ANNUAL GREETINGS

Theta Sigma Phi takes this opportunity, in its third annual edition of the Daily Nebraskan, to extend greetings to the University of Nebraska and wish everyone success for the coming year.

HERE'S THE REAL STUFF

The harsh criticism of the University that uninformed persons sometimes make declaring it does not produce the "real stuff" will meet a strong refutation in the Kosmet Klub production Monday afternoon and evening.

HOW IT GROWS!

How it grows! It is not age alone that causes the growth of the feeling of oneness in a university, the feeling that binds the students together and brings alumni back to see old friends, to wander along their favorite paths on the campus and fondly recall their college days.

ANOTHER GREEK

Another national fraternity is being installed at the University of Nebraska today. Zeta Beta Tau, national Jewish social fraternity, is establishing its Alpha Theta chapter here.

urged to wear a costume of the Mid-Victorian type. Everyone is looking forward to this unusual affair with great anticipation.

The sleeves are as large as a good sized balloon and the waist as tight as a sausage. The skirt, exaggerated by the bustle effect, is lined all the way up with crinoline.

This reception is not the only thing that is a feature of the occasion. The exhibit is going to last for three days and every evening something new will be offered.

Among the many unique things that will be on display is a hand-painted rolling pin. The women of the times apparently thought that a decorated pin would fly through the air better and hit the target square in the head.

The price of the exhibit is fifty cents and all the proceeds will go to the Russian Famine Relief. Lend your half dollars freely to the cause and at the same time enjoy a novel evening full of surprises and clever sights.

Employment Bureau For Women in Journalism Established

The newest and most progressive feature of Theta Sigma Phi is the Register which was organized by the National chapter with the support of the local chapters.

The employer who wishes applicants for vacant positions also may register here, telling the kind of work he has to offer.

When the position is obtained, a certain commission is given to the bureau. A very small one, merely enough to cover expenses.

Last year the Nebraska chapter of Theta Sigma Phi sent the Register money and the aim is to give them support whenever possible.

The highest type of opportunities are offered by the bureau. Several Nebraska girls have registered with them and have obtained interesting as well as lucrative positions.

The Register is becoming so well known that journalism firms from all over the United States are sending in a list of open places. They know that BAND CONCERTS ON THE CAMPUS In an attempt to increase the popularity of the city campus, the university band is planning a series of band concerts for every Wednesday evening from 7 to 8. These concerts will be given on the campus in an open air assembly. The first concert will be held next Wednesday evening north of the administration building. This concert will be given by the band alone. In the late concerts, it is expected to have the university quartet and glee club take part. The concerts are being sponsored by Gamma Lambda, band fraternity. They will last for one hour and are open to everyone who wishes to attend. The university band is recognized for the excellency of the music which it puts out and the Wednesday evening concerts should draw large audiences. The long twilight will help much to make the concerts more enjoyable and it is probable that the larger part of the university student body will attend the programs.

Dean Anson Marston of Iowa State College is to deliver the annual address at the Engineers' Convention at the Temple, 11 o'clock today. His subject is announced as "A General Discussion of Engineering Education."
