GET A CORNHUSKER

The 1922 "Everybody's Cornhusker" goes on sale today. Every Husker student should take a copy home with him.

The book is as fine a salesman for Nebraska as we could wish for. Every phase of university life is brought out with words and pictures.

Not only will the book bring each possessor pleasure now, but in the years to come it will bring back happy remembrances of pleasant schooldays.

Perhaps, some of Nebraska's sons and daughters pictured here may be figures of national importance in world events. Who knows. There school day picture will be most interesting then.

EXIT THE NEBRASKAN

Another year has passed, and again the Daily Nebraskan says "Goodbye" to its readers.

It is with regret that they present their typewriters and for the last staff closes their desks and covers time goes to the gluepot to repair a tear in a sheet of paper hastily withdrawn from one of the machines.

The years has been a pleasant one for the members of the editorial staff. They have met many faculty members and students in their work and the associations, and friendships formed, have been profitable.

An experiment was tried the second semester—that of having a co-ed her work faithfully and well.

Staff members, however, are only human and many an interesting story has not been reported, or has been covered late. At all times, nevertheless, the staff has given everything in its power to make the paper one worthwhile to Nebraska students.

Every member of the staff joins in a "Farewell" and "may you all have a splendid summer."

THE SUMMER NEBRASKAN

Closely following upon the heels of the Daily Nebraskan comes the Summer Nebraskan. Three times a week during the two sessions of the Summer School this paper will be issued here at Nebraska.

Interesting items about Huskers athletes, personal mentions of winter students, as well as the important events of the summer months will be printed in its news columns.

A close touch may be kept with fellow students by subscribing to this paper. The price is fifty cents and subscriptions will be taken at all times in the Student Activities office.

IVY DAY

For the first time since the origination of the day, Ivy Day is not going to be celebrated in the middle of May a week or so before final examinations. The reason for this is Alumni Week. And the reason is a good one.

Nebraska Alumni, a thousand strong, will attend the big "Round-Up." The usual Ivy Day Ceremonies and circuses, parades, carnivals, organizations banquets—in fact all sorts of amusements are being used as bait to get the old grads back with us.

Ivy Day is a tradition that is firmly planted at Nebraska. It is a day of festivity, of friendship, and of joyful events.

Every loyal student should be in Lincoln for that day.

FAREWELL

School days for the year are now over; there remains but a few days of examinations until the term will have passed into history. The seniors will be alumni, and the freshmen will have graduated into the dignity of being sophomores. Soon one will have to delve into the archives of the past to find accounts of the graduation of the class of '22.

Perhaps some students experienced a pang of regret as they climbed to the third story back classroom for the last time to listen, or maybe to sleep, through a final lecture. If the individual did not mourn at saying farewell, the skies did for they have wept copiously for days.

No more is it a question of to dunk, or not to dunk. The deed is done and recorded indelibly—an ineffaceable record is credited to each in accordance with his deserts. For a few, final examinations may be the deciding straw, but that is a gamble with chance.

Now it is hail and farewell for "all things must change to something new and something strange; nothing that is can pause or stay."

PARENTS' RECEPTION All day, June 5th, Ellen Smith hall will be open to the mothers and the fathers who are visiting their sons and daughters. The particular guests, of course, will be the parents of the seniors who are to be graduated.

Members of the senior class will be on hand to welcome the parents and do everything possible to make them feel at home. A cool place to rest, comfortable chairs and couches in which to relax, and refreshments, will make it a real sort of a rest station for those who have become tired sometime during the day.

The one responsible for the plan certainly has started something that will bring many a happy moment to visiting parents during the course of the day.

STUDENTS CONTRIBUTE TO WILSON FOUNDATION FUND

Professor Stephen P. Duggan, chairman of the Educational Committee of the Woodrow Wilson foundation, announces that 5,000 students in 100 colleges in this country and abroad have contributed to the fund for establishing a series of annual rewards as a tribute to the ideals of the former president whose name the fund bears.

Princeton has designated one day, during which about fifty graduates subscribed to the fund. It is the plan to raise $1,000,000 by subscription. Cleveland H. Dodge, a classmate of the ex-president, is the Chairman of the committee.

Nebraska students have responded to the call for funds. The organizations have not yet reported their amounts, and no definite report can as yet be given.
