

SEASON TICKET DRIVE TO OPEN EARLY MONDAY

Ticket Makes Actual Saving of Twenty-One Dollars on Admissions

ANNOUNCE COMMITTEE

First Three Days of Next Week to be Devoted to Campaign

If the average man were given an opportunity to get a dollar for every twenty-five cents he laid down on the table, he would jump at the chance.

Gate admissions to all of the activities covered in the student season athletic ticket amount to more than twenty-nine dollars. The ticket sells for seven dollars and a half. This means that the cost of three football games will pay for the entire book.

Are you going to miss your chance?

"Which college will be first to fill its allotted section of the student bleachers at the first football game?" That is the question asked by the chairman of the Student Season Athletic Ticket drive which will take the campus by storm the first three days of next week. Each college has scheduled a mass meeting Monday morning.

The executive committee in charge of the drive as announced this morning will be:

Ray Stryker, chairman. Robert Fenton Cratz, publicity. College chairmen: Agriculture, Floyd Reed and Arnold Fouts; Pharmacy, Joe Noh; Engineering, Ford Bling; Arts and Sciences, Pat Philbrick and David VanGulder; Business Administration, J. Wilbur Wolfe; Dental, Byron Arries; Law, Adolphe Wenke; Teachers, Mildred Hellingger.

The chairman in charge of each college will be assisted by two juniors who will each have charge of the work in the college for one day. Booths will be established in all colleges and a number of salesmen will be assigned to each booth every day. The work will be directed by Stryker in the headquarters booth which will be placed in front of U hall in the gymnasium.

The result of the competition among the various colleges to sell out their allotments for the student section of the football stands will be watched with interest. Less than two years ago the football stands were divided into college sections and each college adopted a headgear to help out its part of the stand. The allotment of space for each college has been worked out by the executive committee and each college will race to fill up its section.

Candidates for the positions of student manager will have an opportunity to try out during the campaign, for their work will be watched in the sale of the tickets. Many applications have been received at the athletic office and each applicant will be assigned to a place on the campus for the sale of the pastebards.

Good value for the investment is more than apparent in the price of the 1922 Season Athletic Tickets. The total value of the book has been computed at $29.50 which does not include the privileges of the tennis courts which are included in the season ticket. The entire book for sale at the price of seven dollars and a half makes an offer so lucrative that no Cornhusker student with any school spirit can afford to pass up the purchase.

Twenty-seven different events are covered by the 1922 season book. This averages about twenty-seven cents an event. If gate admissions to three football games are paid, the cost would be equal to the price of the season ticket. It has been admitted that most Cornhuskers are willing to pay twenty-five cents for the Notre Dame game, so therein lays the committee argument for the heavy sale of Student Season Athletic tickets.

Delta Sigma Delta Occupys New House

Delta Sigma Delta, professional dental fraternity, has moved from 495 North 25th street to 586 South 15th street. The new telephone number is B 6148.

RULES GOVERNING THE WEARING OF GREEN CAPS

Green caps must be worn by all first year men.

These caps will be worn at all times, whether or not students are upon the university campus.

The headgear may be discarded after the Olympics battle October 21, if the freshmen defeat the sophomores in the annual underclass battle.

October 7 at the South Dakota football game all first year men will sit in a section reserved for them and they must appear with their green caps or be penalized.

The Iron Sphinx will be in charge of the enforcement of the green cap rule, and all sophomore men are appointed as committees of one to see to the enforcement of the wearing of the green caps.

SPHINX ENDORSE 'WELCOME WEEK'

Sophomore Organization Approves Activities and Appoints Committees.

Absolute endorsement of everything that has been done in regard to freshman welcome week, appointment of committees for the first semester, resolutions to force the wearing of green caps by Nebraska freshmen and promise to work in the season athletic campaign, were important things accomplished by the Iron Sphinx at the first meeting of the year held at the Alpha Sigma Phi house. The next meeting will be held at the Pi Kappa Phi house September 28.

