Wolcott's Classes
Find Ducks Head
Northward Again

Ducks are heading north again. This was discovered by the Zoology 172 class on a field trip under the leadership of Dr. R. H. Wolcott yesterday. The hike was made into the salt basins west of town from which point of vantage flock after flock of pintail ducks could be seen winging their way over the surrounding country in a beeline for some body of water to the north. Dr. Wolcott said that they had been coming since last Saturday and will not go back unless the weather man sends something cold enough to freeze up the Missouri river, and even then the ducks might stay a few days waiting for the weather to break. Any robins seen at this time of year, stated Dr. Wolcott, would be those that had stayed over all winter and not new ones from the South. Reports say that in the south part of Lincoln a southern mocking bird is making its winter home, probably because an accident prevented its going south in the regular fall migration.

FIND FLAWS IN TWELVE HISTORIES

Twelve of the 140 American history text books listed for use in the city's schools have been found objectionable by superintendents and teachers who investigated them because they contained references in disparagement of American heroes or in extenuation of British policies.

The committee has asked Superintendent William J. Ettinger to suggest to the board of education that the books be modified before any more are requisitioned.

The following were the books which the committee found to contain objectionable passages:

"History of the American People," by Willis Mason West, published by Allyn & Beacon in 1919.

"A History of the United States for Schools," by McLaughlin and Van Tyne, published by D. Appleton & Co., in 1919.

"Our United States History," by William Backus Guiteau, Ph. D., published by Silver, Burdett & Co., in 1919.

"Short American History," by grade schools, by Everett Barnes, published by D. C. Heath & Co., in 1913.

"School History of the United States," by Hart.

"American Government," by Magruder.

"Burke's Conciliation," by WaWrd

"History of the United States," by Morris.

"American Government," by Mr. Beard.

FOGG IS SOLE JUDGE OF INTER-COLLEGE DEBATE

Prof. M. M. Fogg has been appointed by the University of Missouri and William Jewell college as sole judge of their annual intercollegiate debate to be held at Liberty, Mo., Friday evening, February 17. At the close of the discussion he will give a detailed criticism of the cases (analysis, selection and use of evidence, rebuttal, and presentation), giving his reason for his decision. The purpose of this plan is to make the occasion as educational as may be for both the contestants and the audience.

MRS. EDDY TALKS TO UNIVERSITY WOMEN

Mrs. Sherwood Eddy spoke to a large crowd of girls Thursday evening at Ellen Smith hall. She told of the need of someone to take up Grace Coppock's work in China. The greater part of her entertaining talk was taken up with the story of a crippled Chinese girl, who though tormented by the children of the neighborhood and unwanted by her parents, became a successful missionary and succeeded in making her life into one beneficial to others simply by practicing the doctrine of love. There is an opportunity for girls to do similar work today," declared Mrs. Eddy, in concluding her talk.

WRESTLING MEET TO BE HELD SATURDAY

To first intercollegiate wrestling meet of this season will be held next Saturday afternoon at the armory at 2:30 p. m., when the University of Minnesota team will be here. Reports in regard to Minnesota indicate that this year they are quite a little stronger than they have been for the past several years, and Nebraska is looking forward to a hard contest. At present it appears as though the contest may be handicapped because four men, Wheally, Bengston, Reichanbach and Moore, who have been working out in the 115 lb. class, are ineligible. In the 125 pound class, Pickwell, who represented Nebraska both in the Northwestern meet and Ames meet, is also ineligible at the present time, but De Ford may be available in his place. In the classes up to the heavy weight, the regular men are all eligible.

Student athletic tickets will be good for this meet, and a large crowd is expected to witness the contest.

OMAHA CLUB ELECTS
ROGERS PRESIDENT

At a meeting of the Omaha club last Wednesday evening the following officers were elected for the coming semester: President, Pierce Rogers; vice president, Mildred Othmer; secretary, Leata Markwell; treasurer, Frank Fry. A new plan for the conduction of meetings will be announced as soon as completed.

