The mighty Ames wrestling team came nearer to losing a match last night than was what may be called comfortable. The Iowa crew is rated as one of the best outfits in the United States and it is much to the credit of the Nebraska grapplers that the score was only 11 to 14 in favor of the Iowans. This is the first time that Ames has been scored on for two seasons and to top that record off they have not lost a match for almost a decade.

Nebraska started off with a swift match between Probst and Dickerson. The little Iowan was a little too much for Probst and the count went to Ames. Kellogg lost the second match only after he had fought gamely and broke hold after hold. Laucks threw him. Isaacson and Bowen, the Iowa captain, worked on the canvass for the allotted time but the Ames man had the advantage. Pickwell seemed to be a forerunner for what was coming. His work was enough to throw a scare into the Ames followers. However he lost to Sheppard by the route of a decision.

Things began to break loose in the Husker camp when Reed took the mat against Carrithers. The Nebraska matmen were not content with coming close to winning. They wanted falls. With a clever bunch of holds and plenty of initiative, Reed cut loose on the Iowan and won the decision. It was the beginning of the Scarlet and Cream fireworks.

Troutman, the Nebraska captain, took his place on the mat amidst outbursts of cheering from the Cornhusker rooters. His quick work in the Northwestern match made him the center of attraction for the evening's card. Four minutes and thirty seconds after time was called Troutman had his cousin looking at the rafters. The Nebraska captain was on the offensive all the time and swept Smith off his feet.

Renner climbed the ropes after a few seconds of instruction from Troutman. Followers of the sport may not know what the captain said but they may have noticed that Renner carried the work to Greer for the first few minutes, not unlike his captain had. The clever work that Renner displayed combined with his weight and aggressive ability, gave him the advantage from the start. At the end of the allotted twelve minutes the Iowan had an advantage of a few seconds but that was not enough to give him the match. According to the rules two extra periods must be wrestled. In the finals Renner won the decision.

Wrestling in the University of Nebraska should become one of the most popular sports in school in the estimation of Dr. R. G. Clapp, the Husker coach. With many more matches like this one there is little doubt but that the Cornhuskers will be heard of in the wrestling world. It will probably be some time before the Iowans forget the tough battle at Nebraska.

 Nebraska Comes Back Friday
 After Losing to Drake
 Thursday.

On the second jump of the Iowa trip Nebraska won from the Ames squad and boosted Cornhusker stook considerable. The first game of the journey cost the Huskers a game from the Drake Bulldogs. Iowa State was the victim of a Nebraska comeback Friday night, the Huskers winning 21 to 15. Grinnell still travels on the bottom of the Missouri Valley column since her defeat last night by the Cornhuskers.

The Drake game was an excellent exhibition of Husker fight, the Nebraskans were ahead most of the game but were unable to keep up the fast pace. Ames lead the Cornhuskers until the last few minutes of the game when a few new men were injected into the ranks and three baskets in a row put Nebraska ahead when the time was called. Grinnell was doped to lose. The Iowans have not won a game this season although many of the scores show that the Pioneers are not loafing. The Cornhusker squad will be home Sunday.

The Cornhuskers have been hovering around the halfway mark searching for an opportunity to break away and let the Valley know that they are alive and ready to hammer away at all opponents. Coach Frank has not found a combination yet that is able to follow the pace set by the title contenders. It is evident that there is much valuable material in the Husker camp, but it lacks the fine touches that win for Kansas, Missouri and Drake.

In the Missouri game the Huskers worked the ball down the floor time after time until they struck the Tiger defense, where the Nebraska offensive crumpled and the Missourians rushed in for a goal. The Sooners fell before Nebraska last week, making two out of four wins for the Cornhuskers.

Much of the material in the Nebraska squad is new and the time worn combinations are not to be found. Most of the men are sophomores. Russell being the only letter man from last year that is playing with the Cornhuskers. By the last of the season or next year Nebraska hopes to claim her place in the cage world.

The Tipton brothers have been consistent players on the Husker squad. Captain Warren is leading in the number of baskets. Scott, Volz, Usher and Klepser are working hard to help Nebraska snatch a few victories out of the maze of the round-robin tournament.

The season is still in its youth and Nebraska followers hold much hope for Nebraska in the Valley this year. Monte Munn, '22, is helping Coach Frank with the squad.

The next big game on the Cornhusker schedule is the Kansas game on February 2. The Jayhawkers have been breezing along rather unmercifully and it would be good tonic for the followers of the sport in this section of the country if Kansas was spilled when she meets the Huskers. Ames, Grinnell, and Washington will be here soon to try the ability of the Nebraskans.

 Finals of Inter-Fraternity Basketball Will Be Played This Week.

The second round of the interfraternity basketball tournament will be resumed Monday afternoon, the first game being between Beta Theta Pi and Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Monday, at 4 p. m. The games were called off in respect for Jack Best. Half of the second round had been played up to Tuesday afternoon.

Delta Upsilon had eliminated Pi Kappa Phi, Phi Gamma Delta beat Alpha Sigma Phi, Acacia won from Delta Sigma Delta, and Acacia beat Sigma Nu in the first half of the second round.

The last half will start Monday and probably will be finished Tuesday afternoon. The finals cannot be played until the last of the week.

The American Architect, in its January issue, says "It is good to dream and happy is the man whose life from time to time is graced with dreams. The work involved in the study of the problems encountered in the design of a building such as that demanded by a metropolitan newspaper, that it might be a monument to the journalistic profession, was not wasted, and even those competitors whose work did not get a mention, wrought well for their art and have advanced it in public estimation."