Late this summer the Iron Sphinx had a correspondence meeting and decided in favor of a plan for a freshman welcome. Plans have been going forward steadily since early August and the endorsement of the plan Tuesday evening was merely a formality.

Committees appointed follow: Initiation—Al Barrett, chairman; Noel Rorby, J. Hinman. Social—Armin West chairman; F. J. Boucher, Giles Henkle. Activities—Monroe Gleason, chairman; Ben Thompson, Alfred Peterson.

Publicity—Philip Lewis, chairman; Preston Gist, Wendell Berge. Olympic—Marion Harlan, chairman; George Carpenter, George Scott.

Acting on the suggestion of the innocents and in an effort to fill a long felt need, the Iron Sphinx passed a resolution favoring strict penalty and punishment for all freshmen who appear on the Nebraska campus or streets at any time during the day after next Thursday without wearing their green caps. The innocents gave the Sphinx absolute authority to force the "wearing of the green."

Ray Stryker of the season ticket selling committee asked the Sphinx to back the campaign and that each man be a member of the selling committee.

Chauncey Nelson for the innocents asked the Sphinx to enforce the wearing of the green caps and to be prepared to work toward the stadium drive, help on which they will be asked. He also told the Sphinx of many things they will be able to accomplish during the year.

A committee of three, Art Latta, chairman; Charles Adams and Wendell Berge, was appointed to find out about men who are not returning to school and to select a few men from whom a non-fraternity man will be selected.

Philip Robinson, chairman; Paul Stitzel and Martin Vossler, were appointed to see Dean Dawson as to what punishment the Sphinx may inflict on freshmen not wearing their green caps.

"Welcome Week" The freshman welcome week which has been endorsed by Chancellor Avery, Dean Dawson, Harold Holtz, alumni secretary, and members of innocents, calls for a celebration to last an entire week.

The barbecue on Friday evening is the big feature of the week. Races on Monday and Tuesday for the sophomores and freshmen respectively, are scheduled to start off the big (Continued on Page 4.)

CHEER LEADERS

Men students who wish to try out for cheer leaders at football games report at the east end of the Armory at 2:00 sharp Saturday. Director Dawson urges that each organization send out at least one representative.

HOW WOULD YOU LIKE TO PLAY AGAINST THE NOTRE DAME TEAM?

Every red-blooded Nebraskan would give a great deal to be on the football field battling for the Cardinal and the Cream against our old rival Notre Dame. It is possible for only a few of the five thousand Nebraskans to be on the field when the mighty Husker football machine will attempt to crash through the stone-wall line of the Fighting Irish Team in the battle next Thanksgiving day.

Day after day for months the Cornhusker gridsters will prepare for the contest which will be the center of attention among sport enthusiasts all over the United States. Eleven giants will take their place in the field against Nebraska's formidable opponent and when the final whistle blows Nebraska will be proud of her fighters.

It is not possible for each of Nebraska's student body to play football for Nebraska that day, but it is possible for each and every one of the five thousand to be there cheering the men who will bring honor to our university.

Last Thanksgiving one of Nebraska's line-men had his shoulder thrown out of place four times, but grittily he continued to fight for his university. This Thanksgiving every one of our men will be fighting with the same Husker spirit.

Every one of the Husker contests will be battles worth while. Every battle will have thrills that will bring the grandstand and the student-section to their feet many times. Are YOU going to be there cheering for your team when it is fighting Nebraska's battles?

Are YOU going to show those men who are giving the best they have for Nebraska that YOU are behind them? Are YOU going to back the team to the limit by buying a student ticket?

If YOU are a loyal Nebraskan, you will purchase a Student Athletic Ticket! Buy one Monday!

Secondly, Secondly, freshmen need help. In new surroundings, they sometimes are at a loss as to what they should do—an upper-classman is always eager to help and is on the look-out for freshmen that need assistance and a group cap is a sign by which the older students may know the younger ones.

In the third place, a school's spirit depends very greatly upon the number and the popularity of its traditions—the wearing of the green has become a tradition and each Husker student should see that his part of it is done.

