Y. W. ELECTS OFFICERS OF NEW CABINET

Dorothy Williams is New President of Women's Christian Association.

CONTESTS ARE CLOSE FOR ALL POSITIONS

Many Co-eds Cast Votes in Annual Election Held Middle of This Week.

The annual Y. W. C. A. election for officers of the cabinet held Wednesday and Thursday resulted as follows:

President, Dorothy Williams; vice president, Jeanette Cook; treasurer, Gertrude Tomson; secretary, Betty Riddell; undergraduate field representative, Ruth Small.

A great interest was shown in this election. In all 226 ballots were cast. The results show that for all five of the offices competition was close. In one or two cases the margin was only a few votes.

According to an unwritten law of the Y. W. C. A., all the candidates for office are to be elected to membership in the Y. W. C. A. cabinet. Several vacancies are to be filled and selections will be made next week. The new cabinet members will be installed the 29th of March.

EDUCATORS GATHER AT BIG CONVENTION

Many Prominent School Men and Women at N. E. A. Meeting in Chicago.

Chicago, March 6.—School superintendents, principals and teachers from all parts of the country made the booth of the society for visual education a veritable clearing house for on films, slides and projectors during the recent Chicago convention of the department of superintendence of the N. E. A.

Neither locality, prosperity nor prestige seemed to afford any clue as to what progress has been made in visual education in the various states. While educators from New York and Illinois enthusiastically report great strides ahead during the past year, New Jersey is making headway much more slowly. Massachusetts, on account of hampering legislation, seems almost out of the running, yet little rural schools in Texas, Idaho and Washington are not only up to the minute with a motion picture machine for classroom use, but are supplying their respective communities with clean recreational shows as well. Indianapolis and Detroit are steadily working toward their goal of equipping every school with portable projectors.

"Speed and sureness by the use of school films" epitomizes the account which the James G. Blaine school of Philadelphia gives of itself in a statement by its principal, Edwin S. Montanye.

"On Friday of each week the entire day is given over to visual instruction in the auditorium. Five groups of pupils spend one period of fifty-five minutes in this room. In this manner approximately 1,200 children receive a period of motion pictures during the course of the day."

Depreciating the lack of a wider range of school films correlated with the school curriculum, such as those produced by the society of visual education, Mr. Montanye says the most useful at present are pictures of geography, history, civics, hygiene, nature study, literature and industrial studies.

"In geography there is scarcely a country that is not well covered with suitable moving picture material. Its value may be somewhat estimated by the fact that a child may gain in fifteen minutes from the screen the numberless details of, say, life in India, which otherwise would consume hours of reading. Moreover, there is less likelihood of false impressions being gained by the screen method, since difficulties of language interpretations are overcome; pictures have a universal language and a common appeal

"Where's Your Picture", May Confront You In Future Years

"Where's your picture, Jack?" Setting—parlor of modern home in 1926.

Players—Jack, the person at whom the question was aimed, and a girl—still young. She was a freshman at the University of Nebraska in 1921.

They were on the sofa. Nothing more startling was their amusement than a glance again through an old Cornhusker—the Everybody's Annual of 1922.

They were looking at the pictures of the 1922 seniors. Although they were at the letter "H" in the alphabet—and Jack's name began with H—the girl scanned the pages in vain for a glimpse of his face.

"Your picture surely is here some place," she assured herself as she kept looking.

Jack was diplomatic and tried to change the subject.

"That's a nice rug in this room," he offered.

The girl, only mildly interested in rugs at this particular time, kept on in search of Jack's picture in the senior section.

He knew only too well it wasn't there—he remembered he had been urged to have it taken—but he didn't. It was too much bother, he had said at the time. He remembered he had argued with one of his fraternity brothers that it wasn't worth it.

Jack tried to show the girl that he didn't care whether his picture was there or not—it was such a trivial thing. But his other college romance had "flunked out." He liked this girl and he cared just a little bit inwardly that perhaps she thought him a cheap skate because he had not had his picture taken for the senior section of the college annual his last year in school.

"Why, Jack, weren't you quite prominent in school affairs? Why didn't you have your picture taken? Here's Bob—there's Bill and look over here—there's Jim."

The situation was embarrassing. Jack was overwhelmingly "squeaked." And the girl in the case had a right to squelch him.

He had come to the conclusion that while it had seemed a little thing at the time, memories of school activities are somewhat dimmed in later years when you fail to see your own face among those of your classmates in your class section.

Moral—If you are a junior, or senior, have your picture taken for the 1922 Cornhusker at once. The deadline is Wednesday, March 15.

