BASEBALL.

It is good to see the national pastime with us once more. The Cornhusker diamond artists have responded to Coach Dawson's initial call and were out yesterday on the greenward tossing around the old pill and limbering up stiff muscles and rusty joints. We looked at the fine gang of athletes and the thought at once came to us, "Spring is really here; it is baseball time."

One of the surest signs that winter is over and spring reigns again, is baseball. When the small boy drags out the old torn mitt and the ripped ball into the middle of the street and dodges all of the passing cars while chasing flies, you may know that spring is here.

It is a grand old game, the best of them all. It comes just at that time of the year when you need some such inspiration to keep the blood circulating. Baseball and springtime go hand in hand, and we bid them both a joyous welcome.

THE "RAG" FEED.

The Daily Nebraskan editors and reporters and business staff held their annual fun fest last night in Faculty hall. The entire staff was out for the gala carnival and merriment and good humor was at its highest pitch. Thoughts of copy and stories and assignments and advertisements were cast to the four winds for the brief period of two hours and everybody had a good time.

The "Ragger," the Daily Nebraskan scandal sheet, was on hand and carried a wallop for everyone. No one escaped its columns. This is the second year that the Ragger has appeared and in time it bids fair to rival the Evening Sun. Although its territory is more confined, its wallop is just as great.

The campus journalists indulged riotously last night. The order of the day was, "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy."

Contemporary Opinion

ABOUT THE CARDINAL SIN

John R. Mott, speaking at a convocation in Texas university students, recently declared that indifference is the cardinal sin of which a college can be guilty. Better by far cynicism than indifference, he said, for the great need of today is a need for thinkers, and if students are cynical, even though they are off the main road now, the truth will evidently reach them. But if they are characterized only by complacent indifference, even if they see what the truth is, what does it profit?

This indifference is not confined national problems which confront the present day college student. It is merely to the great national and inter-equally evident in questions and problems affecting institutions and organizations on the campus. Student government, the honor system, professionalism in athletics, campus social conditions, and supervision of student activities—all far under the latter category. Before a student can be expected to be agitated over world problems, he must display a more than passing interest in campus conditions which are not as they should be.

Is it logical to expect students in later life to pass sane judgments on world problems, but to prohibit them from learning through the school experience in their college days the tasks of self government? Why not allow them to grapple with principles and their applications in such matters as the honor system.—Daily Northwestern.

University Notices.

The Exhaust.

"I am all run down," said the clock. "We wonder if a clock ever gets 'spring fever.'"

It almost seems as if the Ag college campus has been moved here. With the iron fence around the quadrangle an admirable coral is formed, and maybe after while we will have some green grass.

Other Worlds Than Our Own.

OTHER WORLDS

University of California—Two years of undergraduate work will be required of men desiring to enter the University of Law School if the state legislature decides to follow the advice of the National Conference of Bar Associations.

Brigham Young University—The Freshmen here get a chance to give vent to their feelings through the medium of "Freshie Week." They even get a Freshman edition of the University paper.

University of Wisconsin—A branch office of the Central Intercollegiate Press Association was established in Boulder, Colorado, recently, to take care of the increased western membership. Four new states, Utah, New Mexico, Wyoming and Colorado comprise the new group. The Press Association was organized in Madison a year ago last April to interest the editors of high school papers in a higher education. Over 325 high school papers are represented in the association. Thirty-nine states and Newfoundland and Canada have been represented since the convention was held in Madison last fall.

State College of Washington—A local branch of the American Association of Cosmopolitan club organizations was recently formed at W. S. C.

University of Kansas—About one thousand tons of rock have been excavated from the quarry west of Administration Building for the construction of an Electrical Laboratory Extension. The removal of the rock from the quarry has been going on for about two and one-half months. Nearly all the buildings on the Hill were built of the rock mined from the local quarry, which is called Oregon limestone.

Iowa State—The Middle West Socety of Physical Education for Women will hold its annual conference here March 29th. Fifteen mid-western schools belong to the society.

Iowa University—The fourth annual conference of Latin teachers was held here March 10 and 11, and under the auspices of the Latin and Extension departments.

Grinnell College—The Girls Glee Club of Grinnell will start a spring tour of the state during the vacation period, March 31 to April 11.

Columbia University—The pre-engineers of Columbia have organized to foster good-fellowship, to promote a better understanding of engineering and to further the interests of the college.

IN THE VARIOUS BASEBALL CAMPS

SEQUIN, Texas, March 15.—Charley Robertson righthand pitcher obtained by the White Sox from Minneapolis, will get his chance to show his class against the Giants today in the third exhibition game of the season. It is expected that Jess Barnes, hero of the world's series, will start the game for the McGrawmen. Today's game will be the third of the spring series by the Sox and Giants. The Sox have a clean slate to date.

Speaker Has Day Off.

DALLALS, Texas, March 15.—With Tris Speaker, Cleveland chieftain, taking part in the Rudeo at Fort Worth today, the Indians worked out under the eyes of Jes Wood and Jack McAllister.

Reds Look Good to Railbirds.

MINERAL WELLS, Texas, March 15.—Pat Moran and his Cincinnati Red Legs are ready for a battle today with the Dallas Marines. Observers here still are insisting the Reds are stronger this year than they have been since the season they won the world's series.

Ruth Captain of Yankees.

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 15.—Appointment of "Babe" Ruth as captain of the Yankees and indefinite suspension of Bobby Roth, hard hitting outfielder, were announced in the Yankee camp.

Giants Do Some Slugging.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, March 15.—Home runs by George Kelly and Casey Stengel marked the exhibition game between the world champion Giants and the Second Engineers baseball team from Camp Travis, which the Giants won 18 to 1.

Rain Hoodoo Pursues Pirates.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 15.—Rain has kept the Pittsburgh Pirates inactive since their arrival here Sunday. Today they play their first full practice game. Catcher Walter Schmidt of Modesto, Cal., who is a holdout, was practically wiped off the slate today and some of the younger element will be tried out for the receiving end. The same goes for Outfielder Davis Robertson, also a holdout.

Mackmen Maul the Leather.

EAGLE PASS, Texas, March 15.—Heavy hitting was a feature of yesterday's game between Connie Mack's Hawks and Owls here. Frank Brazil led with four hits. The game was played in a sandstorm.

Second Base Worries Killefer.

CATALINA, Cal., March 15.—Second base is the chief worry of Manager Bill Killefer today. Zeb Terry, former second baseman, who has been playing well as third, may be assigned to the hot corner and Johnny Killefer shifted to the keystone sack.

"Flu" Hits Cardinal Camp.

ORANGE, Texas, March 15.—The "flu" epidemic is taking Dr. Johnny Lavan's mind off baseball. Ever since the "flu" began here the Cardinal shortstop has been prescribing for sufferers instead of concentrating on baseball.

Browns in Swatting Practice.

MOBILE, Ala., March 15.—His infield working smoothly, Manager Lee Fohl of the St. Louis Browns planned to give his outfielders a grueling session at the bat.

Professor Aylesworth judged a debate at Crete between Doane and Wesleyan on Wednesday night.
