LIBBY TO SPEAK AT CONVOCAION TODAY AT ELEVEN

Executive Secretary of the National Council for Reduction of Armaments Here

IN LINCOLN TWO DAYS

Has Varied Experience in European Affairs—Thinks Nations Should Co-operate

Frederick J. Libby, executive secretary of the National Council for Reduction of Armaments, will speak at convocation today at eleven o'clock at the Temple. Mr. Libby will be in Lincoln all Tuesday and Wednesday forenoon.

Mr. Libby was born in Richmond, Maine, grew up in that state, graduated from Bowdoin college and later from the Andover theological seminary. He received a two-year traveling fellowship and went to Europe where he studied one year at Oxford and one in the German universities, coming to know intimately the military phases of the German nation before the war.

After serving as pastor of the Union Congregational church of Magnolia, Massachusetts, for seven years, Mr. Libby visited and studied the countries in the region of the Pacific ocean—Japan, China, Australia, New Zealand, and the various smaller islands.

Following this trip, Mr. Libby taught for seven years in the Phillips Exeter academy in New Hampshire.

In 1918 he went to Europe with the Quaker relief committee, returning again after the war as its European commissioner for reconstruction, and worked in Germany, Poland, Austria, France and Serbia. During his work with the Quakers, Mr. Libby himself became a friend.

His varied and long European experience not only convinced him of the necessity for harmonious co-operation among the nations of the world but provided him with the best possible background for the work of the national council.

Entertain Graduates of McCook High

The McCook High School graduates attending the University of Nebraska were entertained by Dr. and Mrs. C. L. Fahnestock at their home on South Twenty-sixth street, Sunday afternoon, October 8. DeBaufre on Trip to Washington, D. C.

Professor W. L. DeBaufre, head of the department of Mechanical Engineering, left for a two weeks' trip to Washington last week. He will meet the other members of the committee on investigation of the methods of extraction of helium from natural gas. He was appointed by the navy department at Washington, where he is very well known. He took with him a set of plans for a water level gauge for measuring the level of liquids under high pressure. This apparatus is necessary in dealing with liquefied gases, whose levels, when the liquids are confined in tanks, cannot be taken from a direct gauge. Mr. DeBaufre's assistant in the work, G. V. Pickwell, spent several weeks in drawing the plans.

Mangold Wins the Box of Chocolates

Irene Mangold, Achoth, won the round box of chocolates offered by W. A. A. to the girl who should prove herself the best saleswoman. Miss Mangold sold candy, peanuts, apples and hamburgers at the South Dakota game, amounting to $54.25. Her nearest competitor, La Verne Brubaker, sold $45.85. "I could have sold more than that if we had had it," said Miss Mangold. "Everybody wanted candy and hamburgers long after they were gone. Apples were harder to sell. I guess it was too cold for them."

Howarth Has Good Team at McCook

Harry Howarth, "X" man in the class of '22, who is now teaching in McCook, writes in an interesting letter to friends in the old alma mater. "My team is getting along in good shape. We beat Benkelman 44-0 and Orleans 57-6, using the second team in the second half. I have only two letter men from last year so you can see they are quite green. We play North Platte this coming Friday and may get beat, as they outweigh us ten pounds to the man."

ANNUAL OLYMPIC BATTLE SET FOR LATE NEXT WEEK

Sophomores Planning to Take the Measure of Yearling Warriors in Minor Events

SPHINX NAME COMMITTEE

Extensive Preparations Being Made to Handle All Events in Record Time

Olympics come October 21. For years, the freshmen have carried off the honors in the class scrap held on homecoming day.

This year, if the powers that be in a physical way make it possible, the sophomores hope and pray to carry off the honors. They have not the slightest hope of winning in the pole-rush; they expect Ward Kelley to be pulled down from the top of the pole. But the second-year men are hoping and planning to carry off the points in the relay races, the boxing events, the wrestling events, and if by natural and physical strength it is possible, they hope to carry off the points in the can rush. Last year the freshmen won this event by a hair or rather by about one pair of hands and this year the men who fought for the honor last year hope to, by their experience, carry off the honors in this year's rush.

And toward this end the sophomores are working. The Iron Sphinx has plans laid for the sophomores tryouts. Kelley will soon appoint his Olympic committee. The Sphinx are sponsoring boxing and wrestling tryouts to be held Wednesday and relay tryouts to be held next Saturday. The wrestling and boxing tryouts will be held in the gymnasium. Many of the boxers and wrestlers who fought for the class of 1925 last year are in school again this year. These men are expected to try for another chance to uphold the honors of their class.

It is generally agreed the sophomores must organize if they are to beat the freshmen. It is an unheard-of thing, an almost inconceivable phenomenon for University students to think of the sophomores carrying off the Olympics. The Iron Sphinx and all the other men of the sophomore class are planning to organize now. They are planning such an effective organization that the class of 1926 cannot conquer it. They are organizing on the principle that team work will beat brute strength and overwhelming numbers.

Every fraternity is urged to see that its underclassmen attend the tryouts both Wednesday and Saturday. It is considered the duty of all second-year men to fight in the Olympics and only by getting the best men in the sophomore class will the sophomores win.