CHILDREN'S THEATER TO PRODUCE PLAYS

"The Little Princess" To Be Given at Temple Saturday Afternoon.

It will be welcome news to a great many of theater goers that the children's theater will be opened Saturday afternoon with the play "The Little Princess" taken from Frances Hodgson Burnett's story of the same name. The story is of a little girl of the name of Sara Crewe. The life at a English boarding school is delightfully portrayed. A well-picked cast has been working hard to make this production the best yet put on in the Children's theater.

The play is in three acts. Any child or grown person who has read the story will want to attend the performance. The play has been directed by Miss Melba Bradshaw with the assistance of Mr. Herbert Yenne.

The cast includes: Sarah—Esther Marshall. Miss Minchin—Miriam Richardson. Becky—Grace Staton. Lottie—Emmy Lee Gregory. Lavina—Helen Burkett. Janet—Mary McCoy. Nora—Pauline Gallatly. Jessie—Olive Vatan. Lilly—Isabel Evans. Mazie—Ruth Schabb. Donald—Jimmie Harris. Ermengarde—Louise Cook. Amelia—Gladys Barling. Mrs. Carmichael—Frances Burt. Ram Dass—Kenneth Metcalf. Mr. Barrow—Reginald Boucher. Mr. Carrisford—William Norton. Emma—Ciceste Lech. Mr. Carmichael—Dan Nettleton.

ALL UNI PARTY COMES MARCH 18

Party to be Given in Armory One Week From Coming Saturday Evening.

An all-university dance, in response to a demand on the part of many students, will be given at the Armory on Saturday evening of next week, March 18, under the auspices of the all-university party committee.

The committee had planned that the last party given should finish the program for the entire year, but have decided that dances should be continued thru the second semester. Large crowds of university students have attended the dances this year. No program will be given at the remaining parties this year but one of the best of university orchestras has been secured to play for the dancing at the affairs.

An admission of 35c will be charged at the party on March 18. On account of the elaborate refreshments served at the last party, the committee found that expenses were greater than receipts and plans to charge the extra dime this time to make up for this loss. J. Wilbur Wolfe and Arnold Fouts have been appointed to take charge of the party and will handle the arrangements for the dancing, refreshments, checking facilities and other details.

Yesterday afternoon the university took both still and motion pictures of all the teams and members of the committee of the Nebraska high school basketball commission. Their pictures were taken in front of the social science building and about 2,000 people were included. A platform was erected for the better support of the camera.

Are College Girls In The West Going To Be Dressed Like Men?

What do you think of this idea, women dressing like men? Dear me, what is the world coming to, anyway? I think it is all well and good for these noble college deans to uphold the modern flapper and stand up for her by saying that she is no different from the old fashioned girl of long ago, and that she has originality as well as keenness and sharp insight to all affairs—but are these school officials going to tolerate the change in style that is slowly but surely coming into "vogue"?

In the east, college women have already shown their desire to adopt the new fashion. The campuses all over the east are spotted with girls in knickers. A skirt is getting to be a rather unique thing. Persons turn their heads to gaze at a co-ed who is so different that she persists in wearing a skirt. Heavens! Every one thought that after the long run of short skirts girls would become sensible and dress as they did in years gone by, at least, to the effect of lengthening their dresses. But it is going from bad to worse—knickers—of all things. They are shorter than the shortest skirt and not at all feminine.

They have been in the east quite a while and it was hoped that they would remain there, but "nothing doing," they have come west and have stopped for a while in Lincoln. Several of the shop windows are featuring sport suits with knickers in the place of skirts, and, so the stores tell us, they are taking very well.

Oh now, I must confess, they are clever, and a "cutie" little bobbed haired flapper does look mighty I say, very "chawming" in knickers. Oh yes, I speak from experience for today a young lady was leisurely strolling over to the teachers' college, and I saw knickers. I don't know whether she knew that I saw her or not—but we newspaper reporters—well, I hate to brag.

The little lady wore a cape of gray and under the cape was a pair of gray knickers which were almost concealed but which showed "coquettishly" when the cape flipped hither and thither. I just wonder, when the weather gets warmish whether she will discard the cape—hope so.

BIG SURPRISES IN FIRST ROUND OF GAMES IN CAGE TOURNAMENT

Lincoln High School Team Eliminated by Grand Island Quintet by 27-12 on Coliseum Floor in Wednesday Class A Battle.

HALF OF 226 TEAMS ENTERED IN STATE TOURNAMENT LOSE OUT IN GAMES ON MANY LINCOLN FLOORS

Another Upset in Class A When Omaha Commerce Defeats Central High School Lads—Handicapped by Loss of Their Star Guard—by 14-6 Score.

