DAWSON BARS VISITORS FROM PRACTICE FIELD
 Stiff Workouts on the Program for Gridsters as They Go Into the Second Training Week
HARD WORK ON SCHEDULE
 Holes Left by Men Graduated Last Year Are Being Filled by Experienced Warriors
 The Cornhusker grid practice on Nebraska field was held behind locked gates for the first time yesterday afternoon. Head Coach Dawson declared that from now on the workouts will be secret, and that spectators will not be admitted to the field. The molekin artists went through a stiff workout yesterday, Coach Dawson limiting the practice to continuous plugging at the fundamentals of the grid game. After a week of supervised practice, the men are beginning to get into football trim. Under Dawson's watchful eye, the rough spots are being smoothed over, and the men are building up strength and endurance. The candidates were issued shoulder pads last night, and scrimmage may be held between elevens made up of Varsity men before the week is over. Captain Hartley is in excellent condition, and has been going good in the workouts. His passing has been accurate, and he has been kicking the ball down the field in long spiral drives for an average of forty yards. Lewellen's punting is better than ever, the former Lincoln High star driving the pigskin from forty-five to fifty-five yards on every kick. Adolph Wenke, tackle, and Eugene McAllister, end, are on the injured list. Wenke hurt his shoulder in the practice Wednesday, but is expected to be in first-class shape in a few days. McAllister injured his shoulder in the wrestling drill, and will probably be out for a week or two. "Terrible" Thomsen, 1920 letter man, promises to make a strong bid for a wing position this year. He is in fine shape, shows lots of fire in the workouts, and his snagging of forward passes is sensational. Klemke who was kept out of the game last year by injuries, is fighting for a wing berth, and is showing up well, as he is exceptionally fast on his feet. Leo Shorer, regular end last year, and "Andy" Schoepel, another letter man, are the other two leading candidates for end. These four huskies are playing the game of their lives, and it is a toss-up as to which two will make the first team. Coach Dawson is expected to have no little difficulty in plugging the holes left by the loss of Pucelik and Lyman. These men were a tower of strength on the Husker line, and they will be badly missed this year. Wenke is the most likely-looking candidate for one of the places, while a number of aspiring gridsters are expected to battle for the other place. "Vic" Halligan, captain of the 1914 Husker eleven, was assisting last night. Halligan was the lucky Husker who was given a place on Walter Camp's third all-American team the year following his graduation from school, an incident which clearly illustrates the inability of the Eastern critics to choose all-American teams. Coach Dawson plans to put the Huskers through a strenuous workout every day between now and October 7, the date of the South Dakota game. Reports from the Coyote camp indicate that they will be in excellent shape for the Nebraska contest, since they have been scrimmaging since the first week in September. The Nebraska contest is the big game on the Coyote schedule, and the Coyotes will bend every effort toward defeating the Scarlet and Cream eleven.

Grand total	109	21

So runs ye anient dope on the South Dakota-Nebraska games and those long row of zeroes under South Dakota makes things look rather dubious for them in their game the second Saturday after next, October 7th. Yea, verily, and Nebraska expects her gridsters to handle the South Dakotans as they did the Wesleyans last year, or maybe worse. In looking back over those games of long, long ago, we find Nebraska playing Lincoln high during the years 1899 to 1905. The high school never won, but the first year the University scored only six points. Nebraska's football history dates back to the year 1890, when two games—one with the Omaha Y. M. C. A., and the other with Doane—were scheduled. For the first six years, we averaged a little better than three games a year. After that, however, the schedule increased until during the years 1905 and 1906 eleven games were played each year. In 1909 a regulation was put into effect limiting the games to eight. There has been but one exception to that rule since then; in 1920 nine games were played. In the grand total of all the games of football that Nebraska has ever played, Nebraska has the score of 5,084 and opponents, 1,475.

MANY TEAMS START RECTANGLE BATTLES

Friday Will Set the Pigskin Rolling in Twenty-five Eastern and Southern Colleges

Twenty-five eastern and southern gridiron teams take the field today in the opening games of the 1922 season. Outside of high schools, and small normals, there have been no collegiate games scheduled for the day west of the Mississippi. Eastern rules, not as stringent as those of the Valley conference, in regard to season training, have permitted many of the squads to be on the practice field under the direction of the coaches for over a month. Missouri Valley teams will not take the field for two weeks, with the single exception of Grinnell. Parsons College journeys to Grinnell September 30, for their opening game. No other valley games have been scheduled either for the twenty-third, or thirtieth. The majority of Valley games will get under way the first Saturday in October.

Among the larger eastern and southern games in which interest will be centered tomorrow, as the curtain is lifted for the gridiron sport will be the Yale game with Bates, at New Haven. W. and J. meets Geneva, at Washington. Syracuse plays Hobart at home. Penn State will meet St. Bonaventure at State College, the U. S. Marines and New Hampshire, clash at Durham. Kalamazoo plays Defiance at home, Holy Cross and the Submarine Base eleven tangle at Worcester. Georgia and Newberry begin at Athens, and Centre starts the season at home against Carson-Newman. Indianapolis sees the opening game between Butler and Wilmington while Toledo will watch their team and Findlay mix.

An interesting game to watch will be the game between Syracuse and Hobart. Captain Frank Culver, playing center, and "Dutch" Heers, tackle, were the only linemen who reported when practice was begun at Camp Orange, the university practice field, on Oneida lake, two weeks ago. The Syracuse squad has plenty of coaches, but not a dearth of material from which to form its squad for Saturday. That goes, unless Coach "Chick" Meehan has done some phenomenal work with those thirty veterans, but not regulars, who reported for practice.
