HIGH SCHOOL TEAMS READY FOR TOURNEY

Two Hundred Inter-scholastic Teams Coming to Lincoln for Annual Meet.

The annual pilgrimage of the high school basketball teams is causing quite a stir in the camps throughout the state of Nebraska. Each year this great Mecca of the hoop sport men attracts hundreds of athletes that pit themselves against unknown teams to see whether this team of any other team shall take home the coveted honors.

More than two hundred high school teams have entered the Nebraska high school basketball tournament, which will be held at Lincoln, March 8, 9 and 10, according to announcement made Monday morning from the office of W. G. Brooks, secretary of the high school control board.

Entries closed at midnight Saturday and Monday morning 208 entries had been received and more were expected in the Monday afternoon and Tuesday mails.

Last year the little city of Sutton, a dark horse in the major class, came to Lincoln and calmly walked home with honors that go with the winner in class A. This year other teams have shown up well and it is probable that some other team will walk in and carry away the cup. Harvard defeated the 1922 champions in the Clay county tourney and proved to the fans that they were to be considered when the doors open. Lincoln will make a good bid for high honors with Sutherland, North Platte, Fremont, and Beatrice, and many other good teams throughout the state forging toward the top looking for a place to that will bring honor to the team.

Tournaments are being held over the state to feel out the strong contenders in the big swim and they are good indications of the possibilities of all the teams when it comes to meeting on the Nebraska floors.

At the Wayne tourney in northeast

Nebraska, Bloomfield and Wayne have been showing exceptional talent. Norfolk and Winnebago have also been hitting the hoop rather consistently.

In the northwest, Ainsworth has been playing a good game and they show promise of getting a good place in the big tournament.

With the opening gun but a few days away and the interest running higher than ever the high schoolers are seething with anxiety to get a chance at their opponents. Every team is coming with the idea in mind of winning honors and there will undoubtedly be some of the best display of basketball that has ever been seen in Lincoln.

State Senator C. B. Casperson, Ferlic, was appointed regent for the eleventh district, succeeding Peter Elmon, Superior. Mr. Casperson is engaged in the lumber business, has been a member of the Polk county board for fifteen years, and was a member of the state assembly in 1917.

Both were appointed for six year terms.

One hundred and eight correspondence "credit" courses are given by the University Extension division of the University. They are listed in the February number of the University Extension News. For this work students may register at any time. Last year there were 426 registered.

menting with zeolites—rare earths, he called them. He found that often we found that the best zeolite was a green clay from New Jersey."

The zeolite system is in use in the Evans Laundry, he stated, and it saves seventy-five per cent of the soap that was once used.

"This soap business. You can buy soap from three cents to twenty-three cents—now eighteen. The eighteen cent soap is Ivory. And they fill that soap with resin and volcanic ash. The Proctor and Gamble people use volcanic ash deposit by the car load from Nebraska. They bought it for a song because they couldn't raise corn on it. Now they raise corn on it. Take cosmetics for example. Powder costs about four cents a pound without perfume. With it it costs thirty-five cents a quarter of a pound.

"I enjoy working. There's a sport in it. There's a game in trading ideas. Two travelers met on the road. Each had a dollar. They traded, and they still had a dollar. O. J. Ferguson and I met and we traded ideas. Then we each had two ideas. Chloride of lime was a poor bleaching substitute for the sun, so we began to use chlorine in drums from the plant at Niagara Falls. O. J. Said to me, "Those rheostats are nothing but chlorine generators." And they are. We use them now."

FOR THE THIRD CONSECUTIVE YEAR

ONLY THE DIAL

among America's leading magazines has been awarded the rating of

100%

for the short stories of distinction it has published. Edward J. O'Brien, the American authority on the short story, in his annual review of American magazine fiction recently published in the Boston Transcript, again rated THE DIAL above every other magazine in America for the percentage of short stories of distinction it has published during the past year.

Every year Mr O'Brien makes a survey of the fiction published by American magazines, and his appraisal is generally accepted as authoritative by students of literature. The best of the stories selected by Mr O'Brien are annually republished in book form.

THE DIAL was first awarded the rating of 100% in 1920, at the end of its first year as a magazine of art and letters. Again in 1921 THE DIAL headed Mr O'Brien's list, and now in 1922, for the third consecutive year, THE DIAL has achieved the highest rating in Mr O'Brien's classification.

This record is particularly significant in view of the fact that Mr O'Brien selects for his percentage ratings only stories of unusual merit and distinction. THE DIAL's record of 100% means, therefore, that since 1920 it has not published a single mediocre story.

This record becomes all the more remarkable when it is realized that THE DIAL is not exclusively a fiction magazine. Short stories form but a part of the material in each issue. The poetry, essays, criticism, and reproductions of the fine arts published by THE DIAL are equally distinctive. The editorial policy of THE DIAL is directed towards achieving distinction in all lines. THE DIAL's better known contributors include the most distinguished writers of Europe and America. A new name will shortly be added to this notable list of contributors—whose latest novel will be published in the spring issues of THE DIAL.

Gerhart Hauptmann
