

FIFTEEN FRATS TAKE TICKETS FOR FORMAL

Greeks Buying Allotted Number Will Have Pins and Emblems at Pan-Hel Party.

KOSMET KLUB IN CHARGE

"Underneath the Chinese Moon" to Be Feature of Party—Pianist Tryouts Soon.

Fifteen fraternities have taken their full allotment of tickets to the Pan-Hellenic formal, to be given at the Auditorium Friday night, according to a check-up at the Student Activities office at noon Saturday. Indications pointing toward a full representation from all Greek organizations at their annual frolic revived this year by the Kosmet Klub, were shown in the reports coming in from the houses.

A meeting of all the representatives of the fraternities will be held today at the Delta Tau Delta house to plan the booths for each fraternity and to locate the electric-lighted pins and crests of each organization as part of the elaborate lighting and decorating scheme of the formal. The decoration and planning of the separate fraternity sections of the dance hall is being handled by special representatives from the fraternities under the general direction of the Kosmet Klub.

Several of the fraternities that have sold their full quota of tickets are asking for more representation. It is probable that very few tickets will not be taken by the fraternities to whom they were allotted.

The number of tickets on sale for the party has been limited to two hundred. Any turn-backs from the organizations not sending in a full representation have been spoken for at the Student Activities office. Representatives have been urged to turn in their money as soon as possible so the final arrangements may be completed. The success of the formal is completely assured, reports the Kosmet Klub committee in charge of the ticket sale.

An allotment of two tickets for each fraternity may be sold to alumni, and, according to the fraternity representatives, a large number of the alumni will return for the party this week.

The Kosmet Klub committee in charge of the Greek gala-night reports everything ready for the production of the most elaborate party of the formal season. Music decorations and lighting effects have been carefully considered in the plans. Special flood lights for the orchestra and a softly lighted hall with gleaming fraternity crests and electric-lighted pins will form the major part of the setting. All of the finishing touches of a real formal, which will become again the most coveted tradition of Greek life on the campus, will be given to the party. The "Pan-Hel" was a tradition of pre-war Nebraska University life and the Kosmet Klub expects to continue the practice of sponsoring the party each year.

Featuring the program of the evening will be the playing of "Underneath the Chinese Moon" one of the cleverest of the song hits, written for the annual Kosmet Klub musical production this year. The song was written by C. L. Coombs and represents only one of the lively tunes incorporated in the "Yellow Lantern," the show selected for 1923.

Before February 25 the Kosmet Klub will hold a tryout for pianists to work with the Klub in the production of the "Yellow Lantern" this spring. Any sophomore, junior or senior girl or man will be eligible for the tryout. Mrs. Ruth Kadel Seacrest played for the Kosmet rehearsals during the practice for the Klub's productions of the last two years. Mrs. Seacrest now holds the honor of being the only woman who is an honorary member of the Kosmet Klub.

The University Radio Stations, which is broadcasting addresses and musical programs weekly, announces that on Wednesday evening, February 21, Miss Marjorie Shanefelt, assistant in the geology department, will give a harp recital. The program opens at 8:30 each Wednesday evening. The University station call is WFAV. Last Wednesday Prof. G. D. Swezey of the department of astronomy gave a general lecture on astronomy. The broadcasting is in charge of F. J. Moles.

AMERICAN STUDENTS TO VISIT IN ITALY

College Men and Instructors to Start Trip into Europe Next Summer.

Mr. Paul D. Cravath, president of the Italy America Society, announced today that a group of American college students and instructors is being organized to travel in Italy next summer under the joint auspices of the Italy American Society and the Institute of International Education. The announcement stated that the purpose of the undertaking is "to furnish an opportunity for American college and university students to study, under scholarly guidance and instruction, the monuments of ancient Rome, the vast cultural and artistic bequests of Renaissance Italy, and the social, industrial and commercial life of the Italy of today."

