FRESHMEN HEAR DEAN CANDY AT SECOND LECTURE

Acting Dean of Arts and Science College Explains Its Importance

TELLS OF DEVELOPMENT

Arts College Has Largest Enrollment and Is Oldest on Campus

The importance and purpose of the Arts and Science college were the subjects of the freshman lecture given Monday evening, by Acting Dean A. L. Candy.

"The Arts and Science college stands for training in thinking rather than training in acting," declared Dean Candy. "It stands for a liberal education."

The development of the modern Arts and Science college was described by the Dean. He told how in Rome and Greece students were instructed in rhetoric, logic, grammar, arithmetic, geometry, music and astronomy. In the middle ages the colleges of Europe began to develop, but the idea of a separate building or department for each subject of study originated in America.

Dean Candy pointed out that while there are ten thousand students in the ten colleges of the University, three thousand of these students in the Arts college. Out of the four hundred instructors in the ten colleges, two hundred belong in the Arts and Science college. To further emphasize the size of the college the dean explained that all the colleges in the school require their students to take some basic work in the Arts college.

Dean Candy divided the studies in the Arts college into four groups. The first group consisting of laboratory sciences, such as physics, botany, chemistry and zoology, gives the students information about the things around them.

"No student with a liberal education should be without an acquaintance with at least one of the laboratory sciences," Dean Candy stated.

The second group, the social sciences, is to acquaint the students with their fellowmen and their customs, habits and traditions. Philosophy and mathematics make up the third group. These subjects develop a logical mind. In making plain the importance of mathematics, Dean Candy told how Plato placed a sign over his school; in ancient Greece, saying, "Let no one enter here who is not acquainted with geometry." The languages make up the fourth group of studies. The languages have a cultural value, but above all they develop the power of self-expression. Dean Candy pointed out also that the study of languages develops a knowledge of one's native tongue.

"The Arts college," said Dean Candy in summing up its work, "gives information, trains the mind and develops the power of self-expression. It stands for ideas, for principles and for scholarship."

In closing the dean pointed out that while outside activities are valuable they are not really the things for which students come to school, and therefore should not be allowed to interfere with regular work.

"A student should be able to say after he is out of school," the dean concluded, "the things of the mind are the things I cherish."

BARRISTERS ELECT CLASS PRESIDENTS

Spirited Elections Mark Annual Choosing of Law Class Leaders Yesterday

In the class elections held at the law college yesterday, Tom Luby was chosen to lead the seniors. Joy Berquist was victorious in the presidential race of the juniors, and Harold Schaff is now the chief executive of the freshmen.

Tom Luby of Gilmer, Nebraska, took his A. B. degree at Hastings in 1919, coming to Lincoln soon after. He is a member of Phi Delta Phi, the John Marshall Club, and the law football team.

Joy Berquist of Lincoln has been quite as successful on the gridiron as in the classroom. He is a member of Bushnell Guild, Phi Delta Phi, and the "N" club.

Harold Schaff of David City was pledged to Phi Alpha Delta this year.

The Green Gobblins' initiation will be held Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock at the Phi Kappa Psi house. All Green Gobblins must be present.

Charles E. Cobbe Accepts President Office at Cotner

Chancellor Avery was present at the inauguration of Charles Elliott Cobbe as president of Cotner college of Bethany Tuesday. Mr. Cobbe was formerly pastor of the First Christian church of Omaha, and is a graduate from Cotner.

Mr. Cobbe in his speech of acceptance said that he realized the honor of this position, and the great responsibility attendant upon it. The great opportunity brought by the responsibility is to be found in the raw material presented by the student body. This student body forms a part of the coming generation, and will take its place in the world in responsible positions. He here referred to the positions held by other men who had graduated from Cotner.

MEMBERSHIP STILL OPEN FOR Y.M.C.A.

Students or Faculty May Fill Out Blanks and Take to Temple Building

Any student or faculty member desiring to identify himself with the University Y. M. C. A. may do so by filling out a membership blank and taking it to the Temple building. Over 2,400 letters have been mailed to students, but the ninety men who are coming to the campus for members will not be able to reach everyone. Anyone who has not been asked to join but who wishes to, should ask for a membership blank at the Y. M. C. A. office in the Temple.

The Y. M. C. A. is an organization of men of the University who desire the application of the principles of Christian religion to everyday problems. There are no membership dues. The association is organized on a straight service basis only, and everyone is invited to give whatever he can of his time to the club work.

