

POSTPONE STUDENT ELECTIONS ONE WEEK

Will Be Held February 20 Under Direction of Student Council.

Election of the four class presidents, three members of the Student Publication Board, and Ivy Day orator, will be held February 20, instead of February 13, as previously announced, according to a notice from the office of student activities Wednesday afternoon. Each of the three upper classes is represented on the Board by one member student.

Students may file at the student activities office for these positions any time before Thursday, February 15. The general election will be under the direction of the Student Council.

The Ivy Day orator is chosen each year from the senior class to deliver the address after the coronation of the Queen of the May. The members of the graduating class elect him to the position. Last year Kenneth McCandless delivered the Ivy Day oration.

History repeats itself. When dry land appeared, the dove didn't come back. And it hasn't been back since America went dry.

Correct this sentence: "Don't scold him," said the hostess, "it was an old vase and I don't care much for cut glass, anyway."
