A new city traffic ordinance, if enforced to the letter, would prevent students cutting across the corner of Twelfth and R. We may all be in jail before long.

Someone of the faculty has suggested that the legislature investigate the number of overworked professors.

John R. Webster, newly elected president of the Board of Regents, is strongly opposed to the numerous "drives" which are held on the campus. He recommends vigorous action to stop the campaigns which, he states, secure their proceeds from the pocketbooks of the parents rather than the students.

A single tax—a tax to be paid with the regular fees covering athletic and publication expense—would be a logical solution for this problem.

University Night, when faculty members and fellow-students are portrayed as others see them, comes three weeks from tomorrow night. Any group of students is eligible to hand in a skit for consideration to the committee. "The Shun," a scandal sheet put out by students, will make its appearance on University Night. Efforts to find a place large enough to accommodate the whole student body for the evening will remove the greatest objection to University Night in years past.

It is fitting that the body of Jack Best should lie in state on his little training table in the Armory today so that students will have an opportunity to pay a last silent tribute to the veteran trainer. In his corner in the basement of the Armory "Jimmie" has given his services to the University for the past thirty-four years. The Armory should be crowded as never before at the services at 3:30 today.

Nebraska Falls In Line at Last

Announcement of the limitation of profits of the Cornhusker, Nebraska's annual made by the Publication Board is one of the most important steps taken along that line in many years.

For a long time, our school has been almost the only one in the mid-die-west which has allowed the price of the annual to go from the pockets of the students, not altogether into the improvement of the book itself but in a great share into the pocket of the editor.

A commendable feature of the new move is the recognition of the services of the managing editor and the assistant business manager. In past years, these men who have had a large share in the success of the publication, have not been repaid for their time.

The result of the new plan can best be understood by taking an example of the way in which it will work out. If profits of the next year's annual are $3,000, let us say (for that is no less than past years), how will that be divided?

Each of the editors to be paid will receive their maximum share as follows:

- Editor, $500.00.
 - Business Manager, $500.00.
 - Managing Editor, $150.00.
 - Assistant Business Manager, $150.
- This makes a total of $1,300.00 which will go to student editors. The remaining $1,700.00 goes to the Student Publication Board. It will seem at a glance that the Publication Board does not expect this much profit—it asks only for the first $100. What is the result? We may expect the slashing of the price of the Cornhusker at least by $1.00 per copy. It does not take much imagination to see that more students will subscribe at the lowered price thus bringing about a more truly representative annual and perhaps still further lowering the cost through the increased value of advertising. The student body will hail with joy the action of the Board.

Notices

(Notices of general interest will be printed in this column for two consecutive days. Copy should be in the Nebraska office by five o'clock.)

All pictures for the 1923 Cornhusker should be taken by Dole the official photographer. Any picture from the 1922 annual may be used for the 1923 annual by taking the negative to Dole's and having a reprint made from it. February 5 is the final date for having photographs taken for the Cornhusker.

In the College World

It is the plan of the Pep Committee, according to the Colorado Silver and Gold, to add pep and spirit at the athletic games. Enthusiasm which was lacking is to be created by the singing of songs at chapel time accompanied by the college band.

A class in photography! Various Universities are extending their curricula but the newest course seems to have made its bow at the Oregon Agricultural College. A class in photography was first organized in 1920. Portraiture or commercial photography, color photography, commercial amateur finishing, and pictorial photography are now offered. The large registration in commercial photography gives some indication of the interest concerning its value after school days are over.

A course in wireless work, both theoretical and applied, will be given at Grinnell College next semester in the Physics department. It will require two hours of lecture and recitation per week, with one hour of actual laboratory work consisting of work with various circuits and setups. The prerequisites for this course are one year of college physics and a year and a half of mathematics.

STUDENT TOURS OF EUROPE ORGANIZED

lock in this county; careful selection of the personnel of the students groups, since their members will inevitably be regarded as representatives of America, and being representative, must represent the best in American studentship; the provision of instructors capable of interpreting the countries visited in a broad and sympathetic fashion. The Students' Tours have been organized to meet these conditions. As a necessary condition, they are, of course, entirely non-commercial in character.

The Students' Tours had their inception in 1921, when a group of 168 college students, drawn from 44 colleges and universities, went to Italy to represent American institutions of learning in the ceremonies commemorating the six-hundredth anniversary of the death of Dante. Sixty-six colleges and universities were represented in the Students' Tours of 1922.

"The International Student's Tours" are directed in their broader aspects by a Board of Advisers all of whose members are conspicuously P. Duggan, the Director of the Institute of International Education is the Chairman of the Board. The members are:

President Frank Aydelotte, American Secretary of the Rhodes Scholarship Trustees.

Dr. S. P. Capen, Director of the American Council on Education.

Mr. Paul Cravath, President of the Italy American Society.

Professor John W. Cunliffe, Secretary of the American University Union in Europe.

Dr. John H. Finley, Former Commissioner of Education of New York State.

Dean Virginia C. Gildersleeve, Chairman of the Committee on International Relations of the American Association of University Women.

Mr. Hamilton Holt, President of the American-Scandinavian Foundation.

Mr. William Fellowes Morgan, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Italy-America Society.

Mr. Frank D. Pavey, General Vice-President of the Federation de l'Alliance Francaise.

Hon. George W. Wickersham, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the English-Speaking Union.

The details of the administration will be handled on behalf of the Board of Advisers by Mr. Smith, 30 East 42d Street, New York City.
