START REGISTERING FOR NEXT SESSION

First Term Students Should File Enrollment For Second Six Weeks With Reed Before Monday—General Registration to be Held in the Armory on July 11 and 12—Full Course of Study is Being Offered.

Registration for the second session of the summer school has started. Students of the first term should file their courses of study for the next session with Professor A. A. Reed, director of the summer school, in room 108 Social Science building as soon as possible. If not notified before July 11, this registration will be regarded as official.

Following the filing of the registration blanks with Prof. Reed, the courses will be checked and approved by his office. If no errors in registration are found, the enrollment will be considered official and students will report to their classes at the opening of the second term. Laboratory fees must be paid at the bursar's office July 11 or 12.

Students not attending the first session of the summer school may register in the armory on July 11 and 12, from 9 to 12 o'clock in the mornings and from 2 to 5 o'clock in the afternoons.

A full course of study is being offered the second sessions. Most of the courses are continuations of the first session classes. Courses designed for school teachers are especially prevalent.

A heavy registration for the second session is expected. A large number of the first term students are expected to continue in the second session while a number of students not in attendance for the first term will enroll for the second six weeks. The second summer session will end August 18.

Six hours of credit is the most that can be taken in the summer session.

Coaching classes will be conducted in the second session by Coach "Bill" Day. Classes in the theory and practice of football, basketball and track are being offered the second six weeks. These courses proved very popular among the first term students and it is expected that a large number of men will again register for the classes.

RECORDS BROKEN BY SUMMER ENROLLMENT

All records were broken by the enrollment of the summer session of the University of Wisconsin which opened last week.

Up to the fourth day of the session, 4,631 students had enrolled, as compared with 4,400 at the middle of the second week last summer, and the number was increasing each day.

As the early enrollment is almost 250 more than that of last year, it is expected that the final enrollment will exceed by several hundred the final total of 4,557 last summer.

The Wisconsin summer session ranked third in enrollment among the

Who's Who in the Faculty

DEAN WARREN A. SEAVEY

Warren A. Seavey, dean of the college of law, is a comparatively new member of the University of Nebraska. In his short stay here since 1919 when he succeeded Dean Hastings as head of the law school, Seavey has won a large circle of friends not only among students of the law school but among alumni of that college as well. He has done much to raise the standard of the Nebraska law college to a ranking well up with many of the best.

A graduate of Harvard college and law school, Seavey practiced in Boston until he was sent to China to reorganize the Pei Yang university law school. This is a school to train Chinese to be diplomats and judges. Dean Seavey was in charge of that school five years. On returning to the United States he lectured in pleading at the Harvard law school for a year. He then went to Oklahoma where he was two years. After a year at Tulane university, Seavey was made the de facto head of the school. He organized and edited the Southern Law Quarterly while at Tulane.

At the beginning of the world war Seavey attended the first officers training camp at Fort Benjamin Harrison. He gained a ranking as a captain of infantry. He was assigned to Camp Taylor where he remained until he shipped for France as commander of a battalion in August 1918. His division was used for replacements and he did not arrive at the front until after the signing of the armistice. When the A. E. F. university was opened at Beaune, Seavey was made director of the school of law. After returning to the United States, Seavey spent one year at Indiana university before accepting the position of dean of the college of law at the University of Nebraska.

Dean Seavey is the editor of case books in equity and agency. He is also author of articles published in the various law journals particularly concerning the subject of agency in which he is considered a national authority. He is chairman of the committee on agency in the American association of law schools. Seavey has contributed a number of valuable books to the law library on the law of torts and agency, several of which he is the author.

universities of the country last summer, exceeded only by Columbia and Chicago.

BUCK WILL LEAVE SOON FOR INDIA

Dean of Arts College to go to Baroda College in Exchange Professorship With Joshi

Dean Philo M. Buck of the college of arts and sciences will leave about July 18 or 20 for India where he will remain six months in an exchange professorship with S. L. Joshi of Baroda college, University of Bombay.

Prof. Joshi will be at the University of Nebraska from August 2 to 10 to give a series of lectures to summer school students. Following this series he will make headquarters at the University of Nebraska while touring the country in a lecture tour of other universities. He will probably return for a second series at Nebraska some time following the opening of the first semester of the regular school year.

Dean Buck will be at the India school until early in the spring when he will return to again take over his work as dean of the arts and science college.

The exchange professorship of Dean Buck with Prof. Joshi was arranged through the Carnegie foundation. Dean Buck spent a large part of his boyhood in India and has a perfect command of the language. His father was a Methodist missionary in India and Dean Buck attended the Philander Smith institute at Musoorie, India, from 1889 to 1893. He is one of the few professors in the United States who can command the Hindustan language.

Chancellor Avery favored the exchange professorship with Prof. Joshi strongly. Dean Buck is an excellent literary man and his writings have been given much recognition. His articles on conditions in would command a large reading public and this was one reason for urging the exchange. The fact that his parents are missionary in India gives Dean Buck an added opportunity for investigation while in that country.

200 CORRESPONDENCE LESSONS ARE MAILED

The extension division Wednesday mailed out more than two hundred lessons to students taking correspondence work through that department. University credit can be secured through these correspondence courses and many students have been taking advantage of the opportunity to gain extra credit without actual attendance at the university during the summer months.

CONTEST FOR "ROSE" COMES TO A CLOSE

Announcement of Winning Girls Will Be Made in the Tuesday Nebraskan Ten High Girls Will Receive Copies of Song—Must Have Ballots in Before Monday Evening—Cover Entirely Designed But For Picture.

Announcement of the "Cornhusker Rose" will be made next Tuesday in the Summer Nebraskan. The contest to decide the girl who shall adorn the cover of the new waltz sweetheart song closed Saturday and ballots which are not received by Monday evening cannot be counted toward the winner. The contest was conducted by Howard Adamson, composer of the song.

Besides the girl winning the contest, announcement will be made in the Tuesday Nebraskan of the ten girls receiving the most votes in the balloting. These ten high girls will be given free copies of the song.

The cover design for the song has been entirely completed. The only thing remaining before the frontispiece can be completed and sent to the publishers is to secure the picture of the winning girl. "The Cornhusker Rose" will be known Tuesday morning.

Much Interest in Contest

Much interest in the contest to decide the "Cornhusker Rose" has been aroused in Lincoln musical circles. An unusual interest in the contest has been created by the fact that this is the first time such a contest has ever been conducted to decide who shall adorn the cover of a popular musical selection. Decision to hold the contest was made when Adamson found himself "up a stump" to find the Nebraska girl whom he believed should have her picture on the front of the new piece.

The song has not yet been printed to music but several Lincoln dance orchestras have been playing it regularly for several weeks. The leaders have declared the new song a decided success and judging from the comments "The Cornhusker Rose" will be received enthusiastically.

Ballots have been coming in fast the fore part of this week and a heavy vote on the winning girl is expected. Each vote counts five points. All ballots should be sent to the contest editor of the Summer Nebraskan. They will then be turned over to Adamson who will in turn give them to the members of the judging committee.

FACULTY PICNIC IS HELD ON THE FOURTH

Members of the University of Nebraska faculty forgot the cares of the class room when they enjoyed a recreation picnic at Electric park on the Fourth of July. Some twenty members of the university teaching force were present. Lots of eats, together with a fine display of fireworks furnished spice for the day's program.
