ONLY A DIME

For only a dime a student, Jack Best, Nebraska's Grand Old Man, can be sent on a wonderful vacation. For that amount Jimmy may be so improved in health that he can come back to Nebraska and continue to serve the Cornhuskers. Every student owes Jimmy many times that amount.

For more than a week the "N" club has had boxes located at various places on the campus, asking the students to contribute toward a fund for the "Grand Old Man." To date only enough to pay the railroad fare has been obtained and unless the students come across in the final appeal Jimmy may be without a vacation.

It is not a burden on anyone. It is perfectly voluntary for anyone who wishes to contribute to Jack's vacation. No fear that the persons who have been out for athletics will fail to respond to the appeal. It is the persons who do not go out for athletics who are slow to contribute. Yet, for an average contribution of a dime a student, Jimmy can have a wonderful vacation.

Jimmy has earned his vacation. There is no doubt of that. For more than thirty years Jimmy has yearly contributed much to the victories of Nebraska athletic teams. But for the "rub-downs" which he tendered to the tired gridiron and track performers, more than one victory might have been turned into defeat. Nebraska owes Jimmy a vacation and every student should do his part toward that vacation.

THE STADIUM STARTS

The first start on the new Memorial Stadium was made Wednesday when the members of the senior class were given the first opportunity to subscribe toward the structure. Raising of the money is the first step and the biggest step toward acquiring the new athletic stadium. After the seniors have subscribed their share of the new structure, the work on the stadium will be started and in all probability several of the football games next fall will be played on the new field.

Nebraska is very much in need of the new stadium. For years the Cornhusker school has tried to bring bigger and stronger teams to Nebraska to play but the small seating capacity has made it difficult to meet expenses on teams brought from far. Not until Nebraska is equipped with a structure capable of seating 25,000 people will the larger and better teams be brought to Nebraska. And when the larger and better games are secured, that is when Nebraska athletics will take a big jump and faster and faster Nebraska will be placed in the high place where it belongs.

It is impossible to imagine any senior who cannot feel that he is obligated to the university many times the sum of $25 asked. He is allowed to pay this in three installments and there should not be a member of the graduating class who does not sign the pledge. The sum asked is but a small per cent of the amount any student would have to pay as fees on entering most any other school in the country. On that basis alone, and not considering that Nebraska has given him an education for next to nothing, every senior is obligated to subscribe the $25 as an appreciation and a sign of faith in the Cornhusker school.

The Exhaust

The W. A. A.'s are trying their luck at the newspaper game. This issue is a monument to their progress and shows their skill is not limited to but one line, athletics. These powerful Kafinkas are brave. They will try anything once.

"The seniors have started it." We could believe that, but when we read that "the seniors have started it," we wonder who the other party to the scrap is.

We maintain that inter-frat feeling is pretty strong when they can't even have a baseball tournament without a casualty.

The girls' tennis tournament is coming along in its usual style. We hereby extend our heartiest condolences to the wretched Freshman who drew up against "Meach" Miller.

Unless something happens to give J. Pluvius a vacation, the picnics for the next two weeks will be automatically cancelled.