The "Y" program is not an isolated series of events, according to its officers, but is a unified and progressive plan to develop Christian leadership and foster Christian faith.

Radio Club Has Broad Plans Ahead

With a membership of thirty, and having lost only one member by graduation, the Dartmouth radio association is entering its sixth year with prospects of enjoying the most active season since its foundation. The recent radio boom throughout the country has brought forth many technical innovations and a multitude of new enthusiasts, whose interest will be a great stimulus to the local organization.

Last spring the club's transmitting apparatus was perfected and a reliable working range of 500 miles attained. In some instances signals from the Dartmouth station, IYB, were heard from a distance of 1,000 miles. One of the chief problems before the association members this fall will be adapting the new types of receiving apparatus to relay work.

The club will increase its facilities to accommodate guests wishing to hear the radio phone programs. Last year a small number of guests were so entertained, but this fall it is planned to install a loud-speaker and suitable amplifying apparatus which will permit many more people to enjoy the concerts.

Numerous members of the club are licensed operators and will be available for the regular watches which the club intends to start within a week.

All men interested in radio, whether experienced or not, are urged to attend the first meeting of the Dartmouth radio association at 8 o'clock Friday evening in 204 Wilder.

INVITATION WEEK STARTED BY Y.W.

Entire Week Will Be Devoted to Y. W. C. A. Work by Members

NOT A MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

Candlelight Services Will Be Observed—Week Closes October 7

Invitation week for the University Y. W. C. A. was launched Tuesday and will continue for a week, with the annual candle-lighting service at vespers next Tuesday as the grand finale, to welcome new members.

Invitation week is not a membership campaign. Membership in the Y. W. C. A. is now on a purely personal basis. Sympathy with the purpose of the Y. W. C. A. is the only requirement for membership. There are no dues in connection. A financial campaign will come later in the month, the week of October 14.

The invitation week system of Y. W. C. A. membership is now followed in many of the larger universities and colleges. There has been an effort to establish it as the basis for membership in city organizations of the Y. W. C. A., but it has so far failed there. That issue was one of the most hotly-contested questions at the recent national convention of the Y. W. C. A.

A sincere desire to be affiliated with the Association, and a willingness to sign the pledge card, which bears the purpose of the organization, are the qualifications on which every girl in the university is invited to become a member of the Y. W. C. A. Church membership, denomination or creed are not considered, so long as the girl pledges herself to live up to the purpose.

The application for membership reads as follows:

"The Young Women's Christian Association of the University of Nebraska, affirming the Christian faith in God the Father; and in Jesus Christ, His only Son, our Lord and Savior; and in the Holy Spirit, the Revealer of Truth and Source of power of life and service; according to the teaching of the Holy Scriptures and the witness of the church, declares its purpose to be:

1. To lead students to faith in God through Jesus Christ.
2. To lead them to membership and service in the Christian church.
3. To promote their growth in Christian faith and character, especially through the study of the Bible.
4. To influence them to devote themselves, in united effort with all Christians, to making the will of Christ effective in human society, and to extending the Kingdom of God throughout the world.

I am in sympathy with the purpose of the Association as stated above, and, it is my purpose to live as a true follower of the Lord Jesus Christ.

Signed _____
Any women of the institution may be a member of the Association provided she makes the above declaration.

Attached to the application is an information card, which includes a choice of committees on which the girls may work.

Jeanette Cook, vice president of the Y. W. C. A. has charge of the invitation week. She has three subcommittee members, each of whom captains a team of workers. These workers will make the attempt to see every girl in the University, and will leave with each a membership card. The card is not to be filled out at once. It is the idea that each girl will keep her card and seriously think over the purpose and the meaning of membership. Members of the teams will return later and gather up the cards.

Student Directories Will Be Distributed

The student directories, two thousand of them, are expected to appear on the campus October 15. The books which were put in prominent places on the campus last year for those who had changed their addresses will be absent this year. The cards passed around in classes Monday for this purpose will take their place. All pupils who have changed their addresses since then are asked to report the change to the Y. M. C. A. headquarters in the Temple.

The work now being done on the directories is on the body containing addresses and affiliations. A number of organizations have not handed in the names of their members, and this is holding up the directory. It is desired that all organizations get in the names of their members immediately.