LINCOLN TO HAVE PUBLIC HEALTH SCHOOL

Plans for a public health school to be held at Lincoln in the coming March were laid at the first meeting of a newly organized committee made up of representatives of Lincoln and of the university. This committee includes Miss Margaret Fedde, Dr. R. A. Lyman, and Prof. and A. A. Reed of the university, besides twenty-eight members from Lincoln. The purpose of the health school is "to provide educational and corrective instruction to underweight students in the public schools. To help establish an institute on public and school health education in the Nebraska university extension division." The committee hopes to make Lincoln the western center of this important work.

FREE MAIL COURSES
GIVEN TO SOLDIERS

New York, Feb. 11.—The Knights of Columbus, extending their welfare work, now principally comprising hospitalization and educational activity for former service men, have established at their national headquarters in New Haven, Conn., the first entirely free correspondence school in the world. The K. of C. have issued invitations to 10,000 veterans, regardless of color or creed, to enroll in the school.

The school, which has a preliminary curriculum of thirty courses, makes no charge of any kind, being especially opened for the benefit of former service men who cannot attend any of the regular K. of C. free night technical schools. Any veteran is welcome to the courses given by mail.

There are no fees or expenses of any kind. All that is necessary to enroll is bona fide evidence of service in the army or navy. The thirty courses include Italian, Latin, mathematics, mechanical drawing, blueprint and plan reading, architectural drawing, civil service civics for foreign born Americans, steam engineering, steam boilers, steam engines, gas and oil engines and gasoline automobiles.

Uni. Night.

University night tickets will be put on sale in Temple for students from 11 a. m. on Monday. Faculty members may get tickets from 3 to 5.

Dearest Jane—

Did you read the noble poem in yesterday's Rag by Edgar A. Guest on "Youth?" It certainly is wonderful to be young isn't it? To be able to trot along after old Father time, to dance around him and laugh at his knowing frown. Yet all the time there is a desire to trip him, to make him stop that steady pace, but you know you mustn't because you are sure to trip yourself in the attempt, and anyway while there's youth there's hope and you prove it by arranging a few more dates and writing more bunk and holding meetings with the members of the "United Scandal Brewers" and hope there'll be time in between for a little browsing over the daily brain-food.

They are my exact sentiments—I mean what he said about youth being able to conquer everything, but I am dubious about the formula. Not very long ago I got kind of tired of living with me as I was, and other people as they were, and I flung myself into a state of mental finecombing and got the fever to really do something. Mapped out a dandy plan to revolutionize campus activities and saw myself convincing college women that the simple life was the only one and marcelles were likely to have a crimp effect on the material they covered. Even had my committees picked and busted in upon a group of my colleagues with the plan and much spilling of vocabulary. They looked at each other and changed the subject and I found myself drawn aside by a couple of anxious-eyed friends who told me they were sure I had been indulging in Green Rivers and Hot-dogs again and put me to bed with hot applications.

How long is it considered proper to argue before you admit yourself squelched?

Somewhat similarly I am, your BANGS.

Other Worlds Than
Our Own.

University of Wisconsin—Horseback riding has become so popular among the University of Wisconsin students since the war that about one hundred have already enrolled in a private riding academy that was started near the campus last fall, and now ride regularly.

University of California—The non-resident fee test has opened in the state Supreme Court. The result of this case will decide whether the University has the right to levy a non-resident fee on students whose intentions are to become permanent residents of the state.

Colorado State Agricultural College—Rebuilding of the old Chemistry building, the erection of a new Chemistry building and the building of a men's dormitory at the Fort Lewis station, were decided upon at a recent meeting of the executive committee of the State Board of Agriculture.

Brigham Young University, Utah—A new college, that of Applied Arts, is to be added to the Brigham Young University. With the establishment of the new one there will be four colleges: Education, Arts and Science, Commerce and Business Administration. The new college will include Agriculture, Mechanic Arts, Home Economics, and Animal Husbandry.

Columbia University—Columbia's first annual interscholastic swimming meet was held Saturday at 2 o'clock. All the Metropolitan district, New York state, Pennsylvania, Chicago and New England were invited to take part.

Iowa State—How would it seem to see a squar of co-eds doing squads east and west about the parade ground? General James Rush Lincoln, commander of the cadets at Iowa State some time advocated military training for the girls.
