How many people actually understand that the College of Agriculture is a part of the University? The number is surprisingly small as shown by the ridiculous questions sometimes asked of Ag students by undergraduates in other colleges.

Some confuse the College of Agriculture with the School of Agriculture which is the high school of the College founded for the purpose of giving agricultural training to high school students. Although the session of the School lasts only six months, the institution is an accredited high school.

Ag students are proud of the representation which they have in University athletics and point to this record as one part of their program of co-operation with the other colleges. The captain of the wrestling team is an "Ag". One-half of the men on the cross country team are registered in the "cow college." From the ranks of the Ag students also come five track men, three or four candidates for the wrestling and swimming teams. The Ags also boast representation on the football and baseball squads. Yes the College of Agriculture is certainly a part of the University.

The big student day at the Ag College—the day of Farmers' Fair—not only advertises the College throughout the state but it advertises the whole University. Farmers' Fair is sponsored each year primarily to let University students and the University community find out about all the activities of the College. The Ags are at their best on Farmers' Fair day. Every student should make a special effort to take advantage of the opportunity offered to "know the Ag College."

The College of Agriculture extends to every student and member of the faculty of the University a welcome to Farmers' Fair tomorrow. Extensive plans to make the Fair an all-University fun-fest have been carried to completion. The beautiful and spacious Ag College campus will be the scene of all-day festivities. Every possible means of entertainment has been provided by student committees.

There will be the gayest of carnival attractions—pink lemonade, pop-corn, merry-go-round, dancing, fortune-telling and clown performances. The Wild West show has all the earmarks of Frontier Days. Nebraska meets Missouri in baseball in the afternoon. All departments of the College are offering exhibits, demonstrations and short programs. It's a gala day.

But Farmers' Fair means far more than a holiday. It is a day especially for students on the city campus to become acquainted with the broad development and growth of the Ag College. All the natural beauty of the Ag campus, all the splendor of the buildings may be seen for the first time by those who have never seen the Ags in action.

Farmers' Fair is a big event for the Ags and therefore is a big event for the whole University.

Numerous student activities are scheduled for this week. Almost every student will be interested in more than one of the events scheduled for today and tomorrow. Today comes the annual Kosmet Klub production, a baseball game and a holiday for Pre-Medics. Tomorrow along with the Farmers' Fair, there comes a first-class dual track meet and another baseball game. The attractions are interesting and varied enough so that no student need mourn for lack of activities outside the class room.

That so many activities can be carried on at once shows the size of Nebraska U. If all are carried on successfully, no better example of the growing Nebraska spirit of self-sacrifice for the interests of the whole institution has been shown on the campus.

YOU'VE OFTEN NOTICED THIS
Here's a common fault of badly designed coats—a vent that splits apart. The correct design, the skillfully balanced lines of a Kirschbaum coat prevent this unsightly fault.

What a Difference

Why is it that one suit fits better than another, looks smarter and wears longer? It's the difference between good design and bad. Between quality and cheapness. Between inferior clothes and the Kirschbaum kind.