The students will sail from New York on the S. S. "Saxonia" on June 30, 1923. After landing at Cherbourg, they will traverse France and Switzerland, and enter Italy through the Italian lake district. They will visit the great industrial plants near Genoa and Turin, and then will travel southward to Rome, Naples and its environs, the hill-towns of Perugia and Assisi, Florence, Bologna, Ravenna, Venice, the Italian battlefields in the Dolomites, the redeemed city of Trento, and Milan. They will return to this country on September 4.

The "faculty" will include Dr. Angelo Lipari of the Department of Romance Languages at the University of Wisconsin, as lecturer on modern Italy and as instructor in the Italian language; Professor Edward B. T. Spencer, six years a resident in Rome and now professor at Grinnell College, as lecturer on ancient Rome and classic art; Joseph Hopkins Smith of the Friends' School, Brooklyn, as lecturer on Italian medieval history, and other members of college and university faculties.

ANNUAL FUN FEST DRAWS HUGE CROWD

University Night in Its Thirteenth Year Proves to Be More Popular Than Ever.

PUT ON AT TWO THEATERS

Large Committee headed by Raymond Eller Presents Rollicking Show—Shun Is Sold.

The thirteenth annual University Night performance was presented Saturday evening at the Temple and Orpheum Theaters simultaneously. Nine acts, planned for the enjoyment of the students, exposed the idiosyncracies of both students and faculty. Both houses were crowded with students, rollicking with laughter at the jokes played on their classmates.

At the Orpheum, the Engineers were the first act. They presented "The Lyin' Meter," a mind-reading transit, which they turned on the great and the near-great, thus revealing the trend of their thoughts. Keith Tyler, Joe Zimmerman, and Robert Slaymaker gave an act entitled "A Musical Mixture." The Delian Literary Society came on the program with "Day by Day" a Coney extravaganza. Marshall and Moore in "Who's Who and Why" were next in the program in original lyrics to a "shun" time.

The military department provided a wooden soldier drill. This is a stunt seldom attempted, but it was well staged at the University Night performance. Bill Wright, Arvid Eyrh, and John Pike in a skit entitled "I Ain't Been Done Right By," were decidedly humorous.

The Corncohs, men's pep society, gave a minstrel show entitled "Scandals of 1923" in which true incidents of campus life were depicted, much to the enjoyment of the crowd. The Laws staged, for the declaration of the audience, the trials and tribulations of the attendant on the completion of such program. "Writing the Law Skit" was the title of their offering.

Theta Sigma Phi, honorary professional journalistic fraternity for women, gave sidelights on the most outstanding incidents of life on the campus in their skit "The Morning Shun," the background for which was formed by the five columns of a newspaper patterned after the "Evening Shun" published by Sigma Delta Chi, journalistic fraternity for men, which was sold immediately after the skit by the women's society.

At the Temple, the order of the skits was somewhat different, the Delians having the position immediately after the prologue, when prizes were awarded in the University Night contest to determine the direction of the progress of the gigantic cat. The Delians were followed by "Bili" Wright and his assistants, and the Corncohs had the third place on the program. Theta Sigma Phi followed the Laws, and immediately preceded the Musical Mixture. The Military Drill has seventh place, and Marsi and Moore came next. The Engineers, with their elaborate equipment, were the final act on the Temple, and after their act, the "shun" was put on sale.

A large committee worked for the last few weeks in whipping the program into shape for presentation. This committee, under the auspices of the University Y. M. C. A., was headed by Raymond Eller. The property manager for the production was Joe Ryons, and William G. Alstadt was business manager. Barbara Wiggenhorn and Charles Mitchell served as secretary and publicity manager. J. W. Wolfe served on the committee in an advisory capacity. Others who assisted in the staging of the performance were: Gladys Mickel, Herbert Brownell, Irma McGowan, Merritt E. Benson, Bernice Scoville, Oliver Maxwell, Grant Lantz, and Katherine Matchett.

