sota, 1913); Clifford L. Rein, attorney (Nebraska against Illinois, 1910; Minnesota, 1911.)

Prof. M. M. Fogg, president of the league, president, and before announcing the decision, remarked that in his judgment, it was a high-grade and a close debate, and he stated that one of the things the league is out to foster is the spirit of good sportsmanship. Sheldon Tefft, '22, law, '24, of Weeping Water (Nebraska teams against Iowa, 1921 and 1922), was timekeeper. The audience greeted with enthusiasm the scoring points of both teams.

The speakers for North Platte (champion of western district) who had defeated Wayne and Omaha Technical earlier in the tournament were Albert Shenk, Louis Breternitz, George Dent. The representative of University Place (champions of the east-central district), who had won from Beatrice and from Greeley) were Norris Chadderdon, Leslie Monk, Paul Schluntz.

In the lot-drawing at 10 o'clock Friday evening for sides Saturday morning in the championship debate, North Platte drew the affirmative, and Holdrege the negative, North Platte had the negative Thursday evening, and the affirmative both Friday morning and Friday evening. Holdrege maintained the negative of the closed shop question Thursday evening, the affirmative Friday morning.

The judges for the finals were George N. Foster, professor of law; J. E. LeRossignol, dean of the college of business administration and Prof. G. O. Virtue, professor of economics and finance of the University of Nebraska. Prof. Fogg presided.