The members of the Iron Sphinx Olympic committee are Marion Harlan, chairman, George Scott and Gerald Carpenter.

Sophomore Class to Meet Next Thursday

There will be a meeting of the sophomore class in the Social Science Auditorium Thursday at 11 o'clock. Officers will be elected and the Olympics will be discussed.

The committee in charge of the Olympics is, George Scott, Marian Harlan and Gerald Carpenter. Other committees will be announced later.

A WARNING

The South Dakota game, long anticipated, is now passed. We had the long end of a 66-0 score. Our athletic horizon has cleared up a bit. In fact, we are beginning to feel a little optimistic about our future games. It is all right to feel optimistic to a certain degree, but we don't want to let our optimism get the better of us and cause us to "get the swelled head," and expect our teams to run up nothing but big scores.

The South Dakota team did not offer us as much resistance as we expected, but that does not mean that we will not get twice as much as we are expecting, from some of the others. Look at the games that are coming—K. U., Kansas Aggies, Ames, Oklahoma, Syracuse and Notre Dame. All of these teams know our style of play somewhat and have been "laying for us" over a year. They are going to try their very best to carry away the honors themselves, and it will be a hard job for us to prevent it. We don't want to look for big scores like the South Dakota one; we want to be satisfied with winning.

If it can only be remembered that every other school, and every other team is just as anxious to get the honors as we are, and that there is just as much honor in just winning as in "running away" with the game, we will be all right. We should always keep in mind "fight 'em, fight 'em, fight 'em," but keep out our over-confidence. We're in to do our best, and win if we can. Therefore, don't be "naxing" if we don't make big scores, and be happy that we can win.

Keep Close Tab On Frosh Caps

Freshmen must wear their green caps! Such is the decree handed down last week by the members of Iron Sphinx.

Friday a box was placed in U-hall with a sign telling all students who knew of freshmen not wearing emerald headgear to insert the names of the first-year men so violating Nebraska traditions in that box.

Monday afternoon, the sign on the box was missing and to the students who are not Sphinx, the wooden receptacle meant nothing.

But such action of a freshman or two is not to prevent the enforcement of the green cap tradition. Now a call is going forth to all loyal students to report to any member of the Iron Sphinx the names of freshmen who fail to wear their green caps.

Every fraternity has two Sphinx. Students knowing of freshmen violating rules of the school need but call the fraternities and inform one of the Sphinx there about the infringement. The Sphinx are anxious for students to do this. The innocents have put it up to them to enforce the green cap tradition. Dean of Men Dawson says "Do it by all means, but do not create hospital bills for me to pay." It is up to the Sphinx to obey the trust laid in them. Students should co-operate by helping them.

Green Goblins are also on the general University committee for the enforcement of the wearing of the green headgears. The Goblins should report to the Sphinx all freshmen who are not wearing the emerald headgears.

TWO SCHOLARSHIPS AWARDED TO WOMEN

Janet McLellan and Lillian Margolin Rewarded by A. A. of University Women

Janet McLellan and Lillian Margolin are the winners of the scholarships offered each year to sophomore and junior girls by the American Association of University Women, according to an announcement made yesterday by Miss Gertrude Jones, secretary of the Lincoln branch of that organization. Miss McLellan won the $100 scholarship and the second scholarship of $50 goes to Miss Margolin.

The awards are made on the basis of scholarship, outside activities, and the measure in which the girl is self-supporting. This is the first time that a $50 scholarship has been awarded. Applications for the scholarships are made in the spring. The awards are made the following fall.

Miss Margolin is a junior in the Arts and Science College. She comes from Omaha. Miss McLellan comes from Lincoln and is a junior in the College of Business Administration.

UNI PLAYERS ANNOUNCE PLAYS FOR THE SEASON

"The Thirteenth Chair" Is Title of the First Play of the Winter Season

BELIEVE IN SUPERSTITION

To Start Campaign for Sale of Season Tickets on Friday the Thirteenth

"The Thirteenth Chair" is announced as the opening play of University Players' 1922-23 season. This is the play which created such a stir in dramatic circles a few years ago and has been wonderfully successful in stock and road shows since then. The Players will give "The Thirteenth Chair," a full scenic production at the Temple theatre on October 26, 27 and 28, with an added performance as a matinee Saturday the 28th.

The Players will offer season tickets for sale this season as in previous years and the sale will commence on Friday, October 13. The ticket season tickets for night performances will be sold at the same price as last year—three dollars and fifty cents. The matinee tickets are to be offered as a special inducement to the students who it has been said are often unable to purchase the regular season tickets for the night performances. These matinee tickets will be worth two dollars and fifty cents, but in accordance with the earnest desire of the Players to get the students out to these splendid plays the management is offering them at a reduced price of two dollars.

Needless to say the real reason back of this movement to get the students out to these performances of the University Players is simply that particular branch of University activity into the position it justly deserves in the University life. The Players want the students and the students will enjoy the Players.