HONORARY COLONEL DRAWS LARGE VOTE

Annual Cadet Officers' Ball Scheduled for Dec. 8—Opens Formal Season

The election of the honorary colonel for the Nebraska division of the R. O. T. C. which was held yesterday in connection with the regular election of the four class presidents resulted in a total of 534 votes being cast. The names of seventy-eight of Nebraska's most popular girls in the junior and senior classes were turned in on the ballots.

The result of the election will remain a secret until the cadet officers' ball, which is scheduled for December 8, when the honorary colonel will be announced. The co-ed winning the honor will be presented with a new uniform by the military department, which she will wear at the ball.

The cadet officers' ball will mark the opening of the formal season for Nebraska's various organizations and is always considered one of the big University parties of the year. The judges counting the ballots in the honorary colonel contest report a very keen race between several of the girls and the result was in doubt until the last ballot had been counted.

Stock-Judging Team Takes Fourth Place at National Show

The College of Agriculture stock-judging team which judged at the National Swine Show at Peoria, Ill., Monday, took fourth place, according to a telegram received from Professor Savin, the coach. The placing of the six high teams are: Iowa, first; Ohio, second; Purdue, third; Nebraska, fourth; Illinois fifth; and Minnesota, sixth.

These same six teams are usually in the high places but their order is usually different. Nebraska will put in a strong bid for first place at the International Livestock show at Chicago in December.

Freshmen Girls Will Wear Green Buttons at Indiana

Freshmen co-eds at the University of Indiana must wear green buttons to distinguish them from the upper class women. For years the boys of the first year class have worn green caps, but this is the first year that the freshmen girls have been decorated. The ruling was made by the Women's Self-Government association and is expected to promote closer class organization among the first year students.—Indiana Daily Student.

AWGWAN WINNERS ANNOUNCED TODAY

Pi Beta Phi Sorority Wins Clock Offered by Comic Magazine

1050 SUBSCRIPTIONS SOLD

Awgwan Looks for Successful Year With Large Number of Subscriptions

Pi Beta Phi is awarded the grandfather's clock for securing the largest number of subscriptions to "Awgwan," Nebraska's comic monthly. The members of the sorority sold 244 subscriptions.

Don Huston, with 121 sales, Francis Sperry with 120, and P. M. Lewis, with 116, won the three free trips to Lawrence, to the Kansas-Nebraska game which is scheduled for November 11, Armistice day.

This is the eleventh year for Awgwan on the Nebraska campus. The magazine has acquired a national reputation by its successful years. This year, the campaign was under the management of Charles F. Adams. It was one of the largest as well as one of the most hotly-contested campaigns in the history of the magazine.

More than a thousand subscriptions have been turned in so far, but all the books are not in yet, so no definite numbers can be announced. "Awgwan's" campaign, says the manager, was unfortunately timed, in that it followed so closely upon the other drives—the Student Athletic and the Nebraska campaigns.

"Awgwan" is published by Sigma Delta Chi, national honorary journalistic fraternity. The editor this year is Orvin B. Gaston.

CAPTAINS APPOINTED FOR INVITATION WEEK

Large Number of Girls Named as Leaders—Jeanette Cook in Charge

Jeanette Cook, who has charge of the invitation week for the University Y. W. C. A. is being assisted by a staff of girls who are acting as captains for the various teams which are attempting to see every girl in the University. On account of changed addresses there will no doubt be some girls who will be missed. Miss Cook and Miss Appley, the association secretary urge the girls who are overlooked to go to the Y. W. C. A. office in Ellen Smith hall where they can get the application and purpose cards.

MISS APPLEBY TELLS OF EUROPEAN TRAVEL

Secretary University Y. W. C. A. Tells of Marvels of Europe at Vespers

The Passion Play, its characters, settings and its greatest scenes were discussed by Miss Erma Appley, secretary of the University Y. W. C. A. at vespers Tuesday afternoon at Ellen Smith Hall. Special music was furnished by Marvel Campbell who gave a cello solo. Dorothy Wholly presided.

"Europe is a very green country. I think, therefore more delightful to travel through than our middle west," began Miss Appley. "The curious little twists of the road revealing the little shrines about which you all have heard. So when we came to Oberammergau, it seemed very natural to see the cross on the mountain side above the village. It was symbolical that the religious life there reached a higher level than in other places."

