet, valley champions in 1921, have been performing in excellent style, and are hoped to cop first honors again this year. Kansas, having lost to Missouri, is now in second place, while Oklahoma, by virtue of her victory over the Huskers, has forged into third place.

Captain Austin Smith, who leads the Scarlet and Cream eagles in the number of points scored, having made a total of 55 points, stands sixth in individual scoring in the conference. Captain Bond of Missouri heads the list in individual scoring, while Captain Rody of Kansas is second.

The Cornhusker tossers will go thru a week of strenuous practice in preparation for the Ames game, which will be played at the Coliseum Saturday night. Coach Frank's tossers displayed a noticeable inability to locate the basket in the Oklahoma contest, and the Huskers will make a strong effort to overcome this weakness before the Cyclone fray.

Captain "Tony" Smith, who was not in the lineup in the Sooner game, being somewhat behind in his studies, is expected to be back in the lineup when the Cornhuskers meet the Cyclones Saturday. Holland, forward, is still out of the game because of injuries.

Nebraska defeat of the Ames tippers three weeks ago in close contest at Ames, the Huskers winning by a sensational spurt in second half. Since this game, the Cyclones have improved and a fast game is expected.

FOUR NEW MEMBERS FOR CHI DELTA PHI

Women's National Literary Organization has Interesting Program—ELECTS TWO STUDENTS.

Chi Delta Phi held a meeting last week at the home of Adelaide Elam, 2546 S street. Between twenty and thirty members were present. The program consisted of the reading of the verses by Marianna Cummings, Donna Gustin, and Emma Westermann a violin solo by Jacqueline Bost, and a story by Ruth Odell. Miss Cummings and Miss Westermann were elected to active membership, Miss Flora Bullock, Helen Redington, and Lonna Gustin to alumnae membership and Miss Margaret Lynn of the faculty of the University of Kansas and author of the book of essays, "A Step-Child of the Prairies," and the novel, "Free Soil," to honorary membership. One of the alumnae members read a letter concerning recent London experiences from Mrs. St. Clair Lewis. The organization decided to hold its annual initiation and banquet in March. The next regular meeting will be held in February at the Phi Mu house.

The university chapter of the women's national literary organization, Chi Delta Phi, announces that membership in it is open to all women undergraduates on a tryout basis. There ought to be more organizations on the campus, say the officers of Chi Delta Phi, to which admission is gained by merit, not for social reasons or through friends. It cannot admit a very large membership, but it is anxious to give every ambitious woman student who is interested in writing a chance to show what she can do. It will be on the basis of what a