Prof. J. Warshaw of the department of modern languages has been invited to become a member of the third session of the Institute of Politics, at Williamstown, Mass., next summer. The conferences will consider "The Outstanding International Problems of the American Continent." The institute will meet from July 26 to August 25. President Harry A. Garfield of Williams College is chairman of the board of administration.

Will Begin Campaign for Children's Home

Nebraska Children's Home Society will conduct a campaign for $40,000 with which to erect a new receiving home where homeless children can be cared for. The drive in this county will be launched March 15.

This society has carried on its work among children for thirty years. During the past year more than 2,000 children have been placed in homes through the efforts of the society. Homeless children are taken into receiving homes and prepared for adoption. Suitable homes are located for them where they are visited each year by representatives of the Society until they are twenty-one years of age.

STRICT STUDY RULES KEEP DOWN FAILURES

Dean of Women Compiles Figures to Show Better Results from Supervision.

University Publicity Office.

Scholarship delinquencies among women students of the University of Nebraska for the first semester were mainly among those not living under strict rules—that is, who are not living in dormitory or sorority houses. This fact is evident from statistics compiled by Dean Amanda Happer in dormitories and sorority houses the number of delinquents is comparatively small. It is among women living at home or in rooming houses that delinquency is highest. Furthermore, among women who are working their way, wholly or in part, through the University, there are but

As a whole, the number of delinquencies the second half of the semester is smaller than for the first half. Of 138 dormitory girls, for example, there were 23 delinquent at mid-semester, while only 9 of the same number were delinquent at the end of the semester. Of 414 sorority-house women, 60 were delinquent at mid-semester, and 54 at the end of the semester. Among the 170 resident sorority girls 33 were delinquent the first quarter in comparison with 45 the second quarter.

In scholarship delinquency among women students in roominghouses, there is a corresponding increase. Of the total number of resident women students (that is, those working for their room and board; non-sorority resident girls; and girls living with their own families or with private families), 17 per cent more delinquent at the end of the first semester.

The important fact to be noted is the higher scholarship standard among students who live in organized houses where study rules are enforced—that is, in dormitories and sorority houses. Where there are no rules for study, delinquencies increase. Many of the reported delinquencies are "incomplete" and may be easily removed; but they are evidences of the lack of supervision of study. The women who observe the rules are, for the most part, those who keep the standards high.

Prof. O. R. Martin of the College of Business Administration addressed the Nebraska Retail Hardware Association at its Omaha meeting, February 9, on "Cost Accounting."

Dr. Charles Fordyce of the department of measurements and research of Teachers College addressed two important meetings in Lincoln last week. On Monday evening he addressed the boy leaders at their regular meeting in the Y. M. C. A. on "Salient Facts in Boy Life"; Friday evening he addressed the fathers and Boy Scouts at their annual banquet at the Scottish Rite Temple on "The Psychology of the Adolescent Boy."

A Lenten Thought for Every Day

Our Father, Lord of all Being, we realize how limited we are in comprehension, but we would know the meaning of life and the reality that lies back of the things we see. Strengthen thou, O God, our understanding; help us to see thy power in the universe above us, and to know that in thee all things more and have their being. When we become lost in the mazes of our own thinking and confused in the ways of men, may thy Spirit interpret truth to us, and lead us, through Christ. Amen.

ANNUAL COMPET FOR RED-HEADS IN ORDER

Golden Fleece to Celebrate Dazzling Event with Luncheon and Award of Prizes.

The local order of the Golden Fleece, now nationally celebrated, is to hold that dazzling event, its annual luncheon on Saturday, March 3, at Ellen Smith Hall. Tickets are in charge of Betty Kennedy (B 3580), and may be had of her or of some member of her committee. The committee consists of: Carolyn Airy (B 3477), Dorothy Teal (F 4747), Lorna Plimpton (B 1885), Gwendolen Damerrell (B 3587), Frances Carrothers (L 7063), Margaret Gettys, (S. S. 106), Marjorie Brown (F 5151), Louise Pound (Law 102).