"The village itself has about two thousand two hundred inhabitants. Fifteen hundred are in the play in some capacity. Oberammergau is about five centuries old. The passion play was started in the seventeenth century because of the deliverance of the village from the plague. Everything was so spick and span and so newly white-washed that I could not get away from the feeling that it was a movie town set up for the scene. It was all so very attractive. Every house had the name of the owner and his occupation above the door. The houses are built with niches above the door for paintings or pieces of statuary."

The men wore curious mountain dress of an ornate type, which Miss Appley described. They all wore their hair long, as no wigs were allowed in the play. She met the family of Anton Lange, who plays the part of Christ. The whole family speak excellent English. The second time she was in Oberammergau she stayed at the home of the aunt of the girl who plays the Virgin Mary.

"The play is largely given in the open air," said Miss Appley. "That is, the theatre has sides and roof but no end. A part of the stage is in the open and as it rains very often in the mountain country showers occasionally come up during the performance. This has no effect on the players apparently or even on the voices of the singers."

Miss Appley mentioned the fact that those who come to the village for the play are mostly American, English, Spanish and Italian. The value of German money has so depreciated that few Germans could afford to come for more than part of a day. They brought their own food—bread and cheese. The play was given three or four times a week and always on Sunday. The villagers went to church at six and to the play at eight.

The play was the middle conception of the life of Christ. The characters, costumes, and scenes were taken from the Italian painters.

Miss Appley quoted two criticisms from Rabbi Wise. She agrees with him that the play did not represent Christ as a product of a Jewish home, and his followers as Jews. She does not, however, agree with him that Jesus should be represented as a stern prophet of unrighteousness instead of the silent man in the play.

"The play did not in any way offend the sensibilities as I had thought the presentation of such sacred things by people might. It was so beautifully, so wonderfully done. The music was extraordinary," said Miss Appley.

Miss Appley felt that Judas was the greatest character in the play, and that second to him was Mary Magdalene, the Last Supper, and the scene in the garden seemed to her to be the greatest scenes. Miss Appley pointed out that Judas was not a villain.

Junior President
Leo V. Sherer	88
Sophomore President
Ward S. Kelley	132
Frank D. Scriven	38
Freshman President

With only 558 ballots cast, the lightest vote of years was cast in the election yesterday. Only one-fifth as many votes were cast as in the election last fall when 2,358 students voted.

An honorary colonel for the cadet regiment and five students from each college for the stadium committee were also selected. Although the votes for the stadium committee members have been counted, the results will not be announced until the names have been checked over to make sure that the men were elected in the colleges in which they are enrolled. Several candidates were nominated as representatives of colleges of which they were not members. The name of the junior or senior co-ed elected to the position of honorary colonel will not be announced until the military ball, December 8.

Robert L. Polk, newly-elected senior president, comes from Lincoln. Polk is an Arts and Science student and represents that college in the student council. He was a Green Goblin.

Leo V. Sherer, junior president, who had no opposition, has played two years on the Varsity football team. He was sales manager of the 1922 Cornhusker, and a member of the "N" club. He was elected on a platform which included the fostering of Nebraska traditions and the erection of a new stadium. He is a member of Phi Gamma Delta.

The sophomore president Ward S. Kelley, comes from Omaha Central high school. He is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, and of Iron Sphinx.

Fred Funke, freshman president, comes from Lincoln high school, where he was president of the student council and president of his class in his senior year. He is a Green Goblin. His platform includes the promotion of freshman participation in school affairs and the support of the new stadium by the freshman class.

No announcement of class committees will be made for several weeks. Class meetings for the election of minor officers will be held soon. Organization for the Olympics is expected to begin in the freshman and sophomore classes immediately.

The election was devoid of political excitement, since the action of the innocents and the Vikings in condemning political practices of former years did away with factional strife and party slates.

The voting places were in the carpenter's building north of U hall on the city campus, and in Dean Burnett's office on the Agricultural campus. The poles were open from nine to five. The election was in charge of the student council. The final returns for the class elections were tabulated about six o'clock Tuesday evening. There were separate ballots provided for each class, for the stadium committee, and for the honorary colonel. Election rules forbade the spending of money by candidates and electioneering near the polls.

Professor Wolcott Addresses Academy at Sioux City Iowa

Prof. Robert H. Wolcott of the department of Zoology went to Sioux City Tuesday afternoon to speak before the Sioux City Academy of Science and Letters Tuesday evening. His subject was "Animal Life in Nebraska."

The academy has a series of addresses along scientific lines every year, and well-known professional men and women from all over the country are invited to attend as speakers.
