

SAY:—

It will not be out of the way to call your attention to the special purchase sale which is now in session on Spring Coats. These coats are all wool, in materials of polo cloth and Scotch mixtures. A large number of college girls have already taken advantage of these prices of $10 and $15 for these garments as they have the foresight to know that Spring is soon here, and these coats will not be any cheaper even at the end of the season. If you are not able to pay the cash it will be very much O. K. for you to open a charge account and have it arranged so conveniently that you can easily pay out of your allowance. Your account is always welcome here, no matter where you came from or what you want. The same easy terms apply on jewelry as well as clothing.

Vacant.

Cornhusker tracksters put in a stiff workout yesterday afternoon on the boards in preparation for the preliminary tryouts for the Kansas City Athletic Club indoor meet next week, which will open the 1923 track season for the University of Nebraska track team, 1922 Missouri Valley champions. The cold weather slowed up the men considerably. However, the athletes reported in large numbers for the practice.

Competition in the events run this afternoon is expected to be keen. In addition to the large number of letter men who are contesting for berths on the team, there are an unusual large number of sophomores of outstanding track ability competing for places.

Coach Schulte, in his effort to fill the place left vacant by the loss of Herb Gish, is trying out about ten men in the hurdles. Among the aspirants are Gibbs, Broadwell, Crecelius, Dixie Smith, Crites, Metcalfe, and Myers. In Tuesday's workouts Myers and Crites each ran the 60-yard low hurdles in 6 and 4.5 seconds, while Crecelius and Timms, a freshman, stepped over the barriers in 7 seconds.

Ted Smith hung up a noteworthy mark Monday when he ran one lap around the circular track, approximately 147 yards, in 17 and 1.5 seconds. McAllister made the circuit in 18 and 1.5 seconds, and Morrison negotiated one lap in 18 and 4.5 seconds. In the mile run, 12 laps around the track, Sprague did credit to himself by covering the distance in 5:29. Rogers, who was close behind him, finished in 5:35.

Francis Diers ran the quarter in 62 and 1.5 seconds, while Cohen sprinted the same distance in 59 and 3.5 seconds. Big Parks and Myers did some work with the sixteen-pound shot.

Girls' Complexion
Comes in Boxes

Statistics gathered from a downtown druggist show that more rouge is now being sold in a day, than was sold in a year, ten years ago.

"About three or four years ago I used to keep two or three boxes and had three or four varieties in stock, and that would keep me going for months," the owner asserted. "Now I have over forty kinds, and have innumerable calls for it constantly. I sell less lipsticks now than I did two years ago, although the white stick is still in constant demand for cold cream purposes," he continued.

Auditorium dance Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays. New management; new policy; new prices and new ten-piece orchestra.

Work of Nebraska Artists Exhibited

The Annual Art Exhibit given by the Nebraska Art Association and School of Fine Arts was opened Monday night, February 5, and will continue until the February 24. There are a large number of paintings on exhibition many of which are by Nebraska artists. Miss Hermine Stellar, professor of drawing and painting, Mr. Anders Haugseth, instructor in art, Mrs. Alice Edmiston, Mrs. Clara W. Leland, and Miss Helen Wilson have paintings on exhibition.

The exhibit is in the Art Gallery on the second floor of the Library and is open from nine until twelve in the mornings and from seven until ten in the evenings, being closed in the afternoon due to classes. Talks in the gallery and musical programs are being planned.

Oregon Professor Rows
Fourteen Miles to Class

As a result of the recent flood in Corvallis, Oregon, Prof. Floyd W. Rowland, head of the department of chemical engineering at the Oregon Agricultural College, swam and rowed fourteen miles from his home to meet a class.

Professor Rowland had driven to his farm thru a heavy rain. Upon arising the next morning, he discovered his entire farm, with the exception of a few acres, to be flooded. Hastily constructing a raft, he poled it until it became hopelessly entangled in tree tops. Next he swam to get his boat, finally rowing fourteen miles to the college.

Planning complete standardization of the present disjointed system of financial and advertising affairs, R. B. Coons, '23, University of California, assumed responsibilities of the new office of A. S. U. C. publications manager yesterday.

Papers and magazines affected by his supervision and assistance in managerial, purchasing and advertising affairs are: the Daily Californian, Pelican, Occident, California Pictorial, Agricultural Journal, California Engineer, Commeria, Raspberry, and Dill Pickle.

Centralization of the purchasing power of these various journals is the primary aim of the publications manager. The smaller purchases of material of the various publications which have heretofore been made by each paper for its own use, will be done away with. Under the new plan of united action in buying and letting printing contracts on a larger scale more favorable purchases will be obtained and prices on materials lowered.

Confusion which has been felt in keeping the books of each publication individually promises to disappear under the new system which calls for the centralization of accounting of every campus publication. The books will be kept by the bookkeeper and auditor of the A. S. U. C.

Additional advantage of united action will be accomplished through the new system by securing closer relationships between the advertising departments of University journals and their patronizers. By attending the wants of the advertisers, assisting them with advertising copy, seeing that the advertisements are placed in what is adjudged the most suitable publication, it is believed that this end of the business will be stimulated.

The publications manager will have an office in the Accounting Department of the A. S. U. C. offices, where he will be in close touch with all campus publications. The office is situated on the mezzanine floor of Stephens hall.—Daily Californian.

A budget of $1,860,000 for the biennial appropriation to Penn State was announced by Governor Pinchot. This amount is twenty-two per cent less than that received for the appropriation for 1921-23 and is entirely inadequate if the present type of work is to be carried on.