The same eligibility rules prevail as in former years. Any girl student at the University of Nebraska having tresses falling within the range of the twenty-seven shades may belong and attend, provided she is not a "chemical"! Squash, carrot, pumpkin, orange, vermilion, brick, ruby, scarlet, flamingo, garnet, crimson, maroon, wine, copper, auburn, henna, mahogany, magneta, sorrel, strawberry roan, russet, carise, carnation, salmon, apricot, shrimp pink and pink. Not only does the committee bar "chemicals" and "medicinals" but it also has an eye to the use of "golden glint". Those having hues of lemon, taffy, or putty, at one end of the prism are barred as "nears", and those having hair of "insipid brown" are ruled out at the other end. The unmistakable gory tinge must be there!

The grand sweep-stakes prize will be awarded, as customarily, to the girl having the most fiery locks—a prize held for three years by Betty Kennedy of Omaha, who is soon to have now bobbed her prize-winning locks, and the judges may look askance at bobs, her competitors will have an excellent chance this year. Prizes will also be awarded to the girl with the most fascinating red tresses (holders of this prize are Vivian Hansen and Della Perrin); and to the girl with the greatest quantity of red locks (present holder, Isabel Fouts); and to the girl with the most fascinating freckles—hitherto Marie McGerr. There are new students with promising speckled mugs in school this year, and Miss McGerr may have no easy time keeping her championship. A fifth prize to be awarded for the first time, will go to the red-haired girl having the most fascinating green eyes. Consolation prizes will go to the girl having hair nearest "lemon" (present holder Vivian Junn), and to the owner of the crown of red locks nearest brown, (present holder, Marjorie Brown).

As at preceding luncheons of this celebrated order, an impressive array of auburn haired judges will be imported from Omaha and elsewhere, who promise to select impartially from the field of contestants. Eligibles are urged to see at once some member of the committee and secure their tickets.

Under the direction of Harry Lewton of the department of pharmacy, wild sassafras plants, sent from Kentucky, are to be grown in the Pharmaceutical Drug Garden in order to ascertain whether their production on a commercial scale in Nebraska is practicable.

Prof. T. J. Thompson and Gerald J. Leuch of the department of chemistry contributed to the December number of the Journal of the American Chemical Society an article on "Preparation of Benzyl Esters of Some High-Boiling Acids."

Girls taking Home Economics having classes at the College of Agriculture on Tuesday, cannot vote on the city campus. All men taking agriculture must vote on the agricultural campus.

Interest in the elections is slight. There is no competition for the positions of freshman president, sophomore president, and sophomore member of the Publication Board. More candidates have filed for Ivy orator than any other position. Cecil Strimple was selected from six candidates by the senior Law class to be its candidate for the Ivy Day orator-ship.

Cecil Strimple, candidate for Ivy Day orator is a member of Phi Alpha Delta, and is a senior in the Law college. He was on the Varsity debating team in 1920 and is a member of Delta Sigma Rho, honorary debating fraternity.

Byron Genoways, candidate for the same position, is a law student and member of Phi Alpha Delta.

His opponent, Tudor Gairdner, is a member of Sigma Nu, Vikings, Iron Sphinx, the Pershing Rifles and the inter-fraternity council, and was vice president of his class the first semester of this year.

Normal Cramb and Jack Whitten are the candidates for Senior member of the Publication Board. Cramb is serving on the board appointively this year. Whitten is a member of Beta Theta Pi, and of Phi Delta Phi.

The presidency of the junior class lies between Carl J. Peterson, a member of Pi Kappa Phi, who played football two years, playing center, and Dietrich Dirks, a member of the Glee Club, who sings in the University Quartet.

Charles F. Sperry, Roland Eastabrooks and Willard O. Usher are the candidates for junior member of the Publication Board. Sperry is a member of Phi Kappa Psi and is a member of the Nebraskan and Awwgan staffs. Eastabrooks is a member of Alpha Tau Omega, the Corncohs, and is on the Cornhusker staff. Usher is a member of Alpha Sigma Phi, is on the Varsity ball squad and is a Corncohs.