Until the reasons for wearing the emerald headgear are explained, some freshmen look upon this tradition as a mark of shame rather than a thing they should be proud of. Nebraska is a great university in every way, and it should be with a great deal of pride that the class of 1926 don the green caps.

The enforcement of the green-cap rule is in the hands of the Iron Sphinx-Sophomore Class society—and last night they completed plans through which they intended to see that one of Nebraska's traditions be as rigidly lived up to this year as it has in the past.

TO ENFORCE WEARING OF FROSH CAPS

Emerald Headgear Intended to Promote Unity Among Freshmen. IS HUSKER TRADITION

To Decide at Olympics If Caps Are to Be Worn All Winter.

Monday morning, September 18, and continuing September 19 and 20, the Magee Clothing company, 12th and O streets, will distribute free of charge green caps to all first-year men. For several years this company has made it a practice to furnish these caps to the yearlings.

By Thursday morning, September 21, every freshman at the University of Nebraska will be expected to have a green cap, and to wear it at all times until notified by the school authorities, unless, of course, the yearlings are victorious in the annual freshman-sophomore fight to be held the morning of Homecoming Day—October 21.

A Nebraska Tradition For many years it has been a tradition for the first year men at the University of Nebraska to wear green caps. To the uninitiated this may seem a hardship, but rather than a thoughtless hazing stunt, it was originated for several reasons.

In the first place the yearlings of today will be thrown together, more or less during their four-year stay at Nebraska. It is essential that they become acquainted with each other that a strong feeling of friendship be established among them so that when they are upper-classmen, they will have the right kind of Nebraska spirit, and in the best manner possible promote enterprises for the good of the Cornhusker school. The bond of friendship established through wearing the green, makes it possible to create real spirit in the freshman class.

Freshmen Attend Big Stag Party

The Freshmen Stag meeting held Wednesday evening in the Y. M. C. A. club rooms furnished a varied assortment of entertainment to over 125 men that were present. Relay games of all kinds were played under the direction of the new Y. M. secretary, R. M. McCaffrey. Apples and popcorn were served, followed by a grand pillow fight.

The second stag held Thursday evening was attended not only by all freshmen, but by numerous sophomores and some upper classmen as well. The meeting was full of life from beginning to end, the main feature of the evening being a moving picture showing college life at various colleges in the country.

Try to Locate Non-Graduates

A campaign to locate about twenty thousand non-graduates of the University of Nebraska is being conducted by the alumni association. A list of ex-students has been sent to a correspondent in the town from which these students entered university. The Nebraska press association and the newspapers of the state are co-operating with the alumni association in this campaign. As soon as the address of an ex-student is discovered it is placed on file in the alumni office. A fairly complete record of graduates has been kept by the alumni office, but up to date no effort has been made to keep track of the non-graduates.

FUNDS READY FOR EMERGENCY LOAN

No Applications Yet Filed For Loans to Students From Money Provided

Applications have not been made so far this semester by University of Nebraska students for loans from the funds set aside for those who need to borrow money to complete their education, according to L. E. Gunderson, the bursar, who has charge of the money.

The amount loaned to any one student is limited to $100 per semester, except in extraordinary cases. Notes are given for the sums borrowed. They bear 6 per cent interest, payable annually. Notes fall due two years after the students are graduated or leave school.

Juniors, and seniors are given preference in awarding the loans. Only students in actual need of assistance may receive the loans, and they must have been in residence at least one academic year. Determining factors in granting the loans are the applicant's moral, character, habits, industry and success in scholarship.

The classes of 1896, 1900 and 1901 raised funds at their twentieth anniversary celebrations, which now are available to needy students.

Funds for Women

Women students in need of help can secure loans from a fund maintained by the Women's Self Government association. The Jeanette Nelson fund, $300, one of the more recent loans, is available to women who have attended the university one year.

A loan open to all students in the University has been opened by John R. Webster of Omaha. The Dr. J. F. Stevens loan fund is also open to all students of all colleges.