Visiting Teams, Attention!

All members of the visiting cage teams are cordially invited to attend a wrestling and boxing exhibition to be held at the Armory Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. Several matches between varsity grapplers will be conducted. Three bouts between University boxers will also be on the program.

The "dope bucket" was completely upset in the first round of the state basketball tournament yesterday when Grand Island walloped Lincoln, 27 to 12, in a one-sided game. Lincoln high's cagesters were expected by many to have little trouble in capturing first honors in the tournament but Grand Island, a team which had not won a game with a class A team all season, completely outclassed the much-touted Capital city flippers. Grand Island's tossers went into

PRIZE OFFERED FOR AN ESSAY ON CHINA

Admiral Tsai Ting-san Announces Contest on "International Justice for China."

A prize of $200 for the best essay on "International Justice for China" is being offered by Admiral Tsai Ting Kan to students in American colleges and universities. The contest is being conducted through "Asia," American Magazine of the Orient.

All undergraduate students of any nationality in all American colleges and universities are eligible for the prize. The essay must not exceed 2,500 words and must be typewritten on one side of the paper. Name, address, college, and endorsement of college registrar should be typewritten on a separate sheet of paper and attached to the manuscript. The envelope should be marked "Prize Essay Contest." Essays must reach the office of "Asia," 627 Lexington Ave., New York city, not later than May 15, 1922. Award of the prize will be announced in the August issue.

"Asia" will not be responsible for lost essays or for the return of those submitted.

Admiral Tsai Ting-san was one of the advisers of the Chinese delegation at the Washington conference. He was one of the first Chinese students to come to America in 1873 and is well known in the United States. He has long been prominent in Chinese affairs.

Judges of the contest are John Dewey, professor of philosophy, Columbia university, and lecturer on philosophy and education at Chinese government universities and educational associations; Robert McElroy, Edwards professor of American history, Princeton university, and first American exchange professor to China in 1916-1917; Paul S. Reinsch, American minister to China, 1913-1919 and present counselor to the Chinese government.

NEBRASKAN THANKED FOR EDDY PUBLICITY

A resolution, commending the Daily Nebraskan for the manner in which the publicity for the Sherwood Eddy meetings was handled by the daily, has been received from the religious workers' conference of the University of Nebraska.

A copy of the resolution received by the managing editor follows: "The Conference of Religious Workers at the university have requested us to say to you and through you to the staff of the Nebraskan, that they have noted with satisfaction the manner in which your daily handled the publicity for the Sherwood Eddy campaign. (Continued on page 4.)" the lead soon after the opening whistle sounded, and before the first period had ended, piled up a total of sixteen points to the Lincolmites' six. The second half was but a repetition of the first. The out-state cage artists ran their totals up to twenty-seven, while the Lincoln five had to be satisfied with six more points, bringing their total to twelve.

In the first game in class A, University Place, runners-up last year, defeated the Wahoo quintet, 13 to 12. The Wahoo cagers who had not lost a game this year, were unable to find themselves on the large court, and seemed to be somewhat handicapped by stage fright.

The second big upset in the dope came in the Omaha Central-Omaha Commerce game. The Central five had decisively defeated the Commerce quintet in Omaha last week, and were expected to win yesterday. The absence of Konecky, star guard of the Central team, was largely responsible to their defeat at the hands of the Commerce five by the score of 14 to 6.

In the remaining contests in class A, Sutton trimmed Fremont, 20 to 9; Beatrice lost to the South Omaha high, 29 to 14; the Geneva-Alliance game went to the Geneva five, 14 to 10; Creighton Prep. lost to Crete 16 to 7; and Hastings trimmed the Clay Center aggregation, nineteen to eight, in the final contest in the first round in the class A division.

Boys in Moving Pictures. The visiting basketballers rounded up in front of the university social science building early Thursday afternoon for a series of "movie" pictures. The Lincoln chamber of commerce will entertain half the teams at a Thursday evening banquet and repeat the feast Friday evening for the entertainment of the remaining half.

The class A contests, center of interest in tournament circles, will enter the second and third rounds Friday, the four second round games beginning at 1:30 p. m., at the coliseum, while the two semi-final contests are scheduled for the coliseum in the evening, starting at 8:20. Class B second round games are booked for Friday morning at the coliseum, while the B semi-finals are dated for Friday beginning at 7 p. m.

Following are the results of the first round of games:

CONSERVATION SURVEY IS PREPARING PICTURES

The conservation and survey division of the university is preparing a large number of photographs for the capital commission. These prints show the various interior and exterior views of the capitol building as designed by M. Goodhue.
