SINGING

The enthusiastic reception accorded the plan of the alumni association of publishing fraternity songs in the second edition of the Nebraska Song Book is testimony of the lack of singing which has long been felt at Nebraska. For years singing has been neglected as one of the essential pastimes and the students are few who can sing more than one or two Cornhusker songs.

The issues of the song book which will come out this spring are to be sent to all the high schools of the state and will be one of the best means of advertising Nebraska than has ever been devised. Nebraska has some splendid songs and if prospective students learn these songs before coming to Nebraska they will have made one grand step toward making themselves excellent Nebraska boosters.

Support of the students in the coming campaign in behalf of the song book is necessary to make the book a success. Need of singing is an old story and the students should start now to remedy the situation. Fraternities should make it a point to have their new pledges especially and the active members as well learn as many Nebraska songs as possible. Singing is one of the finest spirit builders. Nebraska heads the list in every thing else and it should head it in singing.

SPRING PRACTICE

A scant thirty candidates for varsity football have so far reported for the spring gridiron practice following the call of Coach Dawson Tuesday. Barely enough men to make it possible to have scrimmage practice are working out in the battle ground.

Spring football is one of the most important training periods for a varsity candidate. If Nebraska is to have a winning football team next fall every man who ever bucked a line or who ever imagined he could play a hole in the opposition should be out every night during the spring practice period pounding away at the call and bid of the coach.

Students of Nebraska feel optimistic over the prospects of having a large part of the 1921 team back in the harness when the next football season rolls around. But unless these men get out and work this spring they will not be able to play their best in the coming string of hard battles.

Practice and practice only will make a winning aggregation for Nebraska. Coach Dawson is a great football mentor but he alone cannot make a team. He must have a large squad who are willing to work behind him and training as he tells them if he is to make a winning aggregation such as he turned out last season.

Contemporary Opinion

KICK WHEN YOU DON'T AGREE

Scene—any classroom. Time—any hour. Place—any university. Professor has just stated three or four important points—either his own opinions, or proven facts, or both.

"Now is that clear in the minds of everyone?" asks the professor. "Is there any doubt? Are there any questions?"

Not a stir. Smiles from some; snores from others. The class lacks ambition to raise its hands and object.

"I presume, then, that the matter is clear to all of you," says the professor, and goes on. The professor's assumption is only logical. The material appears in the next midterm examination, and half the class passes it. The other half wonders why it missed it. Professor wonders whether he taught it right. Result, disappointment and worry.

No professor is infallible. No student can understand everything. Education is not a process of taking notes mechanically, and firing them back. That's stenography. Education builds itself up by attention, and discussion. When a professor goes too fast, raise your hand. When he is not clear, raise your hand. When he says something you disagree with, raise your hand.

Kick when you don't agree with him. Argue with him. He is still open to enlightenment. So are you. He likes it. You ought to.—Ohio State Lantern.

Every member should avail himself of the opportunity to hear this address and to become familiar with the outline of events for engineers week.

Correction

The University calendar yesterday listed an Alpha Gamma Rho party for Friday. This was a mistake, as no such party has been scheduled.

eration between engineering societies and students, and lastly, to give the engineering students a good time.

The program for the week will be as follows: On Wednesday, April 26, a "pop" meeting will be held. Thursday, the Daily Nebraskan will be in the hands of the Engineers and composed of engineering news, and also a convocation will be held in the Temple, when a prominent engineer will speak and in the evening all the shops will be open for inspection by the public. On Friday, there will be a parade to the State Fair grounds where a ball game will be played and many athletic events and sports held. Friday night there will be a dance at the Rosewide. The week will end with a banquet at the Lincoln Hotel.

The Freshmen engineers will take charge of the workshops on Thursday night and all those wishing to volunteer their services may do so by handing in their names at the "U" Print office.

Dean O. J. Ferguson of the Engineering College spoke on "Phases of Electrical Engineering" for the remainder of the period. "Electrical Engineering can be divided into two main parts, namely: Technical and Economic," declared Dean Ferguson.

Under the heading of technical electric engineering there are the following branches: Lighting, Electric Railways, Electro-communication, Electricity and Agriculture, Transmission and distribution, Manufacture of electric power, etc., and under the heading of Economic Electrical engineering there are the Control of Public Utilities, Government ownership of Public Utilities, Public Utility monopoly, Cheap power, etc.

"The dependence that we put in electric lighting is getting greater and greater," stated Dean Ferguson in discussing some of the sub-topics listed above. There are many problems to solve in the use of electricity for lighting purposes. Not more than 3 per cent of the energy that comes from the fuel is given out as light, which means that 97 per cent of the energy is wasted as far as light is concerned, therefore economy of operation is of great importance. An electrical distribution system has to be kept alive all day even if only one or two lights are on. If an electric meter was placed at a power station and all the current flowing out was measured and the sum of all the customers' meters taken, they would only total 60 per cent of the power plant reading.

If the Electro-communication systems stopped for one week, business would be prostrated, there would be lack of fire protection, etc. There is one telephone to every eight persons in the United States, over eleven billion calls are made every year, averaging one hundred calls per person. If all the telephone poles in the United States were placed side by side they would form a stockade around New England, New York and Pennsylvania.

Research is a very important branch of electrical engineering. Several messages can be sent at one time from one antenna and received simultaneously by another antenna without confusion.

In closing, Dean Ferguson urged the Freshmen to help advertise Engineers week and take an active part in it, making it a great success.

Syracuse University—The Romance Language club held an extremely clever entertainment recently. The affair was an imitation of the original French Mardi Gras.