Agricultural and home economics students may apply for the Greater Omaha Agricultural Student Aid fund. It is contributed by the business men of Omaha and includes approximately $2000.

Engineering students are in line for aid for three funds. Dr. John Alexander Low Waddell of Kansas City and William Gunn Whitmore of Lincoln both have started funds recently for the use of engineers. The A. E. Carter loan fund, of $500, for engineers only, has been donated by Mrs. Ida Carter of New York City in honor of her husband, a graduate of the College of Engineering.

SUBSCRIPTIONS STILL TAKEN FOR DAILY 'RAG'

Goal Set at Twenty-five Thousand Subscribers to Husker Daily

STUDENTS ARE TAGGED

Free Delivery Service at Houses Where Twenty-five Subscribe

Booths are still open for Nebraskan subscriptions in the Social Science building, at the Library and in the Armory. The 2.50 mark has not yet been reached. It must be reached to support a seven-column paper. The business department has noticed a lack of interest on the part of many students who seem to think that the Nebraskan is not an essential activity and that either it must run itself or that it need not run at all. The Nebraskan is the means of organization for a good share of the activities on the campus. No school that does not have an active school paper is able to keep its sports or social gatherings up to the proper standard. The management feels that in a school with over six thousand students, at least three thousand should lend support to the most important activity.

All the sororities and the Delian literary society are out after the ten and twenty dollar prizes which have been offered for the organization obtaining the largest number of subscribers. Every one of these expects to sign enough of its own members on the books to secure the free delivery service offered by the circulation manager. No individual prizes have been proposed.

Since a freshman was found last year about this time with three subscriptions to the paper and about to take out another from one of the freshmen, it has been decided to tag all who have signed up, to protect the reading public of the university from fast agents who have their eyes on the prizes.

The management is showing its magnificent frame of mind by trying to sell subscriptions for both semesters. It is offering the Rag for the two terms for fifty cents less than the regular price, and the agents over the campus are out to get a year's subscription out of every one who wishes to wear an N tag.

Free delivery service will be continued by the circulation manager so that every organization and house which can boast of twenty-five or more subscribers will have the papers delivered at its door before breakfast every morning. Most of the houses, however, will be expected to be hundred per cent subscribed.

A morgue full of students and faculty members was established in the first edition of the paper Thursday and will be continued for some time. The size of the Thursday paper will also be continued, providing the three thousand subscriptions come in.

W. H. RILEY

Mr. Riley is the new Congregational student pastor, taking the place of Dr. D. E. Thomas who resigned to accept the position of student pastor of the Congregational churches at the University of Missouri. Dr. Riley is now planning for the student receptions at the Congregational churches, Friday evening of next week.

FOUR SCHOLARSHIPS FOR BIZAD COLLEGE

Lincoln People Donate Graduate Scholarships to University Students

Through the nucleus of a group of graduate students formed this summer by the donation of four graduate scholarships from prominent Lincoln people to the college of Business Administration of the University of Nebraska, it is hoped by the college to perfect an organization which will eventually make valuable studies of the economic life of this state and the Missouri valley.

The scholarships are for research work in economics and commerce and amount to $500 each. The donors are H. E. Sidles, William Gold, O. J. Fee, Miller and Paine, and Mrs. C. H. Ridge, whose scholarship was in memory of C. H. Ridge. Members of the 1922 class selected to receive the scholarships were Miss Nancy V. Penoyer, Joseph G. Knapp, Robert P. Esauwood, Clifford D. Spangler and one other whose name has not yet been announced.

What these gifts will mean to the bureau of business research is indicated by the following statement from the director of the department, Dr. F. E. Wolf.

Research work in applied economics for the coming year has bright prospects. The scholars appointed themselves particularly to research under faculty direction. Among the topics which will probably be first studied are: The causes of bank failures in Nebraska in recent years; the number and rate of failures in different branches of the retail trade; costs of operating various types of retail stores; production and delivery costs in different lines of business, such as laundry and printing; the relation of Nebraska to the proposed development of the Great-Lake-St. Lawrence waterway, and taxation in its business aspects.