Owing to the fact that the executive dean has requested that the practice of offering prizes to those students or organizations who have heretofore engaged in contests in order to sell the tickets, be abandoned, the Players are unable this year to offer any material inducement to the ones who will be called to sell the tickets. In a way this will be a decided disadvantage, but the idea back of the executive dean's request is splendid. It is in a word, loyalty. Loyalty to the University and its organizations. If the proper spirit is shown, the tickets will be easily sold.

Aside from the point of loyalty and school spirit is the actual inducement offered in the plays themselves. The Players will open with a scenic production of Bayard Veiller's most exciting mystery drama, "The Thirteenth Chair." Theatersgoers will recall this play's being in Lincoln on tour a few years ago. From the reception accorded "Seven Keys to Baldpate" last season this play will be warmly received. The Players will follow up with "East Is West," that sensational success of three seasons ago, which made Fay Bainter a star. There have been dozens of people already asking concerning this play alone. Eugene O'Neill's "Beyond the Horizon" will come third in order, but not in importance. This is the first time that "East Is West" and "Beyond the Horizon" have been in Lincoln.

The fourth production will be "Turn to the Right," and nothing need be said of this play except that it is the same big success that played Lincoln two seasons ago. The next production will be one of James Barrie's—"Dear Brutus," and in securing this play for their patrons, the Players have indeed been most fortunate. This is the play in which William Gillette was starred in the season 1919-20. The Players will close their season with Shakespeare's "Merry Wives of Windsor." They will follow their usual practice of staging their Shakespearean production in a most elaborate manner.

Don't forget that the season tickets for the night and matinee performances of these six plays will go on sale on Friday the 13th. They will be sold at Ross P. Curtice's music store and the matinee tickets for students at the special reduced price, will be sold on the campus.

Freshman Commission Has Party Saturday

All freshmen girls are invited to attend a party given by the last year's freshmen commission on Saturday, October 14, at Ellen Smith Hall. It is considered their biggest party of the year, and may become a tradition established by the commission of 1921-22. Special preparations are being made to have it in the form of a carnival, with booths scattered around through the different rooms. The former members are very anxious to get acquainted with all the new ones, so they are urging freshmen girls to be present.

COMMITTEES FOR CAMPAIGN MEET FOR FIRST TIME

Ninety Thousand Dollars to Be Raised by Students Through Installment Pledges.

INDIVIDUAL QUOTA OF $25

Pledging of Funds to Begin Monday and Last Throughout the Week.

Ninety thousand dollars in one week—that is what the students of the University must pledge in order that Nebraska's Memorial Stadium may be a reality. Every student must make a pledge of at least $25 if that amount is to be raised. The pledges may be paid in five installments—the amount of the pledges may be as high as the individual student wishes.

One hundred members of the Stadium Builders' committee met Monday evening in the Temple building to complete preliminary plans for the campaign for funds to be held next week. The Stadium Building campaign will start Monday and run continuously almost night and day for the committee until Friday evening. The results of the week's activities will be announced to the crowds at the homecoming game October 21.

In starting off the meeting Monday evening, Harold F. Holz, alumni secretary, told of the plans for the new structure. He showed the members of the Stadium Building committee a drawing of the plans. He held how in order to realize on the Stadium the students must pledge $90,000, the city of Lincoln must pledge $150,000, the members of the University faculty must pledge $21,500, the city of Omaha must pledge $60,000, the rest of the state must pledge $7,000 and the amount outside of the state and in foreign countries must pledge an additional $55,000.

Students and Alumni Only
Students and alumni only are to be urged to pledge toward the new Memorial Stadium. The friends of the University will not be canvassed for funds although contributions from them will be accepted.

Nebraska is the next to the last school in the Missouri valley, according to Holz, to make some plans for a Memorial, for a student union or endowment of some kind. He explained that the physical plant at Nebraska has not been kept up. Nebraska will soon have to look elsewhere for funds. Within a few years it is hoped that millions of dollars in endowments will be available for the University. The state legislatures have been commonly slow to appropriate enough funds for state universities, he explained.

"If we fail in this undertaking, we don't know when we will be able to go to our alumni for the third time. Two years ago we started out to raise a million dollars and were caught in the business depression. We lost our nerve and quit. If we had kept on, I feel certain we would have had the Stadium today. It only means so much more work now."

Holz declared that in the two years he had never seen a school such as we have shown at Nebraska this year. He declared the students are of a higher type now. They are the type of students who will make the necessary sacrifice for the Stadium.

Holz declared that it was not necessarily because we can afford the $450,000 Stadium that we must raise this amount. It is because we appreciate what the state is giving us free. He praised the people of Nebraska who are willing to pay taxes that the 2 per cent of the high school graduates who seek higher education may be given the opportunity they seek.

Must Pledge 18,000 Units
In raising the $450,000, more than 18,000 units must be pledged. These units are valued at $25 each. They are in the form of notes, the first payment to be made at the time of making the pledge and the other four payments one for each of the following months until completely paid. The second payment does not, however, come due until six months after the Stadium contract is let. It is hoped that this will be let next January and that the 1923 Cornhuskers will be playing in the new structure.

At Illinois the quota per student
