Football. Football is an established sport in American colleges.

A masterful analysis of the psychology of football appeared in The Evening Day, New London, Conn., for October 28.

Whether it rains or whether it freezes, at risk of pains and chance of wheezes, defying rheumatisms and seats of cold stone, approximately 216,000 persons have been spending the afternoon of this day in the close proximity of four football games.

These 216,000 people did not go to see football games, per se, as they did to see themselves. It is the spectacle which furnishes the chief attraction.

The glories of football used to be exclusive. They were only won each year in two or three selected localities of the East, representing the prestige of the three colleges, Yale, Harvard and Princeton.

There is no American fame broader than football fame. President Harding would be a marked figure, of course, anywhere in the United States.

Now there is a similar movement on foot, yet not quite so drastic. It would cut down the extravagance of football patronage, diminish the monetary costs, and abolish the highly technical and somewhat sordid professional coaching system. But the movement will not succeed.

Allowing two feet for the parking space of each individual, 216,000 people could be seated in a single row a little less than nine miles long.

Are you finding joy in your job, or is it a bore, a drudge that you stink to because you think that you must?

Point of View. Are you finding joy in your job, or is it a bore, a drudge that you stink to because you think that you must?

All work cannot be pleasurable—such a state would be contrary to the whole scheme of things.

There is joy to be found in conquering obstacles, but that joy is defeated if, in the beginning, the task is begun as if it were distasteful.

If you know that the job that you are doing is your duty, learn to like it. Adjust your point of view until you have the proper light.

Peru to Have Roundup

By Carrol Lewis. Peru, (Special).—The local post is preparing for a big celebration on this coming Armistice day.

A huge parade, consisting of all ex-service men, school children, patriotic societies and bands will start the day at 11:30 in the morning.

A free barbecue will follow the parade. In the afternoon a round-up and frontier day scenes will occupy the visitors' time.

Men who have ridden years ago will tighten up their leather and do a little "scratching."

The dramatization of the early days will be followed by a patriotic sunset scene.

Cabinet Member Will Speak at Kansas Uni.

Henry Wallace, United States secretary of agriculture, will speak in the Kansas State Agricultural college auditorium at 10 o'clock in the morning, October 26.

Mr. Wallace will go from here to Junction City, where he is to speak at 1:30 on the same date.

The cabinet member has only a few speaking dates in Kansas, and Manhattan is fortunate in securing one of them.

Carl Sandburg To Speak at Indiana

Carl Sandburg, the Chicago poet, will give a recital of his poems and American folksongs Wednesday morning at convocation.

Sandburg is remembered here by the charm of his verses and his own personality when he appeared on the convocation platform two years ago.

From his books "Smoke and Steel," "Cornhuskers," and "Chicago Poems" the poet reads his boldly conceived and vividly expressed verses.

Playing an accompaniment on the guitar, he sings the American folksongs; how my man has done me wrong; the boll weevil; the blues-songs out of the working life of negroes, lumbermen, cowboys and railroad brakies.

Grinnell Glee Club Will Go To Chicago

The Mens Glee Club has completed negotiations which make it a member of the Intercollegiate Glee Clubs Association.

The contest held by that organization in 1923. The negotiations for entrance in this organization were carried on by Grinnell's representative, Mr. Archibald Cattell, a prominent Chicago lawyer and an old Grinnell man.

The Intercollegiate Glee Clubs Association is composed of practically all of the schools in the Big Ten together with Wabash, Milliken and Grinnell.

There are twelve members in all. The organization is incorporated for the purpose of improving the quality of Glee Club work throughout the more important universities and colleges of the middle west.

It is a prototype of an eastern organization known as the Allied Glee Clubs Association, which includes Yale, Harvard and other important eastern schools.

The Association plans to hold a contest each year in which each of its members will take part. The contest this year is to be held in Orchestra hall in Chicago.

The entire program is to be given in one evening and each glee club will sing three songs. One of these is to be the prize song which a committee selects and is the same for all clubs.

The other two may be selected by the individual clubs.