The committee on business research will continue to publish bulletins on economic problems. In the fall it expects to issue a report giving an analysis of operating expenses in Nebraska grocery stores for 1921. Similar analyses for shoe stores and general stores are planned.

Chancellor Samuel Avery made the following statement with regard to the gifts of scholarships:

Bizad College Young "Excepting dentistry, the college of business administration is the youngest major division of the university. The legislative action which erected the school of commerce into a college of business administration has had a very stimulating effect on the growth and standing of the university, and the college, though young, under the wise and vigorous leadership of Dean LeRoessignol and the faculty, has had a truly remarkable development. The general administration of the university has been wholly in sympathy with this development from the beginning and has helped in every way possible in justice to the other interests of the university.

"With this background, I am especially delighted that the dean and his associates have secured from business men scholarships to be used in business research. The value of these scholarships I believe will be shown in the following different ways:

"The business men furnishing the funds will be entirely reimbursed through the value of the reports and investigations made and the public will gain thereby.

ALL-UNIVERSITY RECEPTION TO BE GIVEN BY AVERY

Annual Entertainment of Students and Faculty by Chancellor Saturday

FOURTEENTH RECEPTION

Art Gallery to be Scene of Historic Social Event of University

Chancellor and Mrs. Avery will entertain at the chancellor's annual reception Saturday evening from 8 to 10:30 in Art Hall on the second floor of the library. It is an all-university affair, and a general invitation is extended to all students and faculty members.

Dean and Mrs. Engberg and Professor LeRoessignol will greet the guests at the door. Miss Florence McGabe, the registrar, will introduce them to Chancellor and Mrs. Avery. The reception line of deans of the various colleges, with their wives has become too long of late years, so has been discarded.

Wives of the deans will sit at the refreshment tables during the evening, four at a time. The younger instructors and other young ladies will serve the ices and cakes among the guests.

One interesting feature of the reception this year is the art exhibit that is still in the gallery. The exhibit includes an interesting collection of pictures, that have been there about a month and will be in the hall until the twenty-eighth of September. Students and faculty at the reception will have a splendid opportunity to view the exhibit.

Between five hundred and eight hundred guests usually attend the reception, and it is expected that there will be at least that many present this year. The chancellor's reception—the oldest general assembly affair of the year, is a good place for old and new students to get acquainted with each other and with the faculty.

University Tradition The chancellor's reception is one of the traditions of the school and is as old as the University itself. This is the fourteenth annual reception at which Chancellor and Mrs. Avery have been host and hostess.

Years ago, at one of Chancellor and Mrs. Andrew's receptions in the art hall, all the lights went out, and the story is told of how people scurried around and brought in enough candles to light the place during the evening. Many of the professors went home with splashes of wax on their suits. One of the amusing sights in the hall that evening, people say who were there, was the figure of the dying Gaul holding a candle.

LOCAL CHURCHES INVITE STUDENTS

Friday Is the Date For All City Church Receptions For University Students

Receptions for the students of the university will be held Friday, September 22, in the various churches about the city. A letter has been sent to the new students of the Congregational church informing them of the activities of the coming year.

Receptions for students belonging to the Christian church will be held at the East Lincoln Christian church at the Tabernacle, and at the First Christian church.

The program for the event will be arranged by the pastors of the church. J. W. Hilton, Christian Student pastor, who may be found at his office in the Temple building will be present for a part of the evening at each of the foregoing churches.

Congregational student receptions will be held at Plymouth, Vine and First Congregational churches. "I am trying to establish a personal contact with the new students through these receptions," stated Walter H. Riley, Congregational student pastor.

A good program will be planned for the students of Methodist denomination at St. Paul, Grace, Trinity and Emmanuel churches. The program will be arranged by the student members at the various churches. According to H. P. Hestington, Methodist pastor, a large attendance has always been shown at these receptions, last year eight hundred to one thousand and attending.
